GM, Ford Shun Union Proposal

Two-Year Pact Renewal Urged

DETROIT (AP) — General Motors Corp. and Ford Motor Co. rejected Monday night Walter P. Reuther's proposal for a three-month extension of present contracts with the United Auto Workers Union.

Both proposed instead that the present contracts be renewed for two years.

Chrysler had no immediate reply to the UAW proposal submitted to the big three auto concerns but it is expected to follow suit.

Harlow H. Curtice, president of GM, and Henry Ford II, president of Ford Motor Co., demanded long term contracts, continuing in effect provisions giving workers an annual productivity increase and cost of living allowances.

Before the start of negotiations a month ago, GM had suggested extending the present contract for two years and Curtice made it an official bargaining offer Monday.

GM's Reasoning

"Such a two-year agreement, if concluded promptly, would bring labor relations peace, and on a sound basis," Curtice said. "A three-month delay designed merely to secure for the union an additional measure of power with which to enforce its demands would make no such contribution."

The companies regarded Reuther's proposal as a move to improve his bargaining position by postponing a showdown until September when the companies go into production on 1959 model cars.

Present three-year contracts expire at the end of May.

Curtice told the union that built-in improvements in the present contract would give GM workers two annual wage increases totaling more than 14 cents an hour in addition to cost-of-living allowances and other benefits.

He said the demand made in current bargaining sessions by the UAW exceed 73 cents per hour per employe.

Union Suggests Clearance Sale

Curtice said a demand that GM pay full wages of more than 2,000 union business agents in GM plants would cost the company more than 12 million dollars a year.

Reuther dusted off a proposal rejected by the companies last fall. Then he asked the companies to cut the prices of 1958 cars by $100 and in return the union would consider going easy on wage demands. Reuther suggested Monday the companies make an unspecified reduction in prices of 1958 cars. He said the union would team up with the companies in staging a gigantic clearance sale to reduce the backlog of 850,000 unsold cars.

Stritch In Good Condition After Arm Removed

ROME (AP) — Samuel Cardinal Stritch's right arm was amputated above the elbow Monday to save his life from gangrene infection.

Pope Pius XII, who personally authorized the operation, prayed for the recovery of the 70-year-old archbishop of Chicago and granted special dispensation for him to make the sign of the cross with his left hand.

The operation lasted 35 minutes. It was performed shortly after dawn by the noted European surgeon, Dr. Pietro Valdoni, who saved the life of a seriously wounded Communist leader, Palmiro Togliatti, 10 years ago.

After the operation Cardinal Stritch's two Italian and two Chicago doctors announced: "The operation was a success, and the cardinal's condition is very good."

Doctors said the Cardinal's robust constitution gave him every chance for a successful recovery. His general good health also helped in preparing him for the emergency operation, performed in such haste that his American doctors flew to Rome without even waiting for valid passports.

Dr. Filipo Rocchi, one of his two Italian doctors, said the Cardinal might be able to leave Rome's Sanatrix Clinic in two weeks.

Late in the afternoon a spokesman for the Cardinal said his condition was normal and good and that he probably would be able to get out of bed in two or three days. The spokesman said the Cardinal had expressed gratitude for the many prayers and good wishes received from all over the world.

The Cardinal was stricken on his way to Rome by ship last week to take over his new duties as proprefect of the Roman Catholic Church's important Congregation for the Propagation of the Faith. That congregation controls the church's worldwide missionary activities. Cardinal Stritch is the first American prelate ever named by the Pope to such a post.

Cop Slugger Still At Large

WASHINGTON (AP) — A police search for an escaped Virginia convict who slugged a Maryland state trooper and stole his gun converged Monday on a wooded area east of Colesville, Md.

The area was surrounded after a policeman reported seeing the suspect, identified as Elery Landon Quillen, 22, Newport News, Va., run into the woods off the Beltsville, Md., road, east of what is known as the Woodlawn Terrace Subdivision.

The hunt for Quillen began at 2 a. m. after, police said, he and his wife Katherine, hitch-hiked into Washington.

The tractor trailer in which they rode stopped at a service station near College Park, Md. They were observed by Trooper John Kaiser and, when he started questioning them, Quillen hit the trooper with a flashlight, grabbed the officer's .38 caliber pistol, fired once and missed, and then fled.

GOP Efforts To Broaden Measure Fail

Pension-Welfare Legislation Wins 88 To 0 Approval

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate passed Monday night a bill to regulate employe pension and welfare funds after voting down repeated efforts to broaden it into a general labor control measure.

The roll call vote was 88-0.

The bill now goes to the House which already has 15 proposals on the same subject in its Labor Committee. Chairman Barden (D-NC) of the House group has said he would conduct hearings once the Senate acted.

Four days of politically charged debate preceded final senate passage. The fight was not on the welfare-pension bill itself, but on efforts to convert it into general labor legislation.

The Democratic leadership fought off all far - ranging amendments offered by Republican Leader Knowland of California and other GOP senators. But to do this it had to pledge repeatedly that an over all labor bill would be brought to the floor later.

Sponsors of the pension-welfare fund bill said amendments would kill it and thus wipe out three years' work on the legislation.

One Republican amendment was accepted by the Democratic leadership and adopted 90-0. This was a proposal by Sen. Mundt (R-SD) to make it impossible for a criminal to serve as an officer, trustee, custodian or employe of a pension or welfare plan.

Republicans generally scoffed at the idea that any general labor bill considered in June or July, when the adjournment rush is starting, would have any chance of final enactment.

In all, Republicans offered 14 other amendments to the welfare fund bill. They were beaten on the same general voting pattern with 10 to a dozen GOP senators joining practically all Democrats in opposition in most cases. About 25 other proposed amendments were dropped into the trash can.

Despite GOP derision of the pension-welfare bill as a "milktoast" measure, its sponsors said it would provide real protection to the 85 million persons now covered by about 40,000 plans. An estimated 35 million dollars is held in the various funds.

The bill would require that the funds be registered with the government and full financial reports filed on their operation.

The sponsors said the measure "is designed to deter dishonesty, mismanagement and waste by allowing public scrutiny of the financial operations of such plans."

British Explode Nuclear Device

LONDON (AP) — Britain exploded a nuclear device at high altitude Monday over its test area in the central Pacific.

A Supply Ministry statement said the test was successful but gave no details as to the type of device set off. It said first indications were that fallout would be negligible.

The government has been under heavy pressure from some factions both at home and abroad to call off its nuclear weapons tests. Prime Minister MacMillan told the House of Commons last week, however, the current series of tests is not complete and declared the program would go ahead.

Bing Crosby Stepping Out Of Entertainment Picture

NEW YORK (AP) — Bing Crosby says he's bowing out of the entertainment business—unless by an off chance some new project might catch his fancy later.

"I'm actually retiring because there's nothing I'm really keen to do," the famed crooner said in an interview in the current issue of Look magazine.

"Not that I wouldn't get back into action if something great came up and I could grab it, but right now, it doesn't look as if there is anything," he added.

Crosby, 54, and a sort of American vocal institution, said he was not making any formal announcement of his retirement, "like Dame Melba, who retired 300 times in her career."

He said he'd rather "just slip into the background; after all, something might come up."

"I just don't want to waste my time on something for which I've no enthusiasm," he said. "After all, the public is getting very selective both on movies and TV. They tear shows apart unless they're good.

"The best thing is to stay away from something you have no faith in. Otherwise, you're in trouble.

"I've managed to give, if I may be immodest, some good entertainment to the public. Unless I can maintain that standard, there is nothing for me to do but hang up the old throat spray and spend my time with Kathryn, my kids, golf, fishing—all attractive prospects to me." Kathryn is his wife.

Meany Asserts Nation Sliding Into Depression

WASHINGTON (AP) — George Meany, organized labor's top leader, said Monday the nation is sliding into a depression. He predicted unemployment will rise to about six million in June, barring some miracle.

The AFL - CIO president's gloomy appraisal came after a meeting of the federation's General Board. The board issued a statement saying neither the Republican administration nor the Democratic Congress is living up to its responsibilities to halt the recession.

The board, made up of leaders of all AFL-CIO unions, said the federal government is bound under the 1946 Employment Act to promote maximum employment, production and purchasing power.

Yet, it said: "Little has been done. As a result, the nation is threatened with a depression. Employment, production and purchasing power have dropped month after month since the recession started last summer."

"Everything indicates we're still going downhill," Meany said. "Steel production last week was 47½ per cent of capacity, the lowest in nine years. The inventory of new automobiles is just as great now if not greater than in March.

"I'm quite sure unemployment will go close to six million in June, unless some miracle happens."

Firm Halts Free Coffee Breaks

NEW YORK (AP) — American Brake Shoe Co. is breaking up the free coffee break—but the employes aren't very broken up about it.

The firm's program of two free cups of coffee every day for every employe has been stopped as an anti-recession measure designed to save $200,000 a year.

"Most of the employes think the step was sensible in the light of current business conditions," President Kempton Dunn said Monday. "They know the procedure may help prevent salary cuts."

Arctic "Open Skies" Plan Faces Red Veto

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—The United States appeared assured Monday of overwhelming support in the Security Council for its Arctic aerial inspection plan aimed at preventing massive surprise attack. But there was a possibility of a Soviet veto.

The council meets at 10 a.m. EST Tuesday to take up a U.S. resolution asking for immediate international talks on technical arrangements for regional aerial inspection. This would amount to a start toward resolving the East-West disarmament deadlock.

Eisenhower Urges Khrushchev Accept Arctic Disarm Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower called on Soviet Premier Khrushchev Monday to join in creating a military inspection zone in the arctic as a significant first step in reducing world tensions.

He also appealed to Khrushchev to reconsider Russia's opposition to East - West technical studies which would consider concrete moves to police a broader disarmament agreement, including a halt to atomic-hydrogen tests.

Eisenhower set forth this double appeal in a new message released at his vacation headquarters, Ga., a few hours before he flew back to the White House.

The 500-word Eisenhower letter went to the Kremlin only six days after Khrushchev had fired off a letter 10 times as long to the White House demanding agreement on Soviet disarmament proposals.

The swift Eisenhower reply, the latest move in their continuing public letter writing campaign, reflected the White House decision to answer more quickly to blunt Russian propaganda. Moscow advices said there was no immediate reaction from the Kremlin.

In his message last Tuesday, Khrushchev had urged Eisenhower to halt all atomic - hydrogen tests immediately without devising any specific East-West inspection plan. He also denounced flights of American atomic bombers in the far north on the ground they might trigger off a world catastrophe.

Eisenhower's reply called on Khrushchev to demonstrate the sincerity of his concern over the American bomber flights by supporting an American proposal for an international inspection system which would keep check on all military moves in the arctic region.

The United States has asked the United Nations Security Council to consider such an inspection zone, following a session where Russia sought unsuccessfully to denounce the flights as endangering world peace.

Paratroopers' Drop Canceled

FT. CAMPBELL, Ky. (AP)—Disappointed military commanders have called off for good the repeatedly postponed biggest air drop since World War II because of high winds and weather conditions.

Transport planes were winging their way here from four distant air fields for the drop when Maj. Gen. W. C. Westmoreland, commander of the 101st Airborne Division, bailed out with an aide to test the wind. It was blowing about 15 miles an hour, a little too stiff.

Shortly after bouncing to a bumpy stop on one of this base's eight drop zones, Westmoreland ordered out the red smoke pots to cancel the maneuver. It was the fifth time weather had interfered with the air drop of 5,000 paratroopers since the maneuver first was set up for last Saturday.

"I had a good landing," said Gen. Westmoreland. "But I picked up considerable wind about 15 feet from the ground."

It took six men to stop the general and his aide, Capt. Stillman Hazeltine, from being dragged across the rough terrain at this military reservation on the Kentucky-Tennessee border.

West's Big Three Study Soviet Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States, Britain and France consulted two hours Monday on a Soviet proposal to bring Poland and Czechoslovakia into preparatory talks for a possible summit conference.

The meeting at the State Department brought together Viscount Hood, minister of the British Embassy, and Charles Lucet, minister of the French Embassy with Edward L. Freers, chief of the State Department's Eastern European office.

No decisions were made, it was reported. Further talks among these three are scheduled for Tuesday.

Blasts Damage Negro School And Synagogue

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP)—Dynamite explosions damaged a Negro school and a Jewish synagogue early Monday.

The blasts occurred outside each building and resulted mainly in broken windows at the synagogue and dislocation of the roof and one wall of the James Weldon Johnson High School.

Mayor Haydon Burns said "it is quite obvious this is the work of an outsider" and asked the FBI to investigate.

The FBI, however, said it had no jurisdiction, adding it found no evidence federal law had been violated. But Fred Frohbose, FBI head, said he was maintaining liaison with Jacksonville police.

The two scenes are about four miles apart. The first blast came about 12:30 a.m., the second half an hour later.

An attempt to blow up a Jewish synagogue in Birmingham, Ala., failed when the fuse on a satchel containing 54 sticks of dynamite burned out.

The satchel was discovered by James Pruitt, 18, Negro janitor for the synagogue, Temple Beth-El, located in a busy area of office and apartment buildings.

There was no apparent reason for the fuse's failure and Harry Horwitz, administrative director of the temple, could give no explanation for the dynamite attempt.

In Florida, Gov. Leroy Collins pledged the full force of all government agencies would be used to track down the "guilty hoodlums." He called dynamitings a "serious crime against every citizen of Florida."

Burns said the explosions appeared to follow precise patterns of bombings in Miami and elsewhere.

Six weeks ago the Jewish Beth El Temple at Miami was bombed with $30,000 damage. This was on the same day a synagogue at Nashville was dynamited.

"Space Mouse" On Fatal Flight

WASHINGTON (AP) — A mouse shot skyward last week in a test missile nose cone apparently died when the space vehicle crashed prematurely in the Atlantic Ocean the Air Force said Monday.

The mouse rode in sky - high comfort on the fatal flight, nestled in a small padded compartment that had an air purifying device.

The compartment was designed with the hope the mouse would survive the rigors of the flight and would be picked up from the nose cone equipped with flotation devices for an ocean landing.

Researchers who decided to send the mouse along for the ride want to find the reaction of living organisms to such factors of space movement as weightlessness.

Great-Grandma, Beau, 29, Get Married But Skip TV

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (AP) — A great-grandmother and her 29 - year-old beau got married at last Monday with all the trappings Bloomington merchants could round up, but no television.

Although the wedding was quietly moved up from 7 p.m. to 3 p.m. to eliminate a live telecast, there were more news cameramen than wedding guests in the Van Orman Hotel.

Half a dozen neighbors and friends looked on happily as Mrs Laura Belle Wilson, 85, and handyman James Bough, 29, were married by Mayor Thomas L. Lemon.

The couple said they wanted the mayor to perform the ceremony because both are Democrats, like the mayor. But Lemon protested station WTTV's plans to telecast the wedding ceremony and persuaded the couple to change the hour.

Bough had a new dark brown suit, the gift of a merchant, for the wedding, but not the two front teeth a dentist had promised. The small denture wasn't ready in time to close the gap in his upper jaw.

Grandma Wilson, wearing the blue lace dress, white hat and purple veil provided by a dress shop, broke into the ceremony, telling Mayor Lemon: "You'll have to speak a little louder. I can't hear."

Mrs Wilson limping from a knee injury, brought along an elderly friend, Mrs. Potter, as her matron of honor.

At the last minute, Fred Goodwald, manager of the hotel dining room, had to fill in as best man. Mrs. Wilson's son, Chester Horton, 54, an Indiana University campus worker, gave her in marriage.

Big Rocket's Third Stage Doesn't Fire

Basketball-Size Sphere Falls Short Of Orbiting Speed

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — The Navy failed Monday night in an effort to fire America's fourth satellite into orbit around the earth.

The Vanguard rocket roared beautifully into space at 9:53 p.m. but minutes after it blinked out high in the Florida sky the Navy announced the third stage did not fire.

Thus the rocket failed to attain the necessary speed of at least 18,000 miles an hour to place its basketball-sized satellite into orbit.

The new satellite was equipped to gather vital information about X-rays shooting from the sun Measuring 20 inches in diameter, it contained an instrument which could measure these rays and broadcast its findings back to earth.

Rays Affect Radio

These discoveries will be of vast practical value in solving the mystery of why short-wave radio reception on earth fades out, often for hours, when solar flares erupt with the power of a million hydrogen bombs.

They may tell, also if the sun's X-rays play a part in the formation on earth of such violent storms as hurricanes and tornadoes.

The sleek 72 - foot Vanguard vaulted from its launching pad at 9:53 p.m. EST.

A few seconds after the crucial countdown reached zero the rocket quivered. Then two tiny dots of white light appeared at the base.

There followed in quick succession, a huge boiling ball of flame, which ballooned from the exhaust.

The Vanguard climbed straight up, slowly at first.

Beautiful Takeoff

It gathered momentum more and more, however, as its first stage engine poured out 27,000 pounds of thrust.

The 22,000-pound rocket climbed vertically for about 10 seconds, glowing against dark blue skies.

Its initial thrust seemed steady as it sailed aloft spitting a thin streak of flame.

At an altitude of 38 miles, the first-stage vehicle — more than half the satellite—apparently disintegrated after its fuel supply burned up. The rocket arched to a more level course almost one mile up and appeared to head toward the southeast.

Observers atop a building one mile from the site agreed the takeoff was a beautiful one.

Pleven Seeks French Cabinet

PARIS (AP) — Ex-Premier Rene Pleven notified President Rene Coty Monday night he will try to form a new government. France's 25th since World War II.

Pleven is already formulating a 10-point declaration on Algeria—the issue that caused the fall of France's last two governments—and apparently is encouraged in his talks with moderate political leaders.

Coty turned to him six days ago, after ex-Premier Georges Bidault failed in a bid to succeed outgoing Premier Felix Gaillard. Bidault's Movement refused to back the Bidault plan for an unyielding policy in North Africa. Gaillard had fallen because of his attempt to accept the U.S.-British good offices proposals for improving relations between France and Tunisia.

Pleven heads the Democratic and Socialist Resistance Union, a middle-road group with 21 members in the 595-member National Assembly.

British Oil Tanker Bombed In Indo Port

SINGAPORE (AP)—An unidentified aircraft bombed one British oil tanker and narrowly missed another Monday in the harbor at Balikpapan, Borneo. The 12,278-ton San Flaviano burned and had to be abandoned.

The 50 - man crew of the San Flaviano was picked up by the other vessel, the 8,139-ton Daronia. Some of the crewmen were reported injured and suffering from shock.

The two ships had stopped at the Indonesian port on the island with oil from the Persian Gulf for Shell Co. refineries.

The office of the commissioner general in Singapore said if any protest is to be lodged it will be done by the British Embassy in Jakarta, Indonesia.

The board, made up of leaders of all AFL-CIO unions, said the federal government is bound under the 1946 Employment Act to promote maximum employment, production and purchasing power.

Yet, it said: "Little has been done. As a result, the nation is threatened with a depression. Employment, production and purchasing power have dropped month after month since the recession started last summer."

"Everything indicates we're still going downhill," Meany said. "Steel production last week was 47½ per cent of capacity, the lowest in nine years. The inventory of new automobiles is just as great now if not greater than in March.

"I'm quite sure unemployment will go close to six million in June, unless some miracle happens."

Firm Halts Free Coffee Breaks

NEW YORK (AP) — American Brake Shoe Co. is breaking up the free coffee break—but the employes aren't very broken up about it.

The firm's program of two free cups of coffee every day for every employe has been stopped as an anti-recession measure designed to save $200,000 a year.

"Most of the employes think the step was sensible in the light of current business conditions," President Kempton Dunn said Monday. "They know the procedure may help prevent salary cuts."

Arctic "Open Skies" Plan Faces Red Veto

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—The United States appeared assured Monday of overwhelming support in the Security Council for its Arctic aerial inspection plan aimed at preventing massive surprise attack. But there was a possibility of a Soviet veto.

The council meets at 10 a.m. EST Tuesday to take up a U.S. resolution asking for immediate international talks on technical arrangements for regional aerial inspection. This would amount to a start toward resolving the East-West disarmament deadlock.

Eisenhower Urges Khrushchev Accept Arctic Disarm Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower called on Soviet Premier Khrushchev Monday to join in creating a military inspection zone in the arctic as a significant first step in reducing world tensions.

He also appealed to Khrushchev to reconsider Russia's opposition to East - West technical studies which would consider concrete moves to police a broader disarmament agreement, including a halt to atomic-hydrogen tests.

Eisenhower set forth this double appeal in a new message released at his vacation headquarters, Ga., a few hours before he flew back to the White House.

The 500-word Eisenhower letter went to the Kremlin only six days after Khrushchev had fired off a letter 10 times as long to the White House demanding agreement on Soviet disarmament proposals.

The swift Eisenhower reply, the latest move in their continuing public letter writing campaign, reflected the White House decision to answer more quickly to blunt Russian propaganda. Moscow advices said there was no immediate reaction from the Kremlin.

In his message last Tuesday, Khrushchev had urged Eisenhower to halt all atomic - hydrogen tests immediately without devising any specific East-West inspection plan. He also denounced flights of American atomic bombers in the far north on the ground they might trigger off a world catastrophe.

Eisenhower's reply called on Khrushchev to demonstrate the sincerity of his concern over the American bomber flights by supporting an American proposal for an international inspection system which would keep check on all military moves in the arctic region.

The United States has asked the United Nations Security Council to consider such an inspection zone, following a session where Russia sought unsuccessfully to denounce the flights as endangering world peace.

Paratroopers' Drop Canceled

FT. CAMPBELL, Ky. (AP)—Disappointed military commanders have called off for good the repeatedly postponed biggest air drop since World War II because of high winds and weather conditions.

Transport planes were winging their way here from four distant air fields for the drop when Maj. Gen. W. C. Westmoreland, commander of the 101st Airborne Division, bailed out with an aide to test the wind. It was blowing about 15 miles an hour, a little too stiff.

Shortly after bouncing to a bumpy stop on one of this base's eight drop zones, Westmoreland ordered out the red smoke pots to cancel the maneuver. It was the fifth time weather had interfered with the air drop of 5,000 paratroopers since the maneuver first was set up for last Saturday.

"I had a good landing," said Gen. Westmoreland. "But I picked up considerable wind about 15 feet from the ground."

It took six men to stop the general and his aide, Capt. Stillman Hazeltine, from being dragged across the rough terrain at this military reservation on the Kentucky-Tennessee border.

West's Big Three Study Soviet Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States, Britain and France consulted two hours Monday on a Soviet proposal to bring Poland and Czechoslovakia into preparatory talks for a possible summit conference.

The meeting at the State Department brought together Viscount Hood, minister of the British Embassy, and Charles Lucet, minister of the French Embassy with Edward L. Freers, chief of the State Department's Eastern European office.

No decisions were made, it was reported. Further talks among these three are scheduled for Tuesday.

"Space Mouse" On Fatal Flight

WASHINGTON (AP) — A mouse shot skyward last week in a test missile nose cone apparently died when the space vehicle crashed prematurely in the Atlantic Ocean the Air Force said Monday.

The mouse rode in sky - high comfort on the fatal flight, nestled in a small padded compartment that had an air purifying device.

The compartment was designed with the hope the mouse would survive the rigors of the flight and would be picked up from the nose cone equipped with flotation devices for an ocean landing.

Researchers who decided to send the mouse along for the ride want to find the reaction of living organisms to such factors of space movement as weightlessness.

Great-Grandma, Beau, 29, Get Married But Skip TV

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (AP) — A great-grandmother and her 29 - year-old beau got married at last Monday with all the trappings Bloomington merchants could round up, but no television.

Although the wedding was quietly moved up from 7 p.m. to 3 p.m. to eliminate a live telecast, there were more news cameramen than wedding guests in the Van Orman Hotel.

Half a dozen neighbors and friends looked on happily as Mrs. Laura Belle Wilson, 85, and handyman James Bough, 29, were married by Mayor Thomas L. Lemon.

The couple said they wanted the mayor to perform the ceremony because both are Democrats, like the mayor. But Lemon protested station WTTV's plans to telecast the wedding ceremony and persuaded the couple to change the hour.

Bough had a new dark brown suit, the gift of a merchant, for the wedding, but not the two front teeth a dentist had promised. The small denture wasn't ready in time to close the gap in his upper jaw.

Grandma Wilson, wearing the blue lace dress, white hat and purple veil provided by a dress shop, broke into the ceremony, telling Mayor Lemon: "You'll have to speak a little louder. I can't hear."

Mrs Wilson limping from a knee injury, brought along an elderly friend, Mrs. Potter, as her matron of honor.

At the last minute, Fred Goodwald, manager of the hotel dining room, had to fill in as best man. Mrs. Wilson's son, Chester Horton, 54, an Indiana University campus worker, gave her in marriage.

Blasts Damage Negro School And Synagogue

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP)—Dynamite explosions damaged a Negro school and a Jewish synagogue early Monday.

The blasts occurred outside each building and resulted mainly in broken windows at the synagogue and dislocation of the roof and one wall of the James Weldon Johnson High School.

Mayor Haydon Burns said "it is quite obvious this is the work of an outsider" and asked the FBI to investigate.

The FBI, however, said it had no jurisdiction, adding it found no evidence federal law had been violated. But Fred Frohbose, FBI head, said he was maintaining liaison with Jacksonville police.

The two scenes are about four miles apart. The first blast came about 12:30 a.m., the second half an hour later.

An attempt to blow up a Jewish synagogue in Birmingham, Ala., failed when the fuse on a satchel containing 54 sticks of dynamite burned out.

The satchel was discovered by James Pruitt, 18, Negro janitor for the synagogue, Temple Beth-El, located in a busy area of office and apartment buildings.

There was no apparent reason for the fuse's failure and Harry Horwitz, administrative director of the temple, could give no explanation for the dynamite attempt.

In Florida, Gov. Leroy Collins pledged the full force of all government agencies would be used to track down the "guilty hoodlums." He called dynamitings a "serious crime against every citizen of Florida."

Burns said the explosions appeared to follow precise patterns of bombings in Miami and elsewhere.

Six weeks ago the Jewish Beth El Temple at Miami was bombed with $30,000 damage. This was on the same day a synagogue at Nashville was dynamited.

Big Rocket's Third Stage Doesn't Fire

Basketball-Size Sphere Falls Short Of Orbiting Speed

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — The Navy failed Monday night in an effort to fire America's fourth satellite into orbit around the earth.

The Vanguard rocket roared beautifully into space at 9:53 p.m. but minutes after it blinked out high in the Florida sky the Navy announced the third stage did not fire.

Thus the rocket failed to attain the necessary speed of at least 18,000 miles an hour to place its basketball-sized satellite into orbit.

The new satellite was equipped to gather vital information about X-rays shooting from the sun Measuring 20 inches in diameter, it contained an instrument which could measure these rays and broadcast its findings back to earth.

Rays Affect Radio

These discoveries will be of vast practical value in solving the mystery of why short-wave radio reception on earth fades out, often for hours, when solar flares erupt with the power of a million hydrogen bombs.

They may tell, also if the sun's X-rays play a part in the formation on earth of such violent storms as hurricanes and tornadoes.

The sleek 72 - foot Vanguard vaulted from its launching pad at 9:53 p.m. EST.

A few seconds after the crucial countdown reached zero the rocket quivered. Then two tiny dots of white light appeared at the base.

There followed in quick succession, a huge boiling ball of flame, which ballooned from the exhaust.

The Vanguard climbed straight up, slowly at first.

Beautiful Takeoff

It gathered momentum more and more, however, as its first stage engine poured out 27,000 pounds of thrust.

The 22,000-pound rocket climbed vertically for about 10 seconds, glowing against dark blue skies.

Its initial thrust seemed steady as it sailed aloft spitting a thin streak of flame.

At an altitude of 38 miles, the first-stage vehicle — more than half the satellite—apparently disintegrated after its fuel supply burned up. The rocket arched to a more level course almost one mile up and appeared to head toward the southeast.

Observers atop a building one mile from the site agreed the takeoff was a beautiful one.

Pleven Seeks French Cabinet

PARIS (AP) — Ex-Premier Rene Pleven notified President Rene Coty Monday night he will try to form a new government, France's 25th since World War II.

Pleven is already formulating a 10-point declaration on Algeria—the issue that caused the fall of France's last two governments—and apparently is encouraged in his talks with moderate political leaders.

Coty turned to him six days ago, after ex-Premier Georges Bidault failed in a bid to succeed outgoing Premier Felix Gaillard. Bidault's Movement refused to back the Bidualt plan for an unyielding policy in North Africa. Gaillard had fallen because of his attempt to accept the U.S.-British good offices proposals for improving relations between France and Tunisia.

Pleven heads the Democratic and Socialist Resistance Union, a middle-road group with 21 members in the 595-member National Assembly.

British Oil Tanker Bombed In Indo Port

SINGAPORE (AP)—An unidentified aircraft bombed one British oil tanker and narrowly missed another Monday in the harbor at Balikpapan, Borneo. The 12,278-ton San Flaviano burned and had to be abandoned.

The 50 - man crew of the San Flaviano was picked up by the other vessel, the 8,139-ton Daronia. Some of the crewmen were reported injured and suffering from shock.

The two ships had stopped at the Indonesian port on the island with oil from the Persian Gulf for Shell Co. refineries.

The office of the commissioner general in Singapore said if any protest is to be lodged it will be done by the British Embassy in Jakarta, Indonesia.

Gen. Twining Supports Ike's Defense Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — The chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, Gen. Nathan F. Twining, went to bat for President Eisenhower's defense reorganization plan Monday —and was accused of asking Congress for a dangerous blank check.

Chairman Vinson (D-Ga) and several other Democrats on the House Armed Services Committee shot sharp questions at the Air Force general about the proposed Pentagon shakeup.

Twining told the committee, which is holding hearings on the reorganization bill, it might be possible for a combined staff of military planners to become an all-powerful general staff unless Congress put a limit on its size and authority.

But he played down the idea there might develop in this country something like the "notorious," as he put it, German general staff of World Wars I and II.

As a matter of fact, Twining said, even the German general staff has been overrated as a military factor. He said the allied victory in World War II would have been much less certain if the German generals, rather than Adolf Hitler and his advisers who dominated the general staff, had been allowed to make the military decisions.

Vinson declared neither Twining nor Secretary of Defense McElroy has made it plain how much the joint chiefs' staff would be enlarged under the proposed reorganization. The increase, testimony showed, would be from 200 to about 400 men.

"You are coming up here and asking for a blank check," Vinson said.

"We don't expect a blank check," Twining replied.

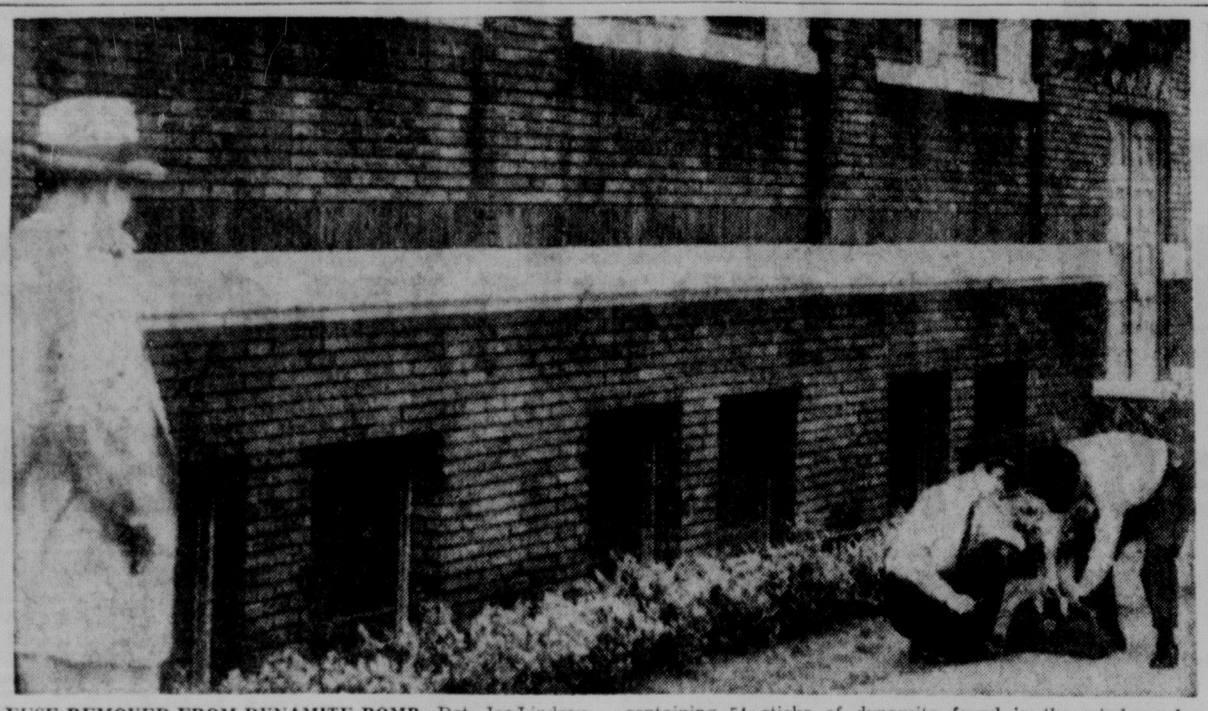

"Well, we don't expect to give it to you," Vinson countered.

Twining said the Eisenhower plan would make certain none of the military services could pull its troops out of a joint force.

Heikkila Immunity Order Signed By Judge

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Federal District Judge Edward P. Murphy signed an order Monday restraining the U. S. Immigration Service from taking into custody of or deporting William Heikkila pending final determination of his appeal.

Heikkila, an alien and an admitted former, longtime Communist, was picked up April 18 and flown to Finland, where he was born. The Immigration Service, after the case had been widely publicized, returned him at government expense a week later.

Schweitzer Urges Summit Parley To Ban A-Weapons

OSLO, Norway (AP) — Dr. Albert Schweitzer urged Monday night that Britain, the United States and Russia negotiate at a summit conference for the renunciation of nuclear weapons. Discussion on other disarmament questions, including controls for the disposal of nuclear weapons should come later, he said.

His statement was one of a series of three by the 83-year-old missionary, surgeon and Nobel Prize winner for 1952. In two other statements he urged the ending of nuclear tests, and declared the danger of atomic war is greater than ever. The Nobel Institute in Norway distributed the statements to 80 countries.

"It would be fitting if those who have the authority to take the responsibility, and not those who have only nominal authority and who cannot move an inch from their instructions, would confer together," Dr. Schweitzer said.

Only the highest personalities of the three nuclear powers together with their experts and advisors should be seated at such a conference, he said, and only questions that have to do directly with the renunciation of nuclear weapons should be discussed.

Outlawing of nuclear weapons, he continued, would restore the reality of time and distance.

"The Soviet Union and the United States, in spite of the vast distance that separate them, cash menace one another in as frightful a manner as though they were actually next to each other," he said. "They are not neighbors, but are in constant fear of their lives every minute. But if nuclear arms no longer exist the proximity factor would be made less explosive."

McCloskey Quits 4th District Race

BALTIMORE (AP) — Maryland's mixed-up political situation in the Fourth Congressional District was given another stir Monday. James B. McCloskey withdrew as an active candidate for the Republican nomination.

His action left a two-man race for the GOP nomination between Pleasonton L. Conquest III, who has the backing of the city Republican organization, and Louis W. Collier, who lives in the Second District but is running in the Fourth.

The Fourth District lies wholly within Baltimore City.

Man Who Called Winnie Amateur Artist Resigns

CHICAGO (AP) — Daniel Catton Rich, who has been involved in a controversy over showing Winston Churchill's paintings, resigned Monday as director of the Art Institute of Chicago.

His resignation had nothing to do with the controversy, he said. He is leaving to become director of the Worcester, Mass., Art Museum. Trustees of the Art Institue accepted the resignation.

In Worcester he will replace the late Francis Henry Taylor who earlier had been with the New York Metropolitan Museum of Art. Taylor died in November 1957.

Rich will assume his new duties about Sept. 15.

Last week Rich refused to approve exhibition in the Art Institute of a traveling collection of 35 paintings by Sir Winston Churchill. Rich's position was that Churchill was an amateur whose work did not meet the rigid standards of the institute.

Other societies took issue with Rich and offered to have the British statesman's work shown elsewhere in Chicago.

Rich, 54, came to the Art Institute in 1927 as editor of the institute's Bulletin. He was elevated to director in 1945 and was named a trustee in 1955.

Nixon Praised And Criticized In Montevideo

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay (AP) — Vice President Nixon set out on a good will tour of South America Monday with mingled shouts of praise and yells of animosity ringing in his ears. He beamed at both alike.

As Nixon's car moved into the city from Carrasco Airport about 40 students from Uruguay's National University chanted "out with Nixon!" They hurled leaflets condemning the U. S. vice president as a representative of "North American imperialism."

Unperturbed, Nixon waved from the car and hurried on into the city for a friendlier reception.

The demonstration was sponsored by the Federation of University Students of Uruguay, described as a Communist front organization.

Despite the discordant note, the main chorus welling up for Nixon was friendly. A crowd of about 500 greeted him at the airport while a 21-gun salute was fired.

Ledo Arroyo Torres, president of Uruguay's General Assembly, and U. S. Ambassador Robert F. Woodward met Nixon and his wife Pat.

Appeals Court Deals Faubus Another Rebuff

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Gov. Orval E. Faubus of Arkansas lost in the Federal Court of Appeals Monday his fight in the Little Rock integration dispute. He planned an appeal to the U.S. Supreme Court.

The appeals court censured the governor for calling out National Guard troops to keep nine Negro children out of Central High School there last fall.

If permitted to stand, the court said, such a course could lead only to a complete breakdown of government.

Faubus' appeal from a Federal District Court injunction against interference with integration at the high school was rejected unanimously by the three - judge court.

The appellate court also rejected appeals in two parallel cases in which the federal government's use of troops to enforce integration was challenged.

The racial controversy drew intentional attention last fall, and the Arkansas governor became the storm center when school authorities sent the Negroes home in the face of mob action.

Faubus withdrew the Arkansas National Guardsmen under the federal court injunction. The Negro children were slipped into the school by a side entrance but were sent home the same day when whites rioted outside the building.

President Eisenhower ordered paratroopers of the 101st Airborne Division dispatched by plane to Little Rock. He also federalized the Arkansas guardsmen.

Troops, with fixed bayonets stood guard at the school, even escorting the Negro students into the building at first. Federal troops still are on duty at Little Rock.

W.Va. Marbles Champ Drowns

By The Associated Press

High water in small streams and landslides caused by heavy weekend rains blocked highways, closed some schools and claimed the life of a marbles champion Monday in southwestern West Virginia.

Menis Adkins, 15, of Midkiff drowned while trying to swim in the backwater of Nine Mile Creek near his Lincoln County home.

Adkins won the Tri-State Marbles Tournament in Huntington and finished fourth in the national tournament at Wildwood, N.J., last year.

Adkins had walked a child from his home around the backed up water to an uncle's house. He told persons at the house he didn't want to walk back all the way around the water and would swim across. He got about half way across and sank.

Lincoln, Logan and Wayne counties appeared to be hardest hit by the rains.

Lone Bandit Robs Pa. Bank

EAST BERLIN, Pa. (AP)—A lone bandit Monday robbed the East Berlin National Bank here in the center of this Adams County community of 1,000 and escaped in a car with almost $3,000.

State police set up roadblocks and concentrated their search for the suspect in the area of York in which direction the bandit was last seen heading.

Charles Spangler, a resident of East Berlin and assistant cashier at the bank, said the man was wearing dark glasses and carrying what appeared to be a .38 calibre automatic pistol.

"He walked up to the cashier's counter and pointed the gun at me and said something like 'this is it' and gave me a cloth bank money bag to fill," Spangler said.

He said the man made off with exactly $2,955 in five, ten and 20 dollar bills.

The cashier, who was with an assistant bookkeeper in the main section of the bank when the bandit entered, said the man fled in a car parked outside the bank.

He described the man as about 45, 5 feet 7 and weighing about 165 pounds. He said he wore a gray baseball cap and green jacket.

The appellate court also rejected appeals in two parallel cases in which the federal government's use of troops to enforce integration was challenged.

The racial controversy drew intentional attention last fall, and the Arkansas governor became the storm center when school authorities sent the Negroes home in the face of mob action.

Faubus withdrew the Arkansas National Guardsmen under the federal court injunction. The Negro children were slipped into the school by a side entrance but were sent home the same day when whites rioted outside the building.

President Eisenhower ordered paratroopers of the 101st Airborne Division dispatched by plane to Little Rock. He also federalized the Arkansas guardsmen.

Troops, with fixed bayonets stood guard at the school, even escorting the Negro students into the building at first. Federal troops still are on duty at Little Rock.

Lone Bandit Robs Pa. Bank

EAST BERLIN, Pa. (AP)—A lone bandit Monday robbed the East Berlin National Bank here in the center of this Adams County community of 1,000 and escaped in a car with almost $3,000.

State police set up roadblocks and concentrated their search for the suspect in the area of York in which direction the bandit was last seen heading.

Charles Spangler, a resident of East Berlin and assistant cashier at the bank, said the man was wearing dark glasses and carrying what appeared to be a .38 calibre automatic pistol.

"He walked up to the cashier's counter and pointed the gun at me and said something like 'this is it' and gave me a cloth bank money bag to fill," Spangler said.

He said the man made off with exactly $2,955 in five, ten and 20 dollar bills.

The cashier, who was with an assistant bookkeeper in the main section of the bank when the bandit entered, said the man fled in a car parked outside the bank.

He described the man as about 45, 5 feet 7 and weighing about 165 pounds. He said he wore a gray baseball cap and green jacket.

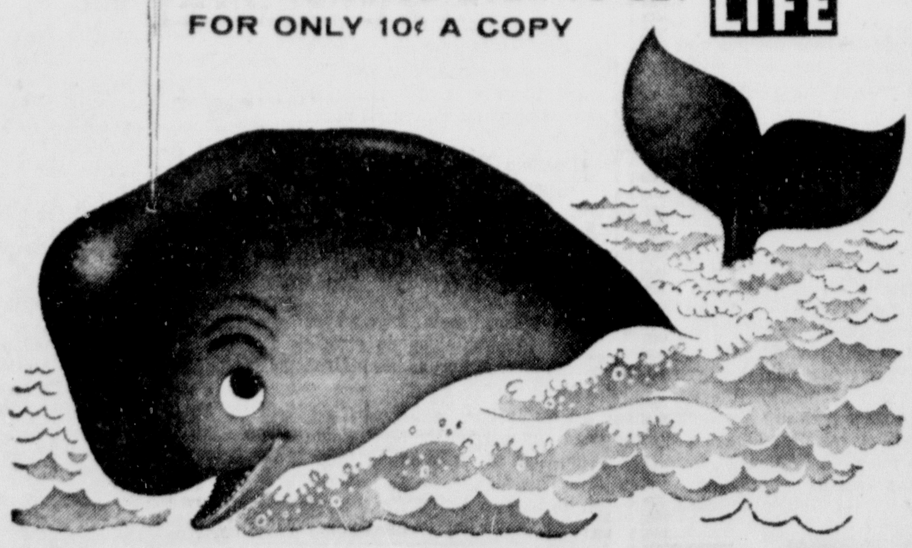

Reds Take Beating

PARIS (AP)—Communists took a beating, and center parties gained more strength in elections for France's regional councils, final results showed Monday. The balloting Sunday and April 20 again gave the center parties more than four-fifths of the seats at stake.

Timetable For New DES Building Is Moved Back

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Department of Employment Security's new six million dollar headquarters building, scheduled for completion by June, 1959, will not be ready until October of next year.

Robert B. Kimble, executive director of the department, said Monday two legal hurdles must be cleared before construction of the six-story building can begin.

Baltimore's Urban Renewal and Housing Agency must first transfer title of the land to the state.

The City Council must pass an ordinance closing a street which now crosses the site.

Kimble said Bernard S. Melnicove, special assistant attorney general assigned to the department, is currently negotiating with both groups. However, Kimble said, it may take several weeks before the city can advertise and conduct a public hearing on the street closing.

The building is planned for a lot in Baltimore's Redevelopment Area 12, near the new State Office Center under construction.

Once the legal steps have been taken, the Department of Public Improvements must advertise for bids on the building and award contracts.

Actual construction is expected to take 15 months which will mean the building can not be completed before October, 1959, Kimble said.

Baltimore Plans "Transit Lane"

BALTIMORE (AP) — The city will get its first "transit lane" on an experimental basis next month.

The curb lane of one of the major southbound arteries (Cathedral-Liberty) will be set aside for buses only for a distance of eight blocks. The street carries six bus routes.

The Department of Transit and Traffic expects the new lane to speed up traffic and reduce bus delays.

If the experiment proves successful, other lanes designed exclusively for transit vehicles, will be established, according to William F. Zorzi, deputy transit commissioner.

The eight-block transit lane, described as one of the longest in the country, will operate from 7:30 a. m. to 10 a. m. and from 4 p. m. to 6 p. m. daily.

Autos will be barred from the transit lane over part of the route but will be permitted into the lane at designated corners to make right turns.

Third Youth To Go On Trial In Slaying

BALTIMORE (AP)—Marvin Rich, 21, the third youth charged with the Jan. 16 holdup-slaying of a bartender, will be tried in Youth Court next Monday.

Assistant State's Atty. Edward F. Borgerding announced the date of the trial before Judge Michael J. Manley.

Two other youths have been tried in the holdup-shooting of of Ralph Sliger, bartender of the Coronet Tavern.

Charles W. Stansbury, 22, was convicted of first degree murder as the actual gunman and was sentenced to die in the gas chamber. An appeal is pending.

James D. Fitzgerald, 23, was acquitted after he claimed he was an unwilling participant under duress.

Police said Rich was not in the tavern when Sliger was killed, but was outside in the parked stolen car the trio was using.

Negro Principal Of Laurel, Del., School Fired

LAUREL, Del. (AP) — Alonzo H. Shockley, 37-year-old Negro principal of the all-Negro Paul Laurence Dunbar school here, has been ordered dismissed.

Shockley said Monday he had not yet received official word of his dismissal by the Board of Education of the Laurel Special School District.

At a school board meeting last Friday, Superintendent of School's Leon B. Elder had recommended that Shockley's services be terminated as of June 30 for what was termed wilful and persistent insubordination on the part of the principal.

Elder, who is white, was a former classmate of Shockley at New York University. He said Shockley has 10 days from receipt of the dismissal notice to ask for a public or private hearing before the school board.

Elder declined to comment further on the board's action, saying, "That is as far as I can go." It was reported after last Friday's meeting, however, that Shockley had refused to teach a number of classes at the school.

"I was hired as a full-time principal," Shockley said today. He refused to comment further, pending receipt of the board's dismissal letter.

Shockley has been principal at the school since 1950. The enrollment is about 350.

Negro Woman Slain

BALTIMORE (AP) — Mrs. Rebecca W. Hayes, 30, Negro, was shot and killed early Monday in her apartment.

Thieves No Help In Cracking Safe

SALISBURY, Md. (AP) — Gorman Hastings would have been glad to help if he had known the thieves who tried to crack his 500-pound safe were coming.

"I've been trying to open it for months without any luck," the printer told police.

Thieves broke into Hastings' print shop, turned the safe upside down and tried to batter open the bottom. But the safe held fast.

"I kinda wish they had opened it," Hastings said. It has some papers he'd like to get. Hastings lost the combination to the safe and had planned to call a locksmith.

There's no money in the safe.

Beall Votes Against Labor Amendment

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Beall (R-Md) voted against the amendment Monday in the 50-33 roll call by which the Senate rejected repeal of a section of the Taft-Hartley law prohibiting striking employes whose jobs have been filled from voting in union representation elections. Sen. Butler (R-Md) was not recorded as voting.

Martin Income Dips

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Martin Co., builder of the Vanguard satellite rocket and other missiles and aircraft, Monday reported net income of $1,693,531 for the first quarter of 1958, down $316,004 from last year.

Baltimorean's Death Is Ruled Suicide

BALTIMORE (AP) — Police have ruled suicide in the death of John Brown, 22, whose body was found Monday in a truck parked in a warehouse. A hose was stretched from the exhaust pipe to the truck window.

Walter Payne, a foreman of the Petroleum Engineering Co., said he found the body when he opened the warehouse this morning. Police said artificial respiration failed to revive Brown.

No. 2 Job In IRS

WASHINGTON (AP) — L. Alfred Chamberlin, a native of Somerset County, Maryland, has been promoted to the No. 2 job in the Internal Revenue Service.

Chamberlain, of Kingston, Md., has been named assistant commissioner in charge of operations. He entered the federal service in 1934 and has served as district director in Baltimore and now is regional director in Philadelphia.

Chamberlin, his wife and four children, will move to Washington when he takes up his new duties May 1.

Salisbury's Mayor-Elect Is Man Of Many Talents

SALISBURY, Md. (AP) — Jeremiah Valliant, who will take office next Monday as Salisbury's newly elected mayor, is a man of many talents.

Now secretary-treasurer of the Quillen-Valliant Truck Agency, the 49-year-old mayor-elect has been a farmer, band leader, cannery worker, member of the Coast Guard and master of a Chesapeake Bay freight boat. He still sings in the Episcopal Church choir.

"Boats and water have always been my fondest diversion," Valliant says. He was skipper of a boat out of Oxford one summer when Louise Remont of Moylan-Rose Valley, Pa., and some school chums took a cruise.

Valliant later married Miss Remont.

He entered politics in 1950 when he was appointed to fill an unexpired term on City Council.

During his four-year term as mayor, Valliant hopes to see a number of major projects completed, including a sewage disposal plant and relocation of U.S. 50 through the city.

He hopes to bring his 92-year-old mother here from Oxford for his installation Monday.

Garrett Verdict Is Affirmed

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — The Court of Appeals Monday affirmed a Garrett County Circuit Court order setting aside an award to Harold Orendorf of Oakland by the State Industrial Accident Commission.

Ordendorf hurt his back while working on a steam pipe in the greenhouse of H. Weber & Sons Co., owner of a 209-acre farm near Oakland.

The commission had awarded Orendorf compensation for temporary total disability, but the appellate judges agreed with the lower court that Orendorf was engaged in agricultural work when injured. Farm laborers are not eligible for benefits of the Workmen's compensation Act.

The court also upheld the action of the Washington County Circuit Court in refusing to order Lloyd A. Brillhart to carry out an agreement for sale of a 115-acre farm on the Williamsport - Pinesburg Road to Joseph H. Forsyth.

The high court upheld the dismissal of Forsyth's complaint on grounds his contract with Brillhart was merely a memorandum and did not contain the whole agreement. The court also refused to set aside a subsequent sale of the property to Mr.and Mrs.Maurice G. Hoffman.

Canal Street Plan Goes To Second Reading

The Mayor and Council will send to its second reading next week an ordinance for the closing of a portion of Canal Street and meantime consider a possible amendment which would give a mercantile business abutting on the street the right of ingress and egress.

The action followed a plea by James B. Reinhart on behalf of his father, Joseph H. Reinhart, owner of the four-story property at the corner of Baltimore and Canal streets yesterday.

It also followed a parliamentary procedure discussion which was resolved when the second reading of the ordinance was reconsidered and reverted to the first reading for the possible amendment action.

Under the ordinance, Canal Street would be closed from a point 60 feet south of Baltimore Street to the Western Maryland Railway passenger station. The railway had requested the closing with its proposal to lease its property on South Mechanic Street for a 100-car commercial parking lot. The railway, according to the city, said the parking lot is contingent upon closing of the portion of Canal Street.

Wants Pact Included

Reinhart said the action would deprive the property owned by his father of loading and unloading privileges and that in order to turn vehicles around, permission from the Western Maryland would be necessary.

He said he would like an agreement included in the ordinance for ingress and egress but that in talks with the Western Maryland its officials had sympathized but claimed they could not give an easement which would interrupt their operations.

Finance Commissioner John J. Long suggested that in fairness to the Reinhart interests an agreement clause be included in the ordinance.

Street Commissioner William H. Buchholtz who made the motions for approval of the ordinance as it stood, said he would be agreeable to passing an ordinance contingent upon an agreement with Reinhart. He said there should be no delay, the city needs the parking lot and he felt the Western Maryland would be fair.

Long agreed that the lot would be a windfall for the city. However, Long added that council should be sure of what action is being taken and added:

"We are setting laws here and we should not take anything for granted."

Police and Fire Commissioner William V. Keegan said he wanted the action taken "the right way" and added he could not see why the railway would not go along with Reinhart on the egress-ingress agreement.

Asks Deferment

The ordinance provides for appointment of commissioners, Glenn Watson, James Perrin and Howard Spiker, realtors, to assess damages.

James S. Getty, attorney for the South Cumberland Business Men's Association, appeared to voice that group's opposition to the closing in view of plans for the Cumberland Thruway and Industrial Boulevard.

Getty said the association does not oppose the parking lot but said it had not been made clear whether the parking lot was contingent upon the closing of Canal Street. City Attorney Thomas B. Finan told him it was.

Getty said that in view of the bridge plans, and future heavy traffic, the South End group felt action should be deferred until the proposed bridge becomes an actuality and constructed as outlined in present plans.

Long, in statements concerning the necessity and desirability of parking lots, said he was happy that efforts to get a quit-claim deed for Canal Street had been dropped from the ordinance. He said under the present plan, the city reserves the right to reopen the street.

Mayor Roy W. Eves said he agreed that any arrangement should not be verbal but written into the ordinance.

The meeting was attended by a large number of local merchants interested in the parking lot plan. They occupied over half the council chamber.

Stamp Honors Author Of Monroe Doctrine

Supplies of the James Monroe bicentennial stamp will go on sale today at the Cumberland Post Office.

The three-cent adhesive marking the 200th anniversary of the birth of America's fifth president was issued yesterday for the first time in Montross, Va.

There will be plenty to go around, as 120,000,000 are authorized for the first printing.

The Gilbert Stuart portrait was used for the central figure of the stamp.

He was born April 28, 1858, in Westmoreland County, Va., attended the College of William and Mary and fought with the 3rd Virginia Regiment at White Plains, Brandywine and Monmouth and was wounded at Trenton.

When President Thomas Jefferson sent him to France as minister in 1803 to help negotiate the purchase of New Orleans from France, and of East and West Florida from Spain, he exceeded instructions and signed a treaty which gave the United States all of Louisiana.

He was elected president in 1816 and re-elected four years later with all but one vote, which was cast for John Quincy Adams so that only Washington might have a unanimous election.

His administration became the "Era of Good Feelings." He obtained the Floridas from Spain, settled boundaries with Canada, and eliminated border forts.

In 1823, the United States served notice on Russia that it would oppose any Russian colony on this continent after Russia had prohibited fishing on the northwest coasts.

He is best known for the Monroe Doctrine, announced December 2, 1823, that the United States would consider its safety endangered if European powers had authority on this hemisphere or attempted colonization.

He died July 4, 1831 in New York City.

Garrett Verdict Is Affirmed

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — The Court of Appeals Monday affirmed a Garrett County Circuit Court order setting aside an award to Harold Orendorf of Oakland by the State Industrial Accident Commission.

Ordendorf hurt his back while working on a steam pipe in the greenhouse of H. Weber & Sons Co., owner of a 209-acre farm near Oakland.

The commission had awarded Orendorf compensation for temporary total disability, but the appellate judges agreed with the lower court that Orendorf was engaged in agricultural work when injured. Farm laborers are not eligible for benefits of the Workmen's compensation Act.

The court also upheld the action of the Washington County Circuit Court in refusing to order Lloyd A. Brillhart to carry out an agreement for sale of a 115-acre farm on the Williamsport - Pinesburg Road to Joseph H. Forsyth.

The high court upheld the dismissal of Forsyth's complaint on grounds his contract with Brillhart was merely a memorandum and did not contain the whole agreement. The court also refused to set aside a subsequent sale of the property to Mr. and Mrs. Maurice G. Hoffman.

The youth entered a plea of guilty to unauthorized use of an auto reported stolen Sunday at 5:45 a. m. from Raymond Apple, RD 3.

The young man was apprehended on Baltimore Street just minutes later by Officer F. R. Bohn of the City Police Department.

He was tried yesterday before Magistrate Morris Baron on the auto use charge and also another count of failing to have an operators license. He received a $10 suspended fine on the latter charge.

A college companion of the driver will be tried later this week.

Park Entrance Is Landscaped

City park workers are completing the landscaping of the entrance to Constitution Park, according to Mrs. Marguerite Findlay, member of the City Park Board.

The area, she said, has been beautified with evergreens, blossoming shrubs and hedge. Cannas will be added there and at other spots in the park.

Tulips are blooming in the various park areas. The earliest display, Mrs. Findlay said, was at the Maryland Avenue park area, where thousands of orange and red tulips made a particularly beautiful picture.

New entrance lights have been installed this spring at a small park area at Valley and Furnace streets.

Bothered By Dead Rodents?

Now if you will kindly hold your nose, we will try to report the solution offered by the Health Department to a recent complaint.

The odor of dead rats, the complainant reported, was coming from beneath a building and what could be done about it?

It's not a nice job or an easy one, according to J. B. Dowling, chief sanitarian, but there are several things which can be done to give complete or partial relief.

Dead rodents, he said, should always be removed if possible, but if they die in inaccessible places, there are four measures, sanctioned by the Public Health Service, that will help to remove, mask or kill the odor.

The use of fans to increase air circulation, he said, will give some relief.

To mask the unpleasant odors, several commercial products may be used as an aerosol or mist spray, or in a bowl or bottle with a cotton wick.

Several commonly available substances, such as oil of pine, peppermint or wintergreen, or activated charcoal, can be used as masking agents or deodorants. For example, 10 drops of pine-oil in a gallon of water can be applied with a fine mist sprayer.

If the dead rodents can be located between partitions or walls, two mixtures are recommended.

One calls for a mixture of 3½ ounces of zinc chloride, 2½ ounces of table salt and a quart of water to be poured through a hole bored in the wall, as close to the source of the odor as possible.

Such are the tools in the kit of the modern hunter of dead rats.

Bids Are Received

The Mayor and Council has received two bids for a fire alarm control panel for the Fire Department. Bidding were Gamewell Company, Pittsburgh; and Safa Alarm Division of the Firefighter Company, Newark.

Shawnee State Park Expected To Open On Memorial Day

BEDFORD — Shawnee State Park at Schellsburg is expected to open May 30, Superintendent Ralph Benna has announced. Mr. Benna said that large crowds have been coming to the park the past two weekends for picnics and hiking even though the park is not formally open.

The park has set new attendance records in each of its seven seasons since it was first opened in 1951. Last year, 1,515,000 persons visited the 2,000-acre recreation area, official park records showed.

Two major projects are pending in the park now. They include construction of a new wash house and laundry facilities in the overnight camping area and repairs to park highways and bridges. Both will be undertaken by the General State Authority.

Another major park project pending is erection of a sewage plant and installation of a park sewage system. The project was announced in March by the Department of Forests and Waters.

Woman Is Arrested Here For Desertion

A 29-year-old Wellersburg, Pa., woman was arrested here Saturday by City Police who said she is wanted by Pennsylvania authorities for abandoning and deserting her four minor children.

Mrs. Edith Mae Scell was turned over to her husband, Luther G. Scell, Sunday on a warrant from Somerset County which instructed him to return her to face the charges.

The warrant from Justice of the Peace Theodore R. Close, Wellersburg, said Mrs. Scell unlawfully abandoned and deserted her children, ages 3, 6, 10 and 12. City Police said she had been living in South Cumberland since April 20.

Orientation Day Planned

Twelve high school and junior high school principals, meeting with Richard T. Rizer, assistant superintendent of schools at the Allegany County Board of Education building, mapped out plans for orientation day for sixth graders to visit the high schools and familiarize themselves with the routine of entering the seventh grade next year.

The visitation day is planned for Wednesday, May 7, when the youngsters will spend the afternoon at the various high schools and attend special programs in the high school auditoriums.

There will be guides to take the sixth graders through the buildings and classrooms to show them how the various departments operate and to familiarize the youngsters with the schools they will be attending next year.

Gephart Playground Association Planned

The Recreation Department will sponsor a meeting of parents in the Gephart Playground area for the purpose of forming an association for the summer months.

The meeting is set today at 7:30 p. m. at Gephart School.

The department said the meeting is open to any parent whose children use playground facilities during the summer.

Announce Way To Help Drain All 8 Sinus Cavities Without Discomfort

New decongestant tablet for sinus congestion sufferers acts both to drain clogged sinus cavities and relieve distressing head pain

New York, N. Y. (Special) Announcement has been made of a new tablet development which has the remarkable ability to help drain clogged sinus cavities and thus relieve congestion and pressure. The headaches, pressure pains, stuffed-up head, nasal drip, clogged breathing—all the unrelenting symptoms the sinus sufferer knows so well—are attacked directly by improving drainage of the sinus areas.

Most remarkable of all is the fact that this is accomplished with extraordinary speed and without discomfort of any kind. This new tablet does its remarkable work internally, through the blood stream. It deposits into every drop of blood plasma a new medication which is carried to the sinus area, where it shrinks the swollen doors to the sinus cavities and helps drain away the pain-causing pressure and congestion.

The shrinking substance in this new tablet has been so successful topically in promoting drainage of the sinus cavities that it is now prescribed more widely by doctors than any material for this purpose. This new medication is now available at drug counters without the need for a prescription under the name, Dristan® Tablets. Dristan Tablets cost only 98¢ for a bottle of 24 tablets. Buy and use Dristan Tablets with the absolute guarantee that they will drain away pain-causing pressure and congestion of the sinus cavities, relieve the pain and distress, or purchase price will be refunded.

Canal Street Plan Goes To Second Reading

The Mayor and Council will send to its second reading next week an ordinance for the closing of a portion of Canal Street and meantime consider a possible amendment which would give a mercantile business abutting on the street the right of ingress and egress.

The action followed a plea by James B. Reinhart on behalf of his father, Joseph H. Reinhart, owner of the four-story property at the corner of Baltimore and Canal streets yesterday.

It also followed a parliamentary procedure discussion which was resolved when the second reading of the ordinance was reconsidered and reverted to the first reading for the possible amendment action.

Under the ordinance, Canal Street would be closed from a point 60 feet south of Baltimore Street to the Western Maryland Railway passenger station. The railway had requested the closing with its proposal to lease its property on South Mechanic Street for a 100-car commercial parking lot. The railway, according to the city, said the parking lot is contingent upon closing of the portion of Canal Street.

Wants Pact Included

Reinhart said the action would deprive the property owned by his father of loading and unloading privileges and that in order to turn vehicles around, permission from the Western Maryland would be necessary.

He said he would like an agreement included in the ordinance for ingress and egress but that in talks with the Western Maryland its officials had sympathized but claimed they could not give an easement which would interrupt their operations.

Finance Commissioner John J. Long suggested that in fairness to the Reinhart interests an agreement clause be included in the ordinance.

Street Commissioner William H. Buchholtz who made the motions for approval of the ordinance as it stood, said he would be agreeable to passing an ordinance contingent upon an agreement with Reinhart. He said there should be no delay, the city needs the parking lot and he felt the Western Maryland would be fair.

Long agreed that the lot would be a windfall for the city. However, Long added that council should be sure of what action is being taken and added:

"We are setting laws here and we should not take anything for granted."

Police and Fire Commissioner William V. Keegan said he wanted the action taken "the right way" and added he could not see why the railway would not go along with Reinhart on the egress-ingress agreement.

Asks Deferment

The ordinance provides for appointment of commissioners, Glenn Watson, James Perrin and Howard Spiker, realtors, to assess damages.

James S. Getty, attorney for the South Cumberland Business Men's Association, appeared to voice that group's opposition to the closing in view of plans for the Cumberland Thruway and Industrial Boulevard.

Getty said the association does not oppose the parking lot but said it had not been made clear whether the parking lot was contingent upon the closing of Canal Street. City Attorney Thomas B. Finan told him it was.

Getty said that in view of the bridge plans, and future heavy traffic, the South End group felt action should be deferred until the proposed bridge becomes an actuality and constructed as outlined in present plans.

Long, in statements concerning the necessity and desirability of parking lots, said he was happy that efforts to get a quit-claim deed for Canal Street had been dropped from the ordinance. He said under the present plan, the city reserves the right to reopen the street.

Mayor Roy W. Eves said he agreed that any arrangement should not be verbal but written into the ordinance.

The meeting was attended by a large number of local merchants interested in the parking lot plan. They occupied over half the council chamber.

Stamp Honors Author Of Monroe Doctrine

Supplies of the James Monroe bicentennial stamp will go on sale today at the Cumberland Post Office.

The three-cent adhesive marking the 200th anniversary of the birth of America's fifth president was issued yesterday for the first time in Montross, Va.

There will be plenty to go around, as 120,000,000 are authorized for the first printing.

The Gilbert Stuart portrait was used for the central figure of the stamp.

He was born April 28, 1858, in Westmoreland County, Va., attended the College of William and Mary and fought with the 3rd Virginia Regiment at White Plains, Brandywine and Monmouth and was wounded at Trenton.

When President Thomas Jefferson sent him to France as minister in 1803 to help negotiate the purchase of New Orleans from France, and of East and West Florida from Spain, he exceeded instructions and signed a treaty which gave the United States all of Louisiana.

He was elected president in 1816 and re-elected four years later with all but one vote, which was cast for John Quincy Adams so that only Washington might have a unanimous election.

His administration became the "Era of Good Feelings." He obtained the Floridas from Spain, settled boundaries with Canada, and eliminated border forts.

In 1823, the United States served notice on Russia that it would oppose any Russian colony on this continent after Russia had prohibited fishing on the northwest coasts.

He is best known for the Monroe Doctrine, announced December 2, 1823, that the United States would consider its safety endangered if European powers had authority on this hemisphere or attempted colonization.

He died July 4, 1831 in New York City.

Young Escapee Nabbed Here

A 17-year-old Leesburg, Va., youth picked up as a suspect in the Midway Motel holdup on the Pennsylvania Turnpike early Sunday morning, turned out to be an escapee from the National Training School in Washington.

Calvin Eugene Maddox was arrested here yesterday morning by City Police Detectives Thomas J. See and George Furstenberg.

Police received a call that the youth was asleep in a car parked on North Centre Street. They reached the car just as Maddox was awakening.

They questioned Maddox and learned that the car he was driving had been reported stolen from 2441 P. Street, N. W., Washington, on Sunday.

The car, police said, belongs to a Marine officer. The local agent of the Federal Bureau of Investigation was notified by police who are awaiting federal authorities to come to Cumberland to get Maddox.

Hemmis, 27 West First Street, for a water meter purchased and found not usable.

Local Men Get Terms In Prison

Chief Judge Morgan C. Harris yesterday sentenced two men to the state penitentiary for violation of parole, following hearings in Allegany County Circuit Court. legany County Circuit Court.

William Franklin Radcliff, 34, city, was sentenced to three years in the penitentiary and James W. Fadley, 33, city, was given one year in the penitentiary.

Radcliff, who is married and has two children, was sentenced to 10 years for breaking and entering in May 1957 and was paroled for that period. He also has several other cases against his record.

He broke his parole by the theft of tires from Hare's used car lot, 219 South Mechanic Street on April 5 and by entering the Christopher Photo Lab on Oldtown Road on April 10. Donald W. Mason, assistant state's attorney, also pointed out to the court that Radcliff had been drinking on both occasions.

Fadley was sentenced to a year in the House of Correction last July 3 for assault and the sentence was suspended and he was paroled for three years. His record dates back to 1944, Mason told the court.

Thomas N. Berry was counsel for both men.

D.C. Bridge Team Winner Of Tourney

Freda Bentley of Washington and Lewis Levenson of Alexandria, Va., won the open pair event of the eighth annual tournament of the Western Maryland Bridge Association, held over the weekend at the Cumberland Country Club.

The win represents the couple's second leg on the Times-News trophy, which must be won three times for permanent possession. No other team has more than one leg on the trophy, tournament officials said.

The tournament was concluded Sunday with a mixed pair event being won by Mrs. H. D. Harper and G. R. Bowers of Winchester.

The special pair event was won by Mrs. William A. Douglas and C. William Dailey, the third local team to win an event in the tournament. The other local winners were Mrs. Emmett L. Jones and Mrs. A. J. Feigus, women's pair, and Robert Dezen and Richard Schwab, men's pair.

Runnersup in the open pair play were Richard Walsh and Richard Freeman, Washington; Mrs. Dorothy Hendel and Israel Sky, Altoona; Paul T. Swanson and Richard Migrolk, Washington; Mr. and Mrs. George Bottorf, this city, and George T. Spillman and F. A. Sorensen, Pittsburgh.

The team of Ted Leahy and Richard W. Crump of Washington topped the field in the qualifying round for the open pair event, registering a score of 202 in the east-west division of Section A. The top score in the north-south play of Section A was made by Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Isenberg of Altoona.

Section B leaders in the qualifying round were the Hendel-Sky team in east-west play, and the Bentley-Levenson entry in north-south play.

Other top scores in the mixed pair event included Dr. Harry E. Potts and Mrs. J. Y. Chidester Jr., Uniontown; Mrs. Jack Cole and Lewis Tubbs, Washington, and Dorothy Atkins and James Lipman.

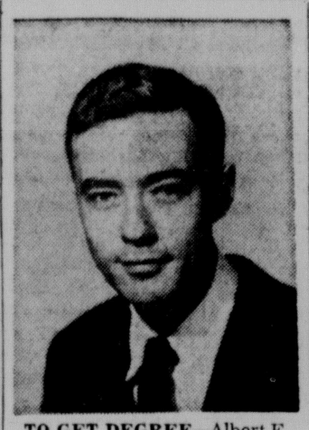

The tournament was termed one of the best ever held by spokesmen of the sponsoring organization, and the attendance was the second largest recorded for the seven previous tourneys.

Auto Drivers Reregistration Slated In Md.

Maryland motorists whose last names begin with A, B or C and who secure a driver's license as late as May 31 will still have to re-register by June 1.

This was pointed out yesterday by W. Dana Rudy, deputy commissioner of motor vehicles, who said, "frankly the department doesn't know and hasn't known since 1937 how many drivers are licensed."

He thought the A, B, C bracket might have somewhere between 175,000 and 200,000 licensed drivers.

Drivers who secured a license before July 1, 1955, must pay a $1 reregistration fee plus a notary public fee.

Although no mention is made of it on the reregistration card, all drivers who secured a license after July 1, 1955, will pay only a notary public fee.

Rudy was of the opinion the card, printed by Remington Rand, would not be changed to indicate the fee adjustment when the call is sent out in December for the D, E, F, and G class to reregister.

Rudy said there might be some confusion now but it is the intention of the department to simplify the procedure after May 1.

He said that after May 1 when persons secure a driver's license it is the hope to reregister them immediately.

The law, as passed by the 1957 legislature, calls for H, I, J or K to reregister by June 30, 1959; L, M, N and O, December 31, 1959; P, Q, R and S by June 30, 1960 and R, U, V, W, X, Y and Z by December 30, 1960. Then the department will know how many licensed drivers are in the state.

Each motorist will be given a 60-day notice of the date on which his license expires.

Redinger Gets Permit To Construct Home

A permit to erect a dwelling was issued yesterday by the Allegany County Assessing Department to Charles W. Redinger, Route 3, Bedford Road.

The home will be 28 by 58 feet and have brick walls and concrete block foundation. The roof will be of composition shingles. Cost is estimated at $11,000.

Railway Employe To Retire Wednesday

W. E. Clise, Frostburg, supervisor of bridges and buildings for the Western Division of the Western Maryland Railway, was honored at a luncheon on Friday in the Fort Cumberland Hotel on his retirement.

Clise will retire Wednesday after completing more than 45 years service with the railroad in various capacities. He has held his present position since 1952.

He was presented a table model radio on behalf of the railway company and a wrist watch and a West Virginia hunting license by his friends.

Clise will be succeeded by J. T. Derryberry, this city, who will be acting supervisor of bridges and buildings. Derryberry has 18 years service with the railroad.

Park Entrance Is Landscaped

City park workers are completing the landscaping of the entrance to Constitution Park, according to Mrs. Marguerite Findlay, member of the City Park Board.

The area, she said, has been beautified with evergreens, blossoming shrubs and hedge. Cannas will be added there and at other spots in the park.

Tulips are blooming in the various park areas. The earliest display, Mrs. Findlay said, was at the Maryland Avenue park area, where thousands of orange and red tulips made a particularly beautiful picture.

New entrance lights have been installed this spring at a small park area at Valley and Furnace streets.

Bothered By Dead Rodents?

Now if you will kindly hold your nose, we will try to report the solution offered by the Health Department to a recent complaint.

The odor of dead rats, the complainant reported, was coming from beneath a building and what could be done about it?

It's not a nice job or an easy one, according to J. B. Dowling, chief sanitarian, but there are several things which can be done to give complete or partial relief.

Dead rodents, he said, should always be removed if possible, but if they die in inaccessible places, there are four measures, sanctioned by the Public Health Service, that will help to remove, mask or kill the odor.

The use of fans to increase air circulation, he said, will give some relief.

To mask the unpleasant odors, several commercial products may be used as an aerosol or mist spray, or in a bowl or bottle with a cotton wick.

Several commonly available substances, such as oil of pine, peppermint or wintergreen, or activated charcoal, can be used as masking agents or deodorants. For example, 10 drops of pine-oil in a gallon of water can be applied with a fine mist sprayer.

If the dead rodents can be located between partitions or walls, two mixtures are recommended.

One calls for a mixture of 3½ ounces of zinc chloride, 2½ ounces of table salt and a quart of water to be poured through a hole bored in the wall, as close to the source of the odor as possible.

Such are the tools in the kit of the modern hunter of dead rats.

Bids Are Received

The Mayor and Council has received two bids for a fire alarm control panel for the Fire Department. Bidding were Gamewell Company, Pittsburgh; and Safa Alarm Division of the Firefighter Company, Newark.

Shawnee State Park Expected To Open On Memorial Day

BEDFORD — Shawnee State Park at Schellsburg is expected to open May 30, Superintendent Ralph Benna has announced. Mr. Benna said that large crowds have been coming to the park the past two weekends for picnics and hiking even though the park is not formally open.

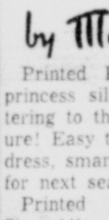

The park has set new attendance records in each of its seven seasons since it was first opened in 1951. Last year, 1,515,000 persons visited the 2,000-acre recreation area, official park records showed.

Two major projects are pending in the park now. They include construction of a new wash house and laundry facilities in the overnight camping area and repairs to park highways and bridges. Both will be undertaken by the General State Authority.

Another major park project pending is erection of a sewage plant and installation of a park sewage system. The project was announced in March by the Department of Forests and Waters.

Announce Way To Help Drain All 8 Sinus Cavities Without Discomfort
New decongestant tablet for sinus congestion sufferers acts both to drain clogged sinus cavities and relieve distressing head pain

New York, N. Y. (Special) Announcement has been made of a new tablet development which has the remarkable ability to help drain clogged sinus cavities and thus relieve congestion and pressure. The headaches, pressure pains, stuffed-up head, nasal drip, clogged breathing—all the unrelenting symptoms the sinus sufferer knows so well—are attacked directly by improving drainage of the sinus areas.

Most remarkable of all is the fact that this is accomplished with extraordinary speed and without discomfort of any kind. This new tablet does its remarkable work internally, through the blood stream. It deposits into every drop of blood plasma a new medication which is carried to the sinus area, where it shrinks the swollen doors to the sinus cavities and helps drain away the pain-causing pressure and congestion.

The shrinking substance in this new tablet has been so successful topically in promoting drainage of the sinus cavities that it is now prescribed more widely by doctors than any material for this purpose. This new medication is now available at drug counters without the need for a prescription under the name, Dristan® Tablets. Dristan Tablets cost only 98¢ for a bottle of 24 tablets. Buy and use Dristan Tablets with the absolute guarantee that they will drain away pain-causing pressure and congestion of the sinus cavities, relieve the pain and distress, or purchase price will be refunded.

Broader Choice For The Farmer?

Legislation has been introduced in Congress to provide a broader referendum among wheat growers and other farming groups.

Wheat growers, for example, are expected to be given a choice between a domestic parity program and the present flexible supports based on a percentage of parity. The support price has been set this year at $1.78 a bushel compared with $2 previously.

The domestic parity choice would entail the two-price system by which producers are paid full parity for that part of their wheat consumed domestically by humans. The rest would be sloughed off for export and feed at whatever price it might bring.

Another choice that may be offered the growers would be that between loans at 90 per cent of parity, and acreage restrictions severe enough to bring the crop in line with demand, or loans at about 60 per cent of parity with all acreage restrictions eliminated.

These referendums have wide farmer backing, including support by the National Association of Wheat Growers and the National Grange.

Since President Eisenhower vetoed the bill to freeze 1958 crop supports at 1957 levels, support in Congress for the optional referendum is growing. The wheat referendum, usually held in July, has been on the basis of farmer approval or disapproval of wheat marketing controls. If two-thirds of farmers voting approve, the controls are established.

It will be good to get farmer ideas of what to do nailed down. Farmer referendums, widely participated in, should get the nation off dead center and into new areas of more effective farm policy.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

I Like Ex-Presidents

Two ex-Presidents are rolling about the United States and both are more popular today then they ever were when they were sitting in the White House.

Herbert Hoover has grown into the most beloved citizen of the country. He is now in the hospital, enjoying a glorious grumpiness, but at 83 recovering from a gall bladder operation with ease and the will-to-live of a young fellow. He has recently been engaged in writing five books, one of which is now ready for the book stores, "The Ordeal of Woodrow Wilson."

To watch him work is a rare privilege, for he digs like a young fellow writing his M. A. thesis; he writes on lined yellow paper in long-hand and he revises draft after draft. Herbert Hoover abhors ghosts which is probably the reason for his enormous literary output. In writing, the rule must be, "Do it yourself." Ghosts clog the works.

I recently attended a dinner of Tammany Hall, in New York County, over which these days Carmine DeSapio presides. The principal speaker was Harry Truman, who at 74, traipses about the country, making speeches, taking publicized walks and doing politics for his party. He is a beloved leader. Nobody needs to agree with any man to love him. When a Democratic audience sees Harry Truman, they see a spunky little guy who fights his way to the kind of political and personal victory that Democrats like and they show it.

Harry Truman's influence over his party increases as he grows older. Therein, he differs from Herbert Hoover who, in his old age, has come to be regarded as beyond partisanship. One cannot imagine Herbert Hoover telling the boys how to lick the Democrats. Harry, on the other hand, gets down to the sidewalks and gives the enemy hell from start to finish with a fervor expected from a young one running for local office. If Harry Truman emphasizes the importance of the plain and simple people, it is because he is certain that he has never graduated from Independence, Missouri, of which he regards Kansas City and probably the rest of the world as a suburb.

Herbert Hoover and Harry Truman are friends. At any rate, they get along with each other better than they do with President Eisenhower, who has, more or less, snubbed or ignored them both.

Harry Truman has been shown no courtesy since Eisenhower has become President, which is bad manners on the President's part, no matter how you look at it. Harry Truman, when he was President, extended due courtesies to Herbert Hoover, appointed him to important consultative and exploratory tasks, and backed him valiantly on the recommendations of the Hoover Reports.

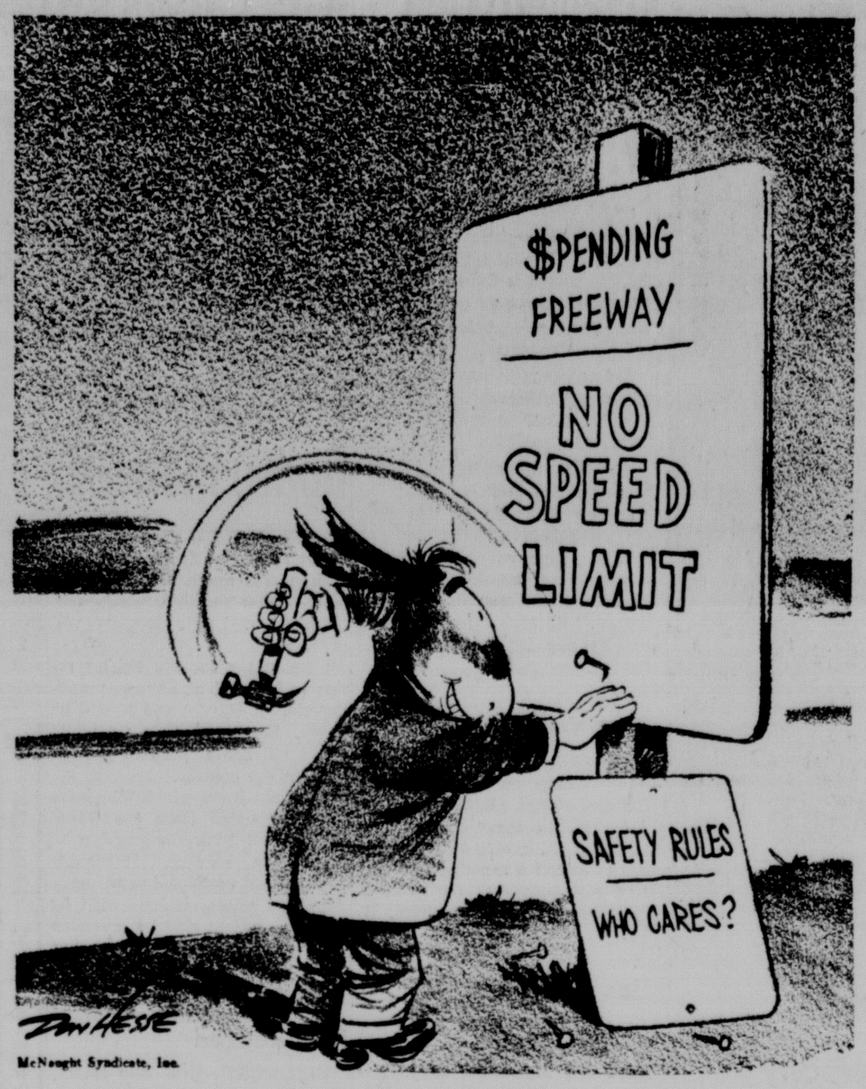

Perhaps, it is customary in the Army folkways that when an old general retires, his successors ignore his existence It is not so customary in politics where a handshake and a smile are permissible even among political enemies who may like each other or not, according to personal taste. True, President Eisenhower continued the Hoover Commission but gave it none of the ardent support that Truman did. Besides, there is a frigidity about the White House, possibly emanating from Sherman Adams' office, which would normally chill such a person as Herbert Hoover. It put icicles about Harry Truman. Silly business!

I had never before seen Harry Truman at a partisan, political, down-to-earth meeting and it was a treat. He was cheering the crowd to go out and work for the re-election of Governor Averell Harriman who will undoubtedly be re-elected unless the Republicans in New York State came come up with a miracle. What obviously the Democrats are afraid of is that the district leaders and such will become complacent, feeling that victory is assured. So they beat the drums and Harry beat the loudest of all and the crowd just loved it and him, too. I don't know when I had more fun, particularly as I sat next to Carmine DeSapio's beautiful and clever wife who never misses a move.

The Republicans do not know, hereabouts, how to play so closely together. They do not mingle so well—and mingle is a word often used in Democratic circles. For instance, the toastmaster of the dinner was Hulan Jack, Negro, who, it is expected, will one day be Mayor of New York.

Grand Jury Probing Congressman Sidesteps Justice Department

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — Justice Department officials have been jittery as a cat on a hot tin roof over the Federal Grand Jury in New York which now appears ready to hold its own independent investigation of the income taxes of Rep. Adam Clayton Powell, the Negro Congressman from Harlem.

In the summer of 1956, this column reported that Mr. Powell, a Democrat, had discovered he was under tax investigation and that three of his secretaries were being indicted under circumstances which involved giving salary kickbacks to the Congressman.

Mr. Powell, in the past a rootin' tootin' Eisenhower critic, then got in touch with Vice President Nixon and became a rootin' tootin' Eisenhower booster. As a Democrat he urged Negroes to vote Republican. A special press conference was arranged for him, first in New York by Max Rabb, the White House aide, and John Roosevelt, the GOP member of the FDR family. Later another press conference was arranged right inside the White House by Jim Hagerty himself.

Thereafter the grand jury investigating the Harlem Congressman mysteriously came to a halt. On Nov. 24, 1956, this column reported: "The U.S. Attorney's office in New York wants to press the case against the Congressman. However, there are indications that the Justice Department planned to drop the case in return for Powell's campaigning for the Republicans.

Last week, 18 months later, full confirmation of this came from Thomas A. Bolan, the assistant U.S. attorney in charge of the Powell grand jury. Asked whether it was true that on March 18, 1957, he was informed by his superiors that on orders from Washington the U.S. Attorney's office in New York was abandoning the investigation and turning it over to the Treasury Department, Mr. Bolan replied: "That is correct."

"Is it correct that you were asked to write a letter to the Attorney General advising that the case should be handled by the Treasury and that you declined?"

"That is correct," Bolan replied.

Mr. Bolan did not say so, but it was clear that he did not go along with any political fix in the Powell case.

Runaway Grand Jury

Meanwhile here are some of the facts in the files of the U.S. Attorney's office which have prompted the jury to take the Powell case into its own hands—whether the Justice Department like it or not.

In 1954, Powell's campaign manager, Joseph Ford, broke with Powell and thereafter some of the Congressman's financial records reached the Justice Department. Subsequently, two of Powell's secretaries, Acy Lennon and Hattie Dodson, were convicted; a third, William Hampton, was indicted, while John Henry Harmon, treasurer of the Federal Credit Union of the Abyssinian Baptist Church, pleaded guilty to embezzlement. Powell is pastor of the church, one of the biggest in the world, and has been president of its "Federal Credit Union." His secretary, Hattie Dodson, was treasurer. Both resigned when the tax investigation started, and Harmon, succeeding Mrs. Dodson, pleaded guilty. Lennon and Hampton, two of Powell's secretaries, received salaries of $8,000 a year from the Dorie Miller Houses in addition to their government salaries.

Quick Parole

Part of the deal arranged in the election campaign of 1956 was that the Congressman's secretary, Hattie Dodson, should be released as soon as possible from the Women's Federal Penitentiary at Alderson, W. Va. She became eligible for parole on September 25, got a hearing that same day, and was granted parole effective October 17.

Mrs. Dodson had been convicted of income-tax evasion after paying salary kickbacks to the Congressman. This writer has helped to convict three Congressmen for taking kickbacks, and in each case they, not their secretaries, were prosecuted. In the case of Powell, however, the secretaries were prosecuted while he campaigned for Eisenhower.

Indicative of the jitteryness of Justice Department officials over the Powell grand jury is the fact that Herbert Brownell, former Attorney General, never held a press conference in Washington after the Powell case came up. New Attorney General Rogers has flatly refused to answer questions about the Powell case.

Note — In contrast to the Justice Department's maneuvering to stymie the Powell grand jury, the same Justice Department called three grand juries in Omaha, Kansas City and St. Louis in an effort to try to indict ex-Secretary of the Treasury John Snyder and other high officials of the Truman administration. In the end former Assistant Attorney General Lamar Caudle and Matt Connelly, secretary to Truman, were convicted, not of taking bribes, gifts, or of tax evasion, but of "depriving the United States of their best services."

Khrushchev As Victim Or As A New Stalin?

By Joseph Alsop

WASHINGTON

With extraordinary abruptness and considerable brutality, the Kremlin has now reversed the policy of friendship toward Yugoslavia which was the first fruit of Nikita Khrushchev's rise to power.

The most curious aspect of this important event is the timing. The pretext for the new Soviet excommunication of the Yugoslavs was the "draft program" of the Yugoslav Communist Party. This document, which was published at the beginning of March, has just now been discovered to be crammed with intolerable heresies.

The question at once arises, why these intolerable heresies were not spotted much earlier. All of March and early April passed by in peace and amity, with the heretical program already staring the Kremlin in the face. In this period, Nikita Khrushchev even requested Marshal Tito accept a visit from his Hungarian stooge, Janos Kadar and Kadar was duly invited for a jolly week-end in Yugoslavia.

Then something happened in the Kremlin, presumably about mid-April, for a denunciation of the Yugoslav program was passed for publication in the Soviet paper, "Kommunist," on April 15. Thereafter the Soviet Party theorist, Pospelov, delivered a stinging attack on the Yugoslavs as his contribution to the celebration of Lenin's 88th birthday. Finally the Soviets organized a general boycott of the Yugoslav Party Congress at Ljubljana by all the states of the "Socialist camp."

The Yugoslavs were frankly taken by surprise by the boycott, which again underlines the last-minute, wholly unexpected character of the squabble. And just to round out the mystery, "Pravda" publishes a renewed and very venomous attack on old Molotov and his allies, who had opposed Khrushchev's pro-Yugoslav policy, at almost the same time when Pospelov was attacking the Yugoslavs.

Concerning this intensely significant and intensely bewildering sequence of events, there is only one point of general agreement among the experts. All agree that the sudden Soviet-Yugoslav break is a by-product of another inner struggle in the Kremlin. But as usual in these cases, no one can tell who is kicking whom.

One thesis is that the neo-Stalinists, Pospelov and the high and dry doctrinaire, Mikhail Suslov, have at last organized a successive opposition to Nikita Khrushchev. It is a tempting thesis. Condemnation of the Yugoslavs after all implies condemnation of the very first major policy decision that has a clear Khrushchev label.

The opposite thesis sees the master-hand of Khrushchev behind the new development. When Marshl Zhukov was destroyed, the Yugoslavs themselves at first argued that Khrushchev had been "pushed by the Stalinnists," such as Suslov. But in the end, the Yugoslavs concluded that the real prime mover in the destruction of Zhukov was the very man whom Zhukov had just saved from destruction, Nikita Khrushchev himself.

In the present instance, Khrushchev again has to deal with one of the forces that sustained him in his long and devious rise to the supreme position. Zhukov and the Communist Party apparatus were his twin supports throughout the whole elimination contest in the Kremlin. Zhukov asked too much reward, as saviors will, and Zhukov was taken care of—with the help of the party apparatus. More recently, the party apparatus has shown signs of getting above itself, particularly by obstructing Khrushchev's immensely radical agricultural reforms. So may not Khrushchev be preparing to teach their proper place to the party bureaucrats, as he taught his place to Zhukov?

The trouble with this thesis is obvious enough. The condemnation of the Yugoslavs must surely be pleasing to the party extremists like Suslov and Pospelov, as Pospelov's role indicates. At best, therefore, it would be an astonishingly devious maneuver in a Khrushchev game to defeat the party bureaucrats.

But Khrushchev is just the kind of wrestler who gets his stranglehold by seeming to give way. Furthermore, the Yugoslavs themselves plainly blame Khrushchev personally for their condemnation. At Ljubljana, they have attached Khrushchev personally instead of denouncing "Stalinist survivors who still cause tragic distortions," as they would otherwise have done. In fact the Yugoslavs see what has happened as another stage in the transformation of Khrushchev into a somewhat jollier image of Josef Stalin.

As between the two theses, you can pay your money and take your choice.

Baering Down On The News

By Arthur "Bugs" Baer

Republicans claim they are going through a hammock economy. Sagging in the middle and high on both ends.

Democrats are pessimistic over the future until 1960. Then they expect to be taller in the saddle than a monkey on a giraffe.

We might use the checks and balances employed by Daniel Boone in the Indian wars. Daniel said, "If you're bothered by dandruff you still have your scalp."

We never did understand the upgrades and ski runs of statistical fever charts. Ex-Secretary Wilson said what's good for the United States is good for me. But never explained what it was.

Main difficulty with hammock economy is the consumer is the lump.

He's blamed for over-stocking, he's blamed for under-stocking and when they're even they promote him to a proxy.

Some experts say it's a buyer's market and some claim it's a seller's market. Either way we never saw a fellow get rid of a mule at a race track.

There are ups and downs and ins and outs. And a fair exchange is a waste of everybody's time.

In Spandau Prison

By Bob Considine

BERLIN, April 28 — (INS) — Men have fended off madness in prison for untold centuries and in uncountable ways. Albert Speer, Hitler's last minister for armaments, who has served 11 of 20 years of a sentence handed down in the Nuremberg war trials, is walking from Berlin to Tehran.

He is pacing off the 2,000 miles inside his little cell at Spandau Prison!

In each monthly letter he is permitted to send out of this strange and depressing old lockup — whose prisoner population consists of himself, Rudolph Hess and Walter von Schirach — Speer has described at length the cities and areas through which he has "walked" on his imaginary way to the Iranian capital.

The letters go to his wife, Mrs. Speer and their two daughters have been supported for years by Willy Schlieker who, at 26, headed all steel production in the War Ministry. Schlieker survived Hitler's downfall very well and has become one of the new group of young postwar West German millionaires who may soon replace the oil-shipping Greeks as the top playboys of the Western world. Among Schlieker's coups was the sale to Ruhr factories of coal mined in Pennsylvania.

He discovered that this could be done at a profit despite the cost of shipping it and the fact that the Ruhr itself contained some of the richest coal deposits on earth. He is believed to have made eight million dollars on that deal alone, while it lasted, and a tiny portion of it has gone to the family of the imprisoned man for whom he once worked.

The Allied powers have made several efforts to spring Speer but Russia, which has equal authority over Spandau, always vetos the pardon plans.

Hess, who stole a Nazi fighter, flew it to Scotland, parachuted on to the estate of the Duke of Hamilton and tried to make a separate peace early in World War II, has never been certified as insane. But the prevailing impression at the Nuremberg trials was that he is, and the long years in Spandau since then have only accented the view. Mrs. Hess is dead.

The other prisoner, Walter von Schirach, was leader of the Hitler Youth. He too got 20 years. Mrs. von Schirach periodically appeals for her husband's release. Hess got life. Half a dozen others who served time there have been released, including Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, Walter Funk, the last head of the Reich Bank and a lesser financial wizard than Schacht, died in this old, turreted redbrick heap.

Spandau is unquestionably the most expensive can in the world. It costs each of the four powers tens of thousands of dollars each year to keep these three Nazis in the pokey. They could charter a DC-7 and send Speer to Tehran as its sole passenger first class and save money.

The authority of each of the four powers is consecutive and of one-month duration. The power which takes charge on the first day of each month brings in its own guards, troops, sentries, turnkeys, doctors, food, cooks, cleaning people, telephone operators and so forth. It's also responsible for heat and light.

The Russians consistently starve the Nazis during the month they are in charge. Then we come in and fatten them up again. And so it goes inside Spandau as the years roll on and the boots of Speer, walking to Tehran, go click, click, click, hour after hour each day and sometimes well into the night.

The problem of defection to the West through the open door that is Berlin has been of genuine concern to the Communists. They do what they can to keep the figure as low as possible.

For example, no member of the Czechoslovakian Embassy staff stationed in East Germany may visit West German terriory unless he leaves at least one member of his family behind in Communist-controlled Germany. East German students who look into West Germany face expulsion from their class rooms, once they return. Clergymen, doctors and other professional men who are invited to attend conventions or conferences in the West are ordered to send their regrets.

Fate and the ability of an East German cop to count has stopped another East German who prospered by traveling back and forth between the slave and free world.

The cop finally realized after months of watching the man drive his wagon past the sentinel box that in the mornings the wagon would always be pulled by two horses and at night it would come home propelled by one. It turned out that the driver had a lively horse meat trade in the West. Now he is facing a sentence for helping the economy of the enemy.

Simple New Color Code Test For Ovulation

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

A simple new test is available to determine the exact time of ovulation, which is when a woman is most likely to conceive. This method should prove helpful for the barren couple who are otherwise normal, as fertilization tends to occur when an ovum leaves an ovary on its way to the uterus.

Doctors Charles H. Birnberg, Raphael Kurzrok, and Anne Lauter reported recently on their results with Tes-Tape. Ovulation usually takes place midway in the menstrual cycle and chemical tests show an increase in the sugar (glucose) content of the cervical secretions at that time.

Diabetics have been testing their urine for sugar with a strip of chemically treated paper (Tes-Tape). Its yellow color changes to deep green when glucose is present. The New York obstetricians mentioned decided to study a group of 27 women with a sterility problem, who were candidates for artificial insemination. Daily tests were made on the cervical secretions, starting on the 10th day after the beginning of the last menstrual period. The Tes-Tape became pale green two days prior to the theoretical day of ovulation. On the day of ovulation it turned deep green and thereafter began fading. When insemination was done on the day of the deepest color change, 20 of the 27 women became pregnant after the first trial. Conception occurred in three of the remaining seven on subsequent attempts.

Ten women who were hospitalized for nonemergency pelvic surgery volunteered for these tests. The abdominal operation was scheduled for the day after the Tes-Tape showed deep green. In each of the 10 patients there was evidence that an ovum had ruptured recently from an ovary. The majority of these women were 46 to 53 years of age.

This procedure has obvious advantages over the time consuming temperature test for ovulation. In this procedure, the thermometer is used every morning before getting out of bed. A slight increase in the reading is noted midway in the menstrual cycle, which corresponds with the ovulation period.

NECK STRETCHING

D. L. writes: How do you stretch your neck? This refers to the health hint in which you said pain in the neck can be relieved by stretching it.

REPLY

In two ways — by using a head halter and by the following exercises. First turn the head as far as possible to the right and then to the left. Next, drop the chin toward the chest and return head to an upright position. Try to touch the right shoulder with the right ear and vice versa. Do each exercise five times and repeat at intervals during the day. A more vigorous type of stretching involves doing the same exercises except that the hands are clasped behind the head to offer resistance.

TONSIL TAGS

E. F. writes: Can the tonsils grow back years after they are removed?

REPLY

No. It is difficult to remove the tonsils without leaving small bits of tissue in the tonsil beds. These small tags may enlarge with each succeeding sore throat and cold. In some instances they grow so big they look as though the tonsils had returned.

PROTECTING BABY'S EYES

D. W. writes: Why are drops put in a baby's eyes soon after birth?

REPLY

To prevent the transmission of a gonorrheal infection from the mother. In the past, many babies were blinded by this disease. After the use of antiseptic drops became mandatory, the incidence of blindness from this source became practically nil.

STAY OR MOVE?

C. W. writes: Does a kidney stone stay in the kidney or does it move out?

REPLY

Large stones sign a lease but small ones are transients. If a stone is too big to escape, it remains in the kidney until removed surgically. Smaller concretions are washed out, along with the urine, through the ureters into the bladder. Rocks of borderline size may get stuck halfway down the trail.

TOMORROW: Steroids in psoriasis.

To the limit of space questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

Joey Adams appears at many benefits, and the societies and fraternal orders he has thus favored have given him elaborate badges as tokens of their appreciation. Adams used to tuck the badges into the glove compartment of his car.

One evening a motorcycle cop clocked him doing 75 miles an hour and asked for his license. Joey, remembering his badges, thought the cop might be sufficiently impressed to let him off with a dressing-down.

The cop looked at the badges with a fishy eye, spoke his piece, and wrote out a ticket. But now, for the first time, Adams knows what he can do with those badges.

A tank-about-town was persuaded to take up yoga. After months of torturing long unused muscles, he became quite proficient at it, too.

"Has yoga helped him?" his wife was asked. "In one way," she answered. "Now he can get loaded standing on his head, too."

D.C. Bridge Team Winner Of Tourney

Freda Bentley of Washington and Lewis Levenson of Alexandria, Va., won the open pair event of the eighth annual tournament of the Western Maryland Bridge Association, held over the weekend at the Cumberland Country Club.

The win represents the couple's second leg on the Times-News trophy, which must be won three times for permanent possession. No other team has more than one leg on the trophy, tournament officials said.

The tournament was concluded Sunday with a mixed pair event being won by Mrs. H. D. Harper and G. R. Bowers of Winchester.

The special pair event was won by Mrs. William A. Douglas and C. William Dailey, the third local team to win an event in the tournament. The other local winners were Mrs. Emmett L. Jones and Mrs. A. J. Feigus, women's pair, and Robert Dezen and Richard Schwab, men's pair.

Runnersup in the open pair play were Richard Walsh and Richard Freeman, Washington; Mrs. Dorothy Hendel and Israel Sky, Altoona; Paul T. Swanson and Richard Migrolk, Washington; Mr. and Mrs. George Bottorf, this city, and George T. Spillman and F. A. Sorensen, Pittsburgh.

The team of Ted Leahy and Richard W. Crump of Washington topped the field in the qualifying round for the open pair event, registering a score of 202 in the east-west division of Section A. The top score in the north-south play of Section A was made by Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Isenberg of Altoona.

Section B leaders in the qualifying round were the Hendel-Sky team in east-west play, and the Bentley-Levenson entry in north-south play.

Other top scores in the mixed pair event included Dr. Harry E. Potts and Mrs. J. Y. Chidester Jr., Uniontown; Mrs. Jack Cole and Lewis Tubbs, Washington, and Dorothy Atkins and James Lipman.

The tournament was termed one of the best ever held by spokesmen of the sponsoring organization, and the attendance was the second largest recorded for the seven previous tourneys.

Auto Drivers Reregistration Slated In Md.

Maryland motorists whose last names begin with A, B or C and who secure a driver's license as late as May 31 will still have to re-register by June 1.

This was pointed out yesterday by W. Dana Rudy, deputy commissioner of motor vehicles, who said, "frankly the department doesn't know and hasn't known since 1937 how many drivers are licensed."

He thought the A, B, C bracket might have somewhere between 175,000 and 200,000 licensed drivers.

Drivers who secured a license before July 1, 1955, must pay a $1 reregistration fee plus a notary public fee.

Although no mention is made of it on the reregistration card, all drivers who secured a license after July 1, 1955, will pay only a notary public fee.

Rudy was of the opinion the card, printed by Remington Rand, would not be changed to indicate the fee adjustment when the call is sent out in December for the D, E, F, and G class to reregister.

Rudy said there might be some confusion now but it is the intention of the department to simplify the procedure after May 1.

He said that after May 1 when persons secure a driver's license it is the hope to reregister them immediately.

The law, as passed by the 1957 legislature, calls for H, I, J or K to reregister by June 30, 1959; L, M, N and O, December 31, 1959; P, Q, R and S by June 30, 1960 and R, U, V, W, X, Y and Z by December 30, 1960. Then the department will know how many licensed drivers are in the state.

Each motorist will be given a 60-day notice of the date on which his license expires.

Redinger Gets Permit To Construct Home

A permit to erect a dwelling was issued yesterday by the Allegany County Assessing Department to Charles W. Redinger, Route 3, Bedford Road.

The home will be 28 by 58 feet and have brick walls and concrete block foundation. The roof will be of composition shingles. Cost is estimated at $11,000.

Railway Employe To Retire Wednesday

W. E. Clise, Frostburg, supervisor of bridges and buildings for the Western Division of the Western Maryland Railway, was honored at a luncheon on Friday in the Fort Cumberland Hotel on his retirement.

Clise will retire Wednesday after completing more than 45 years service with the railroad in various capacities. He has held his present position since 1952.

He was presented a table model radio on behalf of the railway company and a wrist watch and a West Virginia hunting license by his friends.

Clise will be succeeded by J. T. Derryberry, this city, who will be acting supervisor of bridges and buildings. Derryberry has 18 years service with the railroad.

County Gives Liberally To Heart Campaign

Some Areas Ahead Of Last Year

A number of county communities and areas have completed their Heart Fund campaign reports and in every area, returns show that there is growing interest in and support for the Heart program, according to F. Allan Weatherholt, president of the Allegany-Garrett Heart Association.

These reports, where possible, show comparative figures with the same areas last year, however alignment of solocitation boundaries in some instances made accurate comparisons difficult. The overall picture, however, Mr. Weatherholt noted, shows that despite some misunderstanding, citizens generally responded to the appeal for direct giving to the Heart program.

A final report of the Heart Fund campaign in the Westernport and Luke area shows that a total of $543.90 was contributed. This is in addition to funds raised in the Piedmont area for the West Virginia program.

Mrs. Melvin Moorehead was chairman for Luke and Mrs. Wanda Stephens was chairman for Westernport.

The Heart Sunday solocitation produced $129.50 in Luke and $312.25 in Westernport. Plastic Heart coin containers produced $19.15. Clubs and organizations donated $25. The Mayor and Council of Luke gave $20. Individual checks totaled $13 and professional gifts totaled $25.

Mrs. Stephens said that volunteers in Westernport included Mrs. Elsie Wilson, Mrs. Norma Knotts, Mrs. Amanda Nichols, Mrs. Dorothy Riggs, Mrs. Gladys Taylor, Mrs. Virginia Kooken, Mrs. Louise Nasser, Mrs. Bonnie Biggs, Mrs. Mary Dunnivan, Mrs. Pansy McIntyre, Mrs. Holly Fazenbaker, Mrs. Mary Foley, Mrs. Peggy Shaw, Mrs. Jerry Bartlett, Mrs. Violet Daddysman and Miss Catherine Lupis.

In Luke, Mrs. Moorehead said her volunteers included Mrs. Elwood Gift, Mrs. Roy Cave, Mrs. Calvin Combs, Mrs. Aveline Diaz, Mrs. Kenneth Maphis, Mrs. Charles Metter, Mrs. Manuel Diaz, Mrs. Troxell Grove, Mrs. Anthony DiGioia, Mrs. Garrett Carskadon, Mrs. Robert Walker and Miss Helen Crites.

In Frostburg, Mrs. Thomas Jackson served as chairman and reported total collections of $754.82. This included a successful Heart Sunday with $537.54 contributed in the house-to-house solicitation; $62.98 from Plastic Heart coin containers; $28.50 from clubs and organizations; $10 from business groups; $90.80 in individual checks; and $25 from a professional contribution.

Mrs. Mildred Sweene, who served as chairman for the Eckhart area reported a total of $125.13 collected on Heart Sunday. She was assisted by Mrs. Vivian Cunningham and a corps of volunteers.

In Lonaconing, the Heart program was also given excellent support, according to Mrs. Elmer Ravenscroft, 5 Scotch Hill, who served as chairman. The Heart Sunday canvas totaled $236.40, Plastic Hearts produced $22.50; Clubs and Organizations donated $47.50 and individual checks amounted to $9, for a community total of $315.40.

Ellerslie exceeded its quota and also contributed more liberally to the Heart program than it has done in any past year. Mrs. Edward Burkett, chairman reported collections totaling $147 on Heart Sunday and $3.68 in coin containers for a community total of $150.68. Last year $111 was contributed in Ellerslie.

Corriganville came within a few dollars of meeting last year's total, when the residents contributed $86.54 against last year's $90.54. Coin containers accounted for $6.89 while the house-to-house solicitation produced gifts totaling $79.65. Mrs. Jane Garlitz served as chairman and Mrs. Margie Murphy served as co-chairman. The difference in the totals for the two years is accounted in part for the fact that Corriganville's territory this year was a little smaller than in the past year, when adjacent areas were included as part of Corriganville. Actually, therefore, campaign leaders point out, Corriganville proper exceeded its previou support of the Heart program this year.

East of Cumberland, a total of $137.10 was contributed in a broad area. This total includes Town Creek, $2.50, Mrs. Donald Buser, chairman; Little Orleans and Piney Plains, $57.25, Mrs. Marshall Mann, chairman, North Branch, $6; Mrs. Charles Merritt; Twigtown, $10.85, Mrs. Bernard Baker, chairman; Belle Grove, $9.50, Mrs. James L. Robey, chairman; Pleasant Valley, $13, Mrs. Edgar Rephann, chairman; Spring Gap, $20, Mrs. Gilbert Miller, chairman; Oldtown, $18, Mrs. Carl Landis, chairman.

FROSTBURG — The Gleaners Class of First Methodist Church will observe guest night at their meeting scheduled for May 1, at 8 p. m. in the social room of the church. FSTC Yearbook Presented At Ceremony

Dr. Martin Hamrick, left, science instructor at State Teachers College at Frostburg, is shown receiving a copy of the college yearbook "Nemacolin" from Alan Shane, co-editor in a surprise ceremony held before the student body of both college and laboratory school on the campus. The book was dedicated to Dr. Hamrick and the presentation was made after several numbers were played by the dance band, under direction of Dr. Ward K. Cole, in front of Garrett Hall. Following the short program, books were distributed to the students in Lowndes Hall.

Broader Choice For The Farmer?

Legislation has been introduced in Congress to provide a broader referendum among wheat growers and other farming groups.

Wheat growers, for example, are expected to be given a choice between a domestic parity program and the present flexible supports based on a percentage of parity. The support price has been set this year at $1.78 a bushel compared with $2 previously.

The domestic parity choice would entail the two-price system by which producers are paid full parity for that part of their wheat consumed domestically by humans. The rest would be sloughed off for export and feed at whatever price it might bring.

Another choice that may be offered the growers would be that between loans at 90 per cent of parity, and acreage restrictions severe enough to bring the crop in line with demand, or loans at about 60 per cent of parity with all acreage restrictions eliminated.

These referendums have wide farmer backing, including support by the National Association of Wheat Growers and the National Grange.

Since President Eisenhower vetoed the bill to freeze 1958 crop supports at 1957 levels, support in Congress for the optional referendum is growing. The wheat referendum, usually held in July, has been on the basis of farmer approval or disapproval of wheat marketing controls. If two-thirds of farmers voting approve, the controls are established.

It will be good to get farmer ideas of what to do nailed down. Farmer referendums, widely participated in, should get the nation off dead center and into new areas of more effective farm policy.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

I Like Ex-Presidents

Two ex-Presidents are rolling about the United States and both are more popular today then they ever were when they were sitting in the White House.

Herbert Hoover has grown into the most beloved citizen of the country. He is now in the hospital, enjoying a glorious grumpiness, but at 83 recovering from a gall bladder operation with ease and the will-to-live of a young fellow. He has recently been engaged in writing five books, one of which is now ready for the book stores, "The Ordeal of Woodrow Wilson."

To watch him work is a rare privilege, for he digs like a young fellow writing his M. A. thesis; he writes on lined yellow paper in long-hand and he revises draft after draft. Herbert Hoover abhors ghosts which is probably the reason for his enormous literary output. In writing, the rule must be, "Do it yourself." Ghosts clog the works.

I recently attended a dinner of Tammany Hall, in New York County, over which these days Carmine DeSapio presides. The principal speaker was Harry Truman, who at 74, traipses about the country, making speeches, taking publicized walks and doing politics for his party. He is a beloved leader. Nobody needs to agree with any man to love him. When a Democratic audience sees Harry Truman, they see a spunky little guy who fights his way to the kind of political and personal victory that Democrats like and they show it.

Harry Truman's influence over his party increases as he grows older. Therein, he differs from Herbert Hoover who, in his old age, has come to be regarded as beyond partisanship. One cannot imagine Herbert Hoover telling the boys how to lick the Democrats. Harry, on the other hand, gets down to the sidewalks and gives the enemy hell from start to finish with a fervor expected from a young one running for local office. If Harry Truman emphasizes the importance of the plain and simple people, it is because he is certain that he has never graduated from Independence, Missouri, of which he regards Kansas City and probably the rest of the world as a suburb.

Herbert Hoover and Harry Truman are friends. At any rate, they get along with each other better than they do with President Eisenhower, who has, more or less, snubbed or ignored them both.

Harry Truman has been shown no courtesy since Eisenhower has become President, which is bad manners on the President's part, no matter how you look at it. Harry Truman, when he was President, extended due courtesies to Herbert Hoover, appointed him to important consultative and exploratory tasks, and backed him valiantly on the recommendations of the Hoover Reports.

Perhaps, it is customary in the Army folkways that when an old general retires, his successors ignore his existence It is not so customary in politics where a handshake and a smile are permissible even among political enemies who may like each other or not, according to personal taste. True, President Eisenhower continued the Hoover Commission but gave it none of the ardent support that Truman did. Besides, there is a frigidity about the White House, possibly emanating from Sherman Adams' office, which would normally chill such a person as Herbert Hoover. It put icicles about Harry Truman. Silly business!

I had never before seen Harry Truman at a partisan, political, down-to-earth meeting and it was a treat. He was cheering the crowd to go out and work for the re-election of Governor Averell Harriman who will undoubtedly be re-elected unless the Republicans in New York State came come up with a miracle. What obviously the Democrats are afraid of is that the district leaders and such will become complacent, feeling that victory is assured. So they beat the drums and Harry beat the loudest of all and the crowd just loved it and him, too. I don't know when I had more fun, particularly as I sat next to Carmine DeSapio's beautiful and clever wife who never misses a move.

The Republicans do not know, hereabouts, how to play so closely together. They do not mingle so well—and mingle is a word often used in Democratic circles. For instance, the toastmaster of the dinner was Hulan Jack, Negro, who, it is expected, will one day be Mayor of New York.

Grand Jury Probing Congressman Sidesteps Justice Department

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — Justice Department officials have been jittery as a cat on a hot tin roof over the Federal Grand Jury in New York which now appears ready to hold its own independent investigation of the income taxes of Rep. Adam Clayton Powell, the Negro Congressman from Harlem.

In the summer of 1956, this column reported that Mr. Powell, a Democrat, had discovered he was under tax investigation and that three of his secretaries were being indicted under circumstances which involved giving salary kickbacks to the Congressman.

Mr. Powell, in the past a rootin' tootin' Eisenhower critic, then got in touch with Vice President Nixon and became a rootin' tootin' Eisenhower booster. As a Democrat he urged Negroes to vote Republican. A special press conference was arranged for him, first in New York by Max Rabb, the White House aide, and John Roosevelt, the GOP member of the FDR family. Later another press conference was arranged right inside the White House by Jim Hagerty himself.

Thereafter the grand jury investigating the Harlem Congressman mysteriously came to a halt. On Nov. 24, 1956, this column reported: "The U.S. Attorney's office in New York wants to press the case against the Congressman. However, there are indications that the Justice Department planned to drop the case in return for Powell's campaigning for the Republicans.

Last week, 18 months later, full confirmation of this came from Thomas A. Bolan, the assistant U.S. attorney in charge of the Powell grand jury. Asked whether it was true that on March 18, 1957, he was informed by his superiors that on orders from Washington the U.S. Attorney's office in New York was abandoning the investigation and turning it over to the Treasury Department, Mr. Bolan replied:

"That is correct."

"Is it correct that you were asked to write a letter to the Attorney General advising that the case should be handled by the Treasury and that you declined?"

"That is correct," Bolan replied.

Mr. Bolan did not say so, but it was clear that he did not go along with any political fix in the Powell case.

Runaway Grand Jury

Meanwhile here are some of the facts in the files of the U.S. Attorney's office which have prompted the jury to take the Powell case into its own hands—whether the Justice Department like it or not.

In 1954, Powell's campaign manager, Joseph Ford, broke with Powell and thereafter some of the Congressman's financial records reached the Justice Department. Subsequently, two of Powell's secretaries, Acy Lennon and Hattie Dodson, were convicted; a third, William Hampton, was indicted, while John Henry Harmon, treasurer of the Federal Credit Union of the Abyssinian Baptist Church, pleaded guilty to embezzlement. Powell is pastor of the church, one of the biggest in the world, and has been president of its "Federal Credit Union." His secretary, Hattie Dodson, was treasurer. Both resigned when the tax investigation started, and Harmon, succeeding Mrs. Dodson, pleaded guilty. Lennon and Hampton, two of Powell's secretaries, received salaries of $8,000 a year from the Dorie Miller Houses in addition to their government salaries.

Quick Parole

Part of the deal arranged in the election campaign of 1956 was that the Congressman's secretary, Hattie Dodson, should be released as soon as possible from the Women's Federal Penitentiary at Alderson, W. Va. She became eligible for parole on September 25, got a hearing that same day, and was granted parole effective October 17.

Mrs. Dodson had been convicted of income-tax evasion after paying salary kickbacks to the Congressman. This writer has helped to convict three Congressmen for taking kickbacks, and in each case they, not their secretaries, were prosecuted. In the case of Powell, however, the secretaries were prosecuted while he campaigned for Eisenhower.

Indicative of the jitteryness of Justice Department officials over the Powell grand jury is the fact that Herbert Brownell, former Attorney General, never held a press conference in Washington after the Powell case came up. New Attorney General Rogers has flatly refused to answer questions about the Powell case.

Note — In contrast to the Justice Department's maneuvering to stymie the Powell grand jury, the same Justice Department called three grand juries in Omaha, Kansas City and St. Louis in an effort to try to indict ex-Secretary of the Treasury John Snyder and other high officials of the Truman administration. In the end former Assistant Attorney General Lamar Caudle and Matt Connelly, secretary to Truman, were convicted, not of taking bribes, gifts, or of tax evasion, but of "depriving the United States of their best services."

Khrushchev As Victim Or As A New Stalin?

By Joseph Alsop

WASHINGTON

With extraordinary abruptness and considerable brutality, the Kremlin has now reversed the policy of friendship toward Yugoslavia which was the first fruit of Nikita Khrushchev's rise to power.

The most curious aspect of this important event is the timing. The pretext for the new Soviet excommunication of the Yugoslavs was the "draft program" of the Yugoslav Communist Party. This document, which was published at the beginning of March, has just now been discovered to be crammed with intolerable heresies.

The question at once arises, why these intolerable heresies were not spotted much earlier. All of March and early April passed by in peace and amity, with the heretical program already staring the Kremlin in the face. In this period, Nikita Khrushchev even requested Marshal Tito accept a visit from his Hungarian stooge, Janos Kadar and Kadar was duly invited for a jolly week-end in Yugoslavia.

Then something happened in the Kremlin, presumably about mid-April, for a denunciation of the Yugoslav program was passed for publication in the Soviet paper, "Kommunist," on April 15. Thereafter the Soviet Party theorist, Pospelov, delivered a stinging attack on the Yugoslavs as his contribution to the celebration of Lenin's 88th birthday. Finally the Soviets organized a general boycott of the Yugoslav Party Congress at Ljubljana by all the states of the "Socialist camp."

The Yugoslavs were frankly taken by surprise by the boycott, which again underlines the last-minute, wholly unexpected character of the squabble. And just to round out the mystery, "Pravda" publishes a renewed and very venomous attack on old Molotov and his allies, who had opposed Khrushchev's pro-Yugoslav policy, at almost the same time when Pospelov was attacking the Yugoslavs.

Concerning this intensely significant and intensely bewildering sequence of events, there is only one point of general agreement among the experts. All agree that the sudden Soviet-Yugoslav break is a by-product of another inner struggle in the Kremlin. But as usual in these cases, no one can tell who is kicking whom.

One thesis is that the neo-Stalinists, Pospelov and the high and dry doctrinaire, Mikhail Suslov, have at last organized a successive opposition to Nikita Khrushchev. It is a tempting thesis. Condemnation of the Yugoslavs after all implies condemnation of the very first major policy decision that has a clear Khrushchev label.

The opposite thesis sees the master-hand of Khrushchev behind the new development. When Marshl Zhukov was destroyed, the Yugoslavs themselves at first argued that Khrushchev had been "pushed by the Stalinnists," such as Suslov. But in the end, the Yugoslavs concluded that the real prime mover in the destruction of Zhukov was the very man whom Zhukov had just saved from destruction, Nikita Khrushchev himself.

In the present instance, Khrushchev again has to deal with one of the forces that sustained him in his long and devious rise to the supreme position. Zhukov and the Communist Party apparatus were his twin supports throughout the whole elimination contest in the Kremlin. Zhukov asked too much reward, as saviors will, and Zhukov was taken care of—with the help of the party apparatus. More recently, the party apparatus has shown signs of getting above itself, particularly by obstructing Khrushchev's immensely radical agricultural reforms. So may not Khrushchev be preparing to teach their proper place to the party bureaucrats, as he taught his place to Zhukov?

The trouble with this thesis is obvious enough. The condemnation of the Yugoslavs must surely be pleasing to the party extremists like Suslov and Pospelov, as Pospelov's role indicates. At best, therefore, it would be an astonishingly devious maneuver in a Khrushchev game to defeat the party bureaucrats.

But Khrushchev is just the kind of wrestler who gets his stranglehold by seeming to give way. Furthermore, the Yugoslavs themselves plainly blame Khrushchev personally for their condemnation. At Ljubljana, they have attached Khrushchev personally instead of denouncing "Stalinist survivors who still cause tragic distortions," as they would otherwise have done. In fact the Yugoslavs see what has happened as another stage in the transformation of Khrushchev into a somewhat jollier image of Josef Stalin.

As between the two theses, you can pay your money and take your choice.

Baering Down On The News

By Arthur "Bugs" Baer

Republicans claim they are going through a hammock economy. Sagging in the middle and high on both ends.

Democrats are pessimistic over the future until 1960. Then they expect to be taller in the saddle than a monkey on a giraffe.

We might use the checks and balances employed by Daniel Boone in the Indian wars. Daniel said, "If you're bothered by dandruff you still have your scalp."

We never did understand the upgrades and ski runs of statistical fever charts. Ex-Secretary Wilson said what's good for the United States is good for me. But never explained what it was.

Main difficulty with hammock economy is the consumer is the lump.

He's blamed for over-stocking, he's blamed for under-stocking and when they're even they promote him to a proxy.

Some experts say it's a buyer's market and some claim it's a seller's market. Either way we never saw a fellow get rid of a mule at a race track.

There are ups and downs and ins and outs. And a fair exchange is a waste of everybody's time.

In Spandau Prison

By Bob Considine

BERLIN, April 28 — (INS) — Men have fended off madness in prison for untold centuries and in uncountable ways. Albert Speer, Hitler's last minister for armaments, who has served 11 of 20 years of a sentence handed down in the Nuremberg war trials, is walking from Berlin to Tehran.

He is pacing off the 2,000 miles inside his little cell at Spandau Prison!

In each monthly letter he is permitted to send out of this strange and depressing old lock-up — whose prisoner population consists of himself, Rudolph Hess and Walter von Schirach — Speer has described at length the cities and areas through which he has "walked" on his imaginary way to the Iranian capital.

The letters go to his wife, Mrs. Speer and their two daughters have been supported for years by Willy Schlieker who, at 26, headed all steel production in the War Ministry. Schlieker survived Hitler's downfall very well and has become one of the new group of young postwar West German millionaires who may soon replace the oil-shipping Greeks as the top playboys of the Western world. Among Schlieker's coups was the sale to Ruhr factories of coal mined in Pennsylvania.

He discovered that this could be done at a profit despite the cost of shipping it and the fact that the Ruhr itself contained some of the richest coal deposits on earth. He is believed to have made eight million dollars on that deal alone, while it lasted, and a tiny portion of it has gone to the family of the imprisoned man for whom he once worked.

The Allied powers have made several efforts to spring Speer but Russia, which has equal authority over Spandau, always vetos the pardon plans.

Hess, who stole a Nazi fighter, flew it to Scotland, parachuted on to the estate of the Duke of Hamilton and tried to make a separate peace early in World War II, has never been certified as insane. But the prevailing impression at the Nuremberg trials was that he is, and the long years in Spandau since then have only accented the view. Mrs. Hess is dead.

The other prisoner, Walter von Schirach, was leader of the Hitler Youth. He too got 20 years. Mrs. von Schirach periodically appeals for her husband's release. Hess got life. Half a dozen others who served time there have been released, including Dr. Hjalmar Schacht. Walter Funk, the last head of the Reich Bank and a lesser financial wizard than Schacht, died in this old, turreted redbrick heap.

Spandau is unquestionably the most expensive can in the world. It costs each of the four powers tens of thousands of dollars each year to keep these three Nazis in the pokey. They could charter a DC-7 and send Speer to Tehran as its sole passenger first class and save money.

The authority of each of the four powers is consecutive and of one-month duration. The power which takes charge on the first day of each month brings in its own guards, troops, sentries, turnkeys, doctors, food, cooks, cleaning people, telephone operators and so forth. It's also responsible for heat and light.

The Russians consistently starve the Nazis during the month they are in charge. Then we come in and fatten them up again. And so it goes inside Spandau as the years roll on and the boots of Speer, walking to Tehran, go click, click, click, hour after hour each day and sometimes well into the night.

The problem of defection to the West through the open door that is Berlin has been of genuine concern to the Communists. They do what they can to keep the figure as low as possible.

For example, no member of the Czechoslovakian Embassy staff stationed in East Germany may visit West German terriory unless he leaves at least one member of his family behind in Communist-controlled Germany. East German students who look into West Germany face expulsion from their class rooms, once they return. Clergymen, doctors and other professional men who are invited to attend conventions or conferences in the West are ordered to send their regrets.

Fate and the ability of an East German cop to count has stopped another East German who prospered by traveling back and forth between the slave and free world.

The cop finally realized after months of watching the man drive his wagon past the sentinel box that in the mornings the wagon would always be pulled by two horses and at night it would come home propelled by one. It turned out that the driver had a lively horse meat trade in the West. Now he is facing a sentence for helping the economy of the enemy.

Simple New Color Code Test For Ovulation

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

A simple new test is available to determine the exact time of ovulation, which is when a woman is most likely to conceive. This method should prove helpful for the barren couple who are otherwise normal, as fertilization tends to occur when an ovum leaves an ovary on its way to the uterus.

Doctors Charles H. Birnberg, Raphael Kurzrok, and Anne Laufer reported recently on their results with Tes-Tape. Ovulation usually takes place midway in the menstrual cycle and chemical tests show an increase in the sugar (glucose) content of the cervical secretions at that time.

Diabetics have been testing their urine for sugar with a strip of chemically treated paper (Tes-Tape). Its yellow color changes to deep green when glucose is present. The New York obstetricians mentioned decided to study a group of 27 women with a sterility problem, who were candidates for artificial insemination. Daily tests were made on the cervical secretions, starting on the 10th day after the beginning of the last menstrual period. The Tes-Tape became pale green two days prior to the theoretical day of ovulation. On the day of ovulation it turned deep green and thereafter began fading. When insemination was done on the day of the deepest color change, 20 of the 27 women became pregnant after the first trial. Conception occurred in three of the remaining seven on subsequent attempts.

Ten women who were hospitalized for nonemergency pelvic surgery volunteered for these tests. The abdominal operation was scheduled for the day after the Tes-Tape showed deep green. In each of the 10 patients there was evidence that an ovum had ruptured recently from an ovary. The majority of these women were 46 to 53 years of age.

This procedure has obvious advantages over the time consuming temperature test for ovulation. In this procedure, the thermometer is used every morning before getting out of bed. A slight increase in the reading is noted midway in the menstrual cycle, which corresponds with the ovulation period.

NECK STRETCHING

D. L. writes: How do you stretch your neck? This refers to the health hint in which you said pain in the neck can be relieved by stretching it.

REPLY

In two ways — by using a head halter and by the following exercises. First turn the head as far as possible to the right and then to the left. Next, drop the chin toward the chest and return head to an upright position. Try to touch the right shoulder with the right ear and vice versa. Do each exercise five times and repeat at intervals during the day. A more vigorous type of stretching involves doing the same exercises except that the hands are clasped behind the head to offer resistance.

TONSIL TAGS

E. F. writes: Can the tonsils grow back years after they are removed?

REPLY

No. It is difficult to remove the tonsils without leaving small bits of tissue in the tonsil beds. These small tags may enlarge with each succeeding sore throat and cold. In some instances they grow so big they look as though the tonsils had returned.

PROTECTING BABY'S EYES

D. W. writes: Why are drops put in a baby's eyes soon after birth?

REPLY

To prevent the transmission of a gonorrheal infection from the mother. In the past, many babies were blinded by this disease. After the use of antiseptic drops became mandatory, the incidence of blindness from this source became practically nil.

STAY OR MOVE?

C. W. writes: Does a kidney stone stay in the kidney or does it move out?

REPLY

Large stones sign a lease but small ones are transients. If a stone is too big to escape, it remains in the kidney until removed surgically. Smaller concretions are washed out, along with the urine, through the ureters into the bladder. Rocks of borderline size may get stuck halfway down the trail.

TOMORROW: Steroids in psoriasis.

To the limit of space questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed Telephone inquiries not accepted Dr Van Dellen will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

Joey Adams appears at many benefits, and the societies and fraternal orders he has thus favored have given him elaborate badges as tokens of their appreciation. Adams used to tuck the badges into the glove compartment of his car.

One evening a motorcycle cop clocked him doing 75 miles an hour and asked for his license. Joey, remembering his badges, thought the cop might be sufficiently impressed to let him off with a dressing-down.

The cop looked at the badges with a fishy eye, spoke his piece, and wrote out a ticket. But now, for the first time, Adams knows what he can do with those badges.

A tank-about-town was persuaded to take up yoga. After months of torturing long unused muscles, he became quite proficient at it, too.

"Has yoga helped him?" his wife was asked. "In one way," she answered. "Now he can get loaded standing on his head, too."

St. Louis Reported Seeking Ashburn

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The last-place St. Louis Cardinals are trying to swing a deal for a front-line player, presumably Richie Ashburn of Philadelphia.

Bing Devine, general manager of the Cardinals, would not name the club he is negotiating with or the player sought by the Cardinals.

Derby Dope? Could Be, For This Guy Picks Jewel's Reward To Win Run For The Roses

The stretch and the crowd at Churchill Downs

Tim Tam

Nadir

Jewel's Reward

By WALTER L. JOHNS

Central Press Sports Writer
Here comes Silky down the stretch,
To pick up that Derby hoard;
But he just ain't gonna catch,
Eddie and Jewel's Reward!

WHEN YA GOTTA GO—with something—ya gotta go. And we're going with what we consider the best of the three-year olds, Jewel's Reward. That's in the Derby, coming up Saturday.

Sure we like that rocket ship from the west coast, Silky Sullivan, and the probable favorite, Tim Tam, from the Calumet barn, but to us the class of the race is the Jewel, and classy Eddie Arcaro will be giving us a big boot out of the 84th Kentucky Derby when the Maine Chance colt comes home on top.

All right, so Silky will be coming in the stretch. We can hear the roar of the 100,000 jammed all over the ancient track in Louisville, "Here Comes Silky!" But to our way of thinking, let him come. The Jewel will be out there and they just ain't gonna catch him.

That Tim Tam is one helluva colt, too, and Valenzuela ain't no slouch. We remember that day at Hialeah last March when we had our tickets bet on the Jewel and that darn Tim Tam came charging around the turn, with our Jewel running in front, and both jammed up. The Jewel and Tim Tam battled it out down the stretch and while we lost our dough when our colt was disqualified, the Jewel didn't falter; he stayed right there with Tim Tam and WON, even if unofficially.

It's difficult to figure out how Silky will do. We know he likes to run from behind, and we also know that he has run some fabulous last quarters. But old horsemen will tell you that you can't spot a GOOD horse 30 lengths or more and beat him. Silky will be up against the Jewel, who won a mere $349,442 last year while taking five races in 12 starts, two of his losses being caused by foot trouble.

The Jewel has run well this year, too, winning a tune-up at Hialeah, BEATING Tim Tam in the mile and one-eighth Flamingo, and then winning the Wood Memorial. Shucks, that's enough for us.

BREEDING plays a part in stake races, to be sure, and Tim Tam has it. His sire, Tom Fool, was "horse of the year" in 1953, and his dam, Two Lea, was "mare of the year" in 1950. But the Jewel ain't no bum in background, either, for he comes from a big family which includes, if you go back into it, such famed turf stars as Jet Pilot, Blenheim II, Equipoise, War Jeep and War Admiral. His pop's Jet Jewel and his mom's Belle Jeep.

Arcaro should help us, too. This will be his 19th Derby ride and he's already won five of them. This may be his last, and he sure is going to go all out. You can be sure that the Jewel's running habits will be straightened out by Eddie and you can be sure that the colt is going to be up somewhere near the front of the pack and, as we said, they've got to catch him in that stretch.

The crowd will be with Silky. Many of the Kentucky hardboots will go, naturally, to the Calumet king, Tim Tam, as they always do. Nadir and some of the others will get some backing, to be sure. But for our money, it's going on Jewel's Reward. So there.

Yanks To Face Detroit In First Of 16 At Home

Shantz, Ford Named To Pitch; Del Greco Works At 3rd Base

BY HOWARD SIGMAND

NEW YORK, April 28 — (INS) — Casey Stengel, a man who seemingly has a lifetime ticket to the American League's throne room, said today that he isn't the world's most happy fellow.

"My top pitchers have looked good," Stengel confessed, "but there are a lot of things I've got to find out on this home stand."

Stengel's talent-loaded Yankees, off to an 8-3 start and first placing the league per usual, begin a 16-game at-home engagement tomorrow when the Detroit Tigers show up at Yankee Stadium.

The Yankee pitchers have put together a sensational 1.93 earned run average in the early going, but "the perfessor" isn't quite ready to do any backflips about his apparent mound wealth.

"I gotta see more about my pitching. I gotta see about (Johnny) Kucks, (Bob) Grim, (Tom) Sturdivant and some of the others," Stengel said. "Kucks has been good and bad. Sturdivant hasn't been as good as he can be and Grim's still off . . ."

Stengel hardly ever is one to reach for a weeping towel, but the Yankee manager referred to his "ticklish" infield situation.

Praises Andy Carey

He praised injured third baseman Andy Carey for "playing on one leg."

Tony Kubek is still hobbled by a leg injury and Jerry Lumpe is out with a sprained ankle.

Kubek, the 1957 rookie-of-the-year, hasn't seen any action this season and probably won't get into the lineup this week.

"What's the sense of rushing Kubek into the lineup?" Stengel asked. "A little extra rest won't hurt the kind of muscle injury he's got."

Stengel, never one to sit back and wait, has had outfielder Bobby Del Greco working out at third base.

"He played there in the minor leagues," Stengel said. "He also played a couple of games at third for the Pirates. I want him ready in case I need someone to do the job in an emergency."

To Pitch Shantz, Ford

Stengel named Bobby Shantz and Whitey Ford, his lefty aces, as the two pitchers who will start against the Tigers.

Ford, who has a 1-1 record and has allowed only one earned run in 19 innings, put in a good word for Casey's pitching crew.

This is a real good staff," Ford declared. "I'd say it shapes up as well as the one we had in 1953 when we had Vic Raschi, Allie Reynolds, Ed Lopat, Johnny Sain and Bob Kuzava."

That staff also included a southpaw named Whitey Ford.

Harvard University's marching band, one of the nation's outstanding college musical organizations, performed at the Boston Red Sox opening game April 15 at Fenway Park against the New York Yankees.

Shepherd College's Rams are scheduled to play Frostburg State Teachers College at Mt. Savage and Potomac State College will entertain Davis & Elkins College at Keyser in games on tap for today.

Potomac State (6-4-1) will be shooting for its third straight win in the West Virginia Intercollegiate Athletic Conference when it battles the Senators from Elkins at Stayman Field today at 3 p. m.

Coach John Fox's Catamounts have beaten Shepherd, 8-3, and Alderson-Broaddus 14-5 in conference games played to date.

Majors' Group Would Relax Regulations On Team Shifts

Approves Lifting Of Restrictions

CHICAGO (AP)—Amendment of a major league baseball regulation which would relax restrictions on expansion or franchise shifts was recommended Monday by the committee on territorial rights.

The committee, which includes Commissioner Ford Frick, drafted this amendment:

"To provide and stimulate competition for the league pennants and for the world championship, and to accommodate shifts and growth of population, the circuit of either major league may be changed to include any city of the other major league after approval of the league desiring to change its circuit and the commissioner.

"Such approval by the commissioner should be withheld until after hearings have been held and the necessary investigations conducted."

At present, one league cannot enter another's territory without unanimous approval of members of both leagues.

In addition to Frick, other committee members attending the session were Warren Giles, president of the National League; attorney Roy Egan of the Chicago White Sox; club presidents Harvey Hansen of Detroit and Joe Cairnes of Milwaukee; general managers Frank Lane of Cleveland and Gabe Paul of Cincinnati, the Charles Segar, secretary-treasurer of baseball.

Milwaukee Leaves Covington At Home

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Wes Covington, injured outfielder, will not accompany the Milwaukee Braves on a 9-game road trip opening in Chicago Tuesday.

Dr. Bruce Brewer examined Covington's knee Monday and said it was coming along fine. He advised a continuance of light workouts and will look at the knee again Thursday. Covington jammed the knee in a slide during an exhibition game at Dallas, Tex., April 9.

Finland, India, Chile Advance In Net Tests

LONDON (AP)—Finland went into the second round of European Zone Davis Cup tennis competition Monday while Chile and India were putting the finishing touches to their victories.

Finland's doubles team defeated Luxembourg's 6-1, 5-7, 4-6, 6-4, 6-4. The victory gave Finland a 3-0 lead in the five-match meeting.

Finland is now qualified to meet Mexico in the second round to be played May 15-17 in Finland.

India finished winning all five of its matches against Monaco in Monte Carlo and next plays Italy.

Chile finished off a 4-1 victory over Turkey in Istanbul after clinching the victory Sunday.

Hunter Paces ACC Batsmen

Wolfpack Player Is Hitting .408

GREENSBORO, N. C. (AP)—Dick Hunter, North Carolina State's halfback star turned outfielder, again leads Atlantic Coast Conference batters this week. He is the only man in the ACC batting .400 or better.

According to ACC Service Bureau figures through games of Saturday, Hunter is batting .408 with Maryland's Andy McDonald second at .388. Last week's leader, Tommy Gravins of Virginia, went none for seven during the week and fell from .458 to .355. Gravins is now eighth.

A close friend in the batting race is Rex McMillan of Wake Forest, hitting .386. Russ Casteen of North Carolina State is fourth at .370 and Art Clessuras of Maryland rounds out the top five at .369.

County Gives Liberally To Heart Campaign

Some Areas Ahead Of Last Year

A number of county communities and areas have completed their Heart Fund campaign reports and in every area, returns show that there is growing interest in and support for the Heart program, according to F. Allan Weatherholt, president of the Allegany-Garrett Heart Association.

These reports, where possible, show comparative figures with the same areas last year, however alignment of solocitation boundaries in some instances made accurate comparisons difficult. The overall picture, however, Mr. Weatherholt noted, shows that despite some misunderstanding, citizens generally responded to the appeal for direct giving to the Heart program.

A final report of the Heart Fund campaign in the Westernport and Luke area shows that a total of $543.90 was contributed. This is in addition to funds raised in the Piedmont area for the West Virginia program.

Mrs. Melvin Moorehead was chairman for Luke and Mrs. Wanda Stephens was chairman for Westernport.

The Heart Sunday solocitation produced $129.50 in Luke and $312.25 in Westernport. Plastic Heart coin containers produced $19.15. Clubs and organizations donated $25; The Mayor and Council of Luke gave $20. Individual checks totaled $13 and professional gifts totaled $25.

Mrs. Stephens said that volunteers in Westernport included Mrs. Elsie Wilson, Mrs. Norma Knotts, Mrs. Amanda Nichols, Mrs. Dorothy Riggs, Mrs. Gladys Taylor, Mrs. Virginia Kooken, Mrs. Louise Nasser, Mrs. Bonnie Biggs, Mrs. Mary Dunnivan, Mrs. Pansy McIntyre, Mrs. Holly Fazenbaker, Mrs. Mary Foley, Mrs. Peggy Shaw, Mrs. Jerry Bartlett, Mrs. Violet Daddysman and Miss Catherine Lupis.

In Luke, Mrs. Moorehead said her volunteers included Mrs. Elwood Gift, Mrs. Roy Cave, Mrs. Calvin Combs, Mrs. Aveline Diaz, Mrs. Kenneth Maphis, Mrs. Charles Metter, Mrs. Manuel Diaz, Mrs. Troxell Grove, Mrs. Anthony DiGioia, Mrs. Garrett Carskadon, Mrs. Robert Walker and Miss Helen Crites.

In Frostburg, Mrs. Thomas Jackson served as chairman and reported total collections of $754.82. This included a successful Heart Sunday with $537.54 contributed in the house-to-house solicitation; $62.98 from Plastic Heart coin containers; $28.50 from clubs and organizations; $10 from business groups; $90.80 in individual checks; and $25 from a professional contribution.

Mrs. Mildred Sweene, who served as chairman for the Eckhart area reported a total of $125.13 collected on Heart Sunday. She was assisted by Mrs. Vivian Cunningham and a corps of volunteers.

In Lonaconing, the Heart program was also given excellent support, according to Mrs. Elmer Ravenscroft, 5 Scotch Hill, who served as chairman. The Heart Sunday canvas totaled $236.40. Plastic Hearts produced $22.50; Clubs and Organizations donated $47.50 and individual checks amounted to $9, for a community total of $315.40.

Ellerslie exceeded its quota and also contributed more liberally to the Heart program than it has done in any past year. Mrs. Edward Burkett, chairman reported collections totaling $147 on Heart Sunday and $3.68 in coin containers for a community total of $150.68. Last year $111 was contributed in Ellerslie.

Corriganville came within a few dollars of meeting last year's total, when the residents contributed $86.54 against last year's $90.54. Coin containers accounted for $6.89 while the house-to-house solicitation produced gifts totaling $79.65. Mrs. Jane Garlitz served as chairman and Mrs. Margie Murphy served as co-chairman. The difference in the totals for the two years is accounted in part for the fact that Corriganville's territory this year was a little smaller than in the past year, when adjacent areas were included as part of Corriganville. Actually, therefore, campaign leaders point out, Corriganville proper exceeded its previou support of the Heart program this year.

East of Cumberland, a total of $137.10 was contributed in a broad area. This total includes Town Creek, $2.50, Mrs. Donald Buser, chairman; Little Orleans and Piney Plains, $57.25, Mrs. Marshall Mann, chairman, North Branch, $6; Mrs. Charles Merritt; Twiggtown, $10.85, Mrs. Bernard Baker, chairman; Belle Grove, $9.50, Mrs. James L. Robey, chairman; Pleasant Valley, $13, Mrs. Edgar Rephann, chairman; Spring Gap, $20, Mrs. Gilbert Miller, chairman; Oldtown, $18, Mrs. Carl Landis, chairman.

Class To Meet

FROSTBURG — The Gleaners Class of First Methodist Church will observe guest night at their meeting scheduled for May 1, at 8 p. m. in the social room of the church. Each member is urged to bring a guest. The committee in charge is Margaret Jones, chairman; Emily Jeffries, Anne Kreider, Eva Jo Kemp and Lois Baer.

FSTC Yearbook Presented At Ceremony

Joseph Wimer Transferred To Lewis County

KEYSER — Joseph W. Wimer, Mineral County agricultural agent for nearly four years, is being transferred to Lewis County.

Wimer said his work would still be under the Agricultural Extension Service of West Virginia University, but it would be confined to the specialized Rural Development Program.

Wimer's headquarters will be in Weston, but he will have his activities in three other counties. He expects to assume his new duties in the next few days. No successor to Wimer here has been named.

The rest of Wimer's family will remain in Keyser until the end of the school term when they will move to Weston.

WSCS Zone 1 Has Election

LONACONING — Mrs. Arthur Phillips of Lonaconing has been renamed president of Zone 1 of the Woman's Society of Christian Service. The election was held in First Methodist Church here.

Also renamed were Mrs. Catherine Layman, Shaft, vice president and Mrs. Chester Yates, Vale Summit, secretary-treasurer. The nominating committee included presidents of Midland, Frostburg and Vale Summit units.

Valenzuela To Ride Tim Tam In Derby Trial Today

Jamaica Ace Will Replace Bill Hartack

Nadir Among Ten Horses Entered In $15,000 Race

By JOHN CHANDLER

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Ismael Valenzuela, leading rider in New York this spring, will ride favored Tim Tam in the Derby Trial Stakes Tuesday and it was assumed the little Texan will be aboard the Calumet Farm colt in the $125,000-added Kentucky Derby Saturday.

Surprise selection of the 24-year-old Valenzuela, one of 22 children, was made by Jimmy Jones, the Calumet trainer. The move was forced because Bill Hartack, Calumet's regular jockey, suffered a broken leg when thrown from a horse two days ago.

Tim Tam is expected to be the favorite in the 84th running of the colorful racing classic if for no other reason than Calumet's Derby record and the Jones boys, Jimmy and his dad Ben.

Ten horses were entered for the $15,000-added one mile Derby Trial with Tim Tam the early favorite at 4-5. The Maine Chance Farm's Ebony Pearl, George Lewis' Martins Rullah and the Claiborne Farm's Nadir loom as the main threats to Tim Tam, already winner of two $100,000 races this year, the Flamingo and the Florida Derby.

DERBY BOUND? — Jockey Ismael Valenzuela, above, will ride Tim Tam in the Kentucky Derby Trial today, replacing Bill Hartack, who suffered a fractured leg in a spill Saturday. Calumet Farms trainer Jimmy Jones did not say, however, if Valenzuela would get the nod for the big race Saturday. (AP Photofax)

Elsbeth, Claimed Horse, Is Destroyed After Breakdown

LAUREL, Md., April 28 (AP) — The horse ambulance had to be used to remove a claimed horse from Laurel Race Course today, for the second time in less than a week.

Gabriel E. Proulx put up $2,500 for Elsbeth in the first race but the 3-year-old filly will never run a race for her new owner. She was destroyed after being taken to her new barn.

Elsbeth, a 5-2 favorite in the mile and a sixteenth test, broke down badly in the backstretch. Jockey Howard Grant was lucky in easing her up without falling. His Proof went on to win the race by three-quarters of a length over Cosmic Bess, paying $15.40, $7.40 and $6.20.

In the featured seventh, the $6,000 Tri-State Purse for 4-year-olds and up, True Verdict easily coasted home three lengths ahead of Tudor Era in the six-furlong event. True Verdict, paying $4.60, $2.80 and $2.60 took the lead midway of the turn and held on to the finish.

The 10,798 fans who turned out under gray skies wagered $974,422.

Hastego Is Victor In Mud At Jamaica

JAMAICA, N. Y., April 28 (AP)—Mrs. Arthur White's Hastego sprinted to the lead at the start and kept it every inch of the way in annexing the Mitchel Field Handicap at rain-soaked Jamaica Race Track today.

Hastego toted 122 pounds, most of it Willie Boland, in scoring by two and a quarter lengths over F. Ambrose Clark's Amber Diver, who took the place by two and three quarter lengths over Robert O. J. Streuber's Pylades.

Hastego, solid favorite with the crowd of 18,874, returned the across the board mutuels of $4.80, $3.20 and $2.50. Amber Diver returned $6.70 and $4.10 and Pylandes was $4.00 to show.

Fans Are Confused By Time Changes

CINCINNATI (AP) — The start of daylight savings time, plus some unfamiliarity with Pacific Coast times, is causing confusion among baseball fans as to the times on which major league baseball clubs are operating, says Dave Grote, service director of the National League.

Grote said this is the schedule in the National League:

Pittsburgh and Philadelphia play their games on Eastern Daylight Time; Cincinnati is on Eastern Standard Time; Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Louis play on Central Daylight Time and Los Angeles and San Francisco on Pacific Daylight Time.

CCC Plans Sunday Pro-Am Tournament

Dodgers Run Ahead Of All-Time Record Attendance

377,601 See Los Angeles Nine Games

Surpasses Tribe's 1948 Mark: Orioles Show 11,000 Gain

By BEN OLAN

NEW YORK (AP)—The Los Angeles Dodgers are running ahead of the all-time record attendance pace while spearheading a National League increase of more than 50 per cent over last season.

The Dodgers have hauled in 377,601 customers in nine appearances in the Los Angeles Coliseum. When the Cleveland Indians set the big league record of 2,620,627 in their pennant-winning 1948 season they had 357,844 after nine home games.

The Milwaukee Braves, who established the National League mark of 2,215,404 paid admissions last season, drew 196,746 in ther first nine games in County Stadium in 1957.

The Dodgers had a gate total of 109,520 in nine Ebbets Field games a year ago. The capacity in the Brooklyn park is 31,111 and in the Coliseum it is about 94,000.

Although the capacity in Seals Stadium is less than half that of the Polo Grounds (23,448 to 52,000), the San Francisco Giants have played before 168,728 home fans. In as many showings in New York in 1957 only 68,695 turned out.

Pirates 22,000 Behind

In addition to the Giants and Dodgers only the Chicago Cubs and St. Louis Cardinals are moving front of last season's attendance figures. Milwaukee is 6,000 behind. Philadelphia and Cincinnati trail by 25,000 and Pittsburgh by 22,000.

However, the turnstile resurgence of the two West Coast teams has helped lift the National League attendance to 965,306. In a comparable number of games last season it was only 642,586.

Set Two Records

The Dodgers already have shattered two National League gate marks. They hit the high one game record in their home opener (78,672) and then broke the senior circuit standard for a night game (60,635) last Friday.

American League attendance shows an approximate 11 per cent increase largely due to a gate slump by the New York Yankees.

The junior loop has had 601,894 customers compared with 677,022. The Yankees, in five home dates, have attracted only 81,891. A year ago they had 129,736.

The Indians, who drew only 722,256 admissions in 1957, show signs of even a further drop this year. In eight home showings in Municipal Stadium where the capacity is 73,500, the Indians have an aggregate attendance of 65,817. Last season they had 86,165.

The surprisingly inept Red Sox are 20,000 off from last year.

Orioles On Upgrade

Kansas City trails its 1957 figures by 23,000. The other four American League clubs are on the upgrade. They are Detroit (14,000), Baltimore (11,000), Chicago (7,000) and Washington (2,000).

GOLFING IS SO MUCH FUN, WHEN YOU MAKE A HOLE-IN-ONE — Biggest thrill in the $40,000 Tournament of Champions in Las Vegas was the hole-in-one, first in the six-year history of the event, fired by Jimmy Demaret on the 213-yard 11th hole. His two-iron shot took only one bounce. He is receiving a cake (left photo) for his feat from Howard Capps (left), pro at the Desert Inn Country club. The same day, in San Mateo, Calif., Mrs. Robert Steiner (left in right photo) made a hole-in-one on the 131-yard 15th hole at the Peninsula Country club. Mrs. Ray Morris (right), another member of Mrs. Steiner's foursome, stepped up to the same tee and duplicated the feat. It was the first ace for both. (International Soundphotos)

Gov. Chandler Says Organized Ball Monopoly

Calls Commissioner "Stooge"; Would Testify In Suit

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — Kentucky Gov. A. B. Chandler said Monday organized baseball has become a monopoly and has forfeited the right to be dealt with as a sport.

Chandler, baseball commissioner from 1945 to 1951, said the office of commissioner as he knew it has been abolished and major league club owners "instead put in a stooge who would do their bidding first and foremost."

Actions of the majors contributed to the death of the minors, he said.

The governor made the comment when asked if he would testify in a suit filed against Commissioner Ford Frick and the major leagues by Frank D. Lawrence, owner of a now defunct Portsmouth, Va., Class B. team.

Chandler said he would testify if requested by the court. The suit, filed in 1954, is to go to trial soon in federal court for the southern district of New York, according to Lawrence.

"Because of the selfishness and greed of the major league club owners acting through a puppet commissioner, baseball has forfeited the right to be dealt with as a sport instead of as a business," Chandler said.

He charged the majors have "encroached on the territory of the minor leagues, saturating those areas with television and radio, giving nothing in return and thereby causing the death of the minor leagues."

Lawrence's suit asks $250,000 damages from Frick and the American and National leagues. He owned the Portsmouth Merrimacs, members of the eight-club Class B Piedmont League disbanded in 1955.

His suit charged the majors violated baseball rule 1-A on territorial rights by invading his franchise area with radio and television without his permission.

Charles Comiskey

Mrs. Rigney

FAMILY SQUABBLE — In a news conference in Chicago, Mrs. Dorothy Comiskey Rigney, majority stockholder in the Chicago White Sox, stated that her brother, Charles Comiskey, 32, now vice president, could become president of the Sox if he withdrew his various claims and suits in a club stock battle. Mrs. Rigney, who is secretary-treasurer of the club, said that Charles is "very young and impetuous and still has not fully grown up." (International)

Ryff Scores Over Gorman

Frankie Gets Nod In St. Nick Scrap

NEW YORK (AP)—Frankie Ryff, who not too long ago was a ranking lightweight, outpointed Johnny Gorman, an experienced but light hitting operative, in a 10-round bout at St. Nicholas Arena Monday night. Ryff weighed 139½, Gorman 143½.

Neither fighter, in fact, showed any real punching ability and the crowd of 1,210 jeered and stamped its disapproval more than once.

Ryff, who had been troubled with cuts over his eyes in the past, seemed content to protect himself. Gorman lost a lot of his enthusiasm early in the bout when he found himself getting clipped every time he moved in.

Referee Pete Della saw Ryff in front 7-2-1. Judge Nick Gamboli gave it to Frankie 7-3, and judge Leo Birnbaum had him in front 8-2. The AP also gave it to Ryff 8-2.

Blazers Seek 4th Campers Want Game

Ervin's In Japan Fleegle's 4th Year

By C. V. BURNS

MONTGOMERY Blair High School will be striving to win the Fort Hill High School invitation track meet for the fourth consecutive year on Saturday.

The Blazers beat Fort Hill last year, 73½ to 64½ and also in 1956 by the score of 84½ to 60. In 1955 the Montgomery countians whipped Handley High, 61-56, and Fort Hill was third with 51.

This is the 12th year for the Fort Hill Invitational, which was started in 1947.

Fort Hill won the first six meets before bowing to Handley in 1953 by the score of 76½ to 72½. The last Fort Hill victory was in 1954 when the locals topped Handley, 97⅘ to 57½.

The Hahnmen have won seven times, Montgomery Blair thrice and Handley, once, in eleven years.

WHEN the Pen-Mar Baseball League started in 1949 there were five sandlot circuits with 38 teams operating in the tri-state area.

The Pen-Mar had six clubs, the Bi-State ten, the Interstate eight, the Upper Potomac eight and the Alleghany League six.

The same year Mountain District American Legion Junior Baseball had nine teams. Last year there were only two—Midland and Cumberland.

Fourteen Allegany County sandlot teams were playing Saturday, Sunday and holiday ball ten years ago. This year there will be only four—Mt. Savage, Flintstone, Barrelville and Zihlman.

BOB BRYANT is manager of the Hyndman team of the Pen-Mar Baseball League this season, and not Gene Stair, as was mentioned last week. The correction was requested by members of the team.

BOB KOCH, of Baltimore, state chairman of American Legion Junior Baseball for the Maryland Department, spoke at a Mountain District meeting Sunday in Lonaconing about plans for the statewide program this year.

Representatives of Mountain District posts will meet at Farrady Post headquarters, Frostburg, next Monday at 7 p. m., to decide on just how many teams will play in the district this year. The season opens in June.

ALLEGANY High School has an open date on its football schedule as a result of Handley High School dropping out of the CVAL, and Coach Chet Payne hopes to land a replacement for Friday or Saturday, Sept. 19 or 20, away from home.

The Campers made an effort to schedule Handley independently but the Winchester school said no.

Allegany hopes to play six games at home and four away.

AT A MEETING of the International Association of Approved Basketball Officials in Washington, D.C., the other day, college and high school referees were told to identify the culprit clearly when calling a foul.

Failure to do so has been a "glaring weakness" in officiating at games.

A poll indicates that referees are most lax, especially in the East, in having the player who commits the foul raise his hand.

They also indicated the call that gets officials into the most hot water with fans, coaches and players is picking out the offender in a charge-block play.

The association comprises 8,000 men who officiate at college and high school games.

IN 1959, two Little League rules changes will go into effect.

The first increases the distance from the pitching mound to home plate from 44 to 46 feet to conform to the position of the softball rubber, thus avoiding unnecessary digging in the diamonds.

The second calls for increasing the width of the plate from 15 to 17 inches to cut down walks.

JOE ERVIN, the Baltimorean, who officiated in W.M.I. Basketball League games in bygone days, is now in Japan supervising softball clinics for U.S. service teams.

Ervin sends a picture postcard from Tokyo with the message: "Still traveling."

A year ago Joe was conducting softball clinics in Europe among U.S. army personnel.

WAYNE FLEEGLE, Mt. Savage High School southpaw, is the only pitcher now active in the county league with four years of service.

Fleegle started hurling for the Indians in his freshman year and his record to date is 10 wins and 14 losses. Starting with the 1955 season Wayne's yearly records have been 1-5, 5-4, 3-3 and 1-2.

ART ROONEY, who was a star for Wheeling's Stogies back in the Middle Atlantic Baseball League days, and has been associated with the Pittsburgh Steelers football team for 25 years, has twin sons at Mt. St. Mary's College, Emmitsburg, Md.

Pat is earning his letter with the tennis team while John is a capable hurdler and pole vaulter but is through for the season with a broken ankle he suffered in a meet with American U.

Art must like Maryland because he also trains his race horses on a farm in this state.

Stan Musial Hits Safely In 11 Games

Owns .533 Average, Colavito Heads A.L.

NEW YORK (AP) — Stan Musial, speedily closing in on the 3,000 hits mark, is off to a great start in quest of his eighth National League batting championship.

The St. Louis Cardinals' slugger has hit safely in each of the 11 games he's played this year and heads the senior circuit with a .533 average. He has 24 hits in 45 tries and has increased his lifetime total of safe blows to 2,981.

Nineteen more hits will add the 37-year-old Musial to the select group of seven which has 3,000 or more hits. It includes Cap Anson, Ty Cobb, Eddie Collins, Nap Lajoie, Tris Speaker, Honus Wagner and Paul Waner.

Musial won the batting title with a .351 mark last season. That put him only one behind Wagner, who holds the National League record. Cobb owns the major league standard of 12.

In the American League, Rocky Colavito of Cleveland heads the pack with a .423 average. The Bronx youngster, who has shifted from the outfield to first base, has 11 safeties in 26 times at bat.

Richie Ashburn of the Philadelphia Phillies, the 1955 batting champion is followed by Willie Mays of the San Francisco Giants with .412 and Don Hoak of Cincinnati and Roberto Clemente of Pittsburgh in a fourth place tie at .405.

Harvey Kuenn of Detroit is second in the American League batting race at .415. Brooks Robinson of Baltimore is third with .406.

The batting leaders are based on a minimum of 25 times at bat.

Outer Mongolia Fence Bothering Duke Snider

Target 440 Feet Away Unlike High Screen In Brooklyn

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A batting slump, his gimpy right knee and the distant right field fence are bothering Duke Snider.

The Dodger outfielder is batting a puny .200, has hit only one home run (at San Francisco) and the crowds at Memorial Coliseum have been booing him, although he was born in Los Angeles.

"The booing doesn't bother me," says Snider. "I'm used to it. When I am not going good I expect it. I'm supposed to be a long ball hitter. When I don't hit, the fans certainly are entitled to boo. That's part of the game. I'd boo, too, I sit in the stands and second guess the Rams and the Trojans and the Bruins."

Duke says he's more concerned about his knee, which was operated on for removal of a calcium deposit and repair of torn cartilege. The soreness has forced him out of the lineup temporarily.

The thing that worries Snider most is that right field fence "in Outer Mongolia," as the left-handed batters call it.

"You have to learn to hit in your home park," he explains. "At Ebbets Field, Brooklyn, I learned to pull and uppercut the ball, so as to ride it over that high but close right field screen. In the Coliseum I am trying to become a line drive hitter and to hit to all fields."

The Duke's power is to dead right. His target is 440 feet away—the deepest point of the park. He will get few if any homers at that spot.

Hickman Rites Set For Today

JACKSONVILLE BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Funeral services will be held Tuesday for Herman Hickman, 46, who won fame as a football player, coach and TV-radio commentator.

He died in a hospital at Washington Friday of an ulcer condition and liver and kidney complications.

Jacksonville Beach is the home of Hickman's twice-widowed mother.

Mountaineers Play Pitt Wednesday

MORGANTOWN (AP)—The scheduled baseball game between West Virginia University and West Virginia Wesleyan College Monday has been canceled because of the wetness of the field.

The WVU team will next play on Wednesday, when it visits Pittsburgh. It will pit a 9-6 record against the host team's 4-2.

Paul Chuma (5-1) is slated to pitch for the Mountaineers.

Terp Golfers Win

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP) — Sophomore Deane Beaman led the Maryland golf team to an 18-9 victory over Wake Forest Monday as he took medalist honors with a six-under-par 66.

His brother, Del, with a 74, was the next lowest scorer over the Prince Georges Country Club's 6,900 yard, par 72 course.

WVU Netmen Lose

WASHINGTON (AP) — George Washington University easily kept its Southern Conference tennis record unblemished Monday, downing West Virginia, 9-0.

Laurel Adds Rich Stake

Maturity Handicap Starts At $50,000

LAUREL, Md. (AP) — Laurel race track today announced inauguration of a new stake race for four-year-olds which should gross more than $100,000 by 1960.

Called the Laurel Maturity Handicap, it will carry $50,000 in added money and will be a mile and an eighth feature.

It will be run for the first time next spring. Nominations for both the 1959 and 1960 runnings will close next Aug. 1, and thereafter nominations will close two years in advance.

Laurel also plans to abandon several lesser spring stakes, such as the Cherry Blossom Handicap and the Chesapeake Trial.

Laurel's management keeps it no secret that it hopes to attract the likes of Jewl's Reward, Tim Tam, Silky Sullivan and other top three-year-olds.

The Laurel Maturity will be similar in many respects to the Santa Anita Maturity, run each January in California, and will be the only race of its type east of the Mississippi.

The bidding:

East	South	West	North
3 hearts	Pass	Pass	Double
Pass	4 spades	Pass	6 spades
Pass	Pass	Pass

Opening lead: Seven of hearts.

A routine but not very thoughtful discard by West led to a four-figure swing in today's hand. The significance of the small spots in the heart suit was most bizarre.

East opened with a preemptive bid of three hearts which went unopposed around to North who doubled. South jumped to game to show a fair hand. North's leap to slam was overly aggressive inasmuch as his partner's bid may have been made to relieve him of any pressure caused by the preempt.

West opened the seven of hearts. East won with the ace and returned the queen. South won and discarded a club from dummy. On this trick West woodenly followed with the six of hearts (the conventional manner of discarding in most cases) and set the stage for a most unusual play.

Declarer drew two rounds of trumps with the king and jack, and then tested the diamonds. When they failed to break, he ruffed the fourth round and then returned to dummy to run all the rest of the trumps.

This reduced dummy to two cards, the queen and eight of clubs. Before playing to this trick East held king-six of clubs and the high heart, while declarer retained the ace-ten of clubs and the four of hearts. East found it impossible to discard.

If he parted with the heart, South's four would become a winner. If he let go a club, declarer would let go the heart and win the last two tricks with the ace and queen of clubs.

Had West retained the six of hearts he could have employed it to guard South's four and relieve East of the burden of protecting that suit. East could then have thrown the high heart and retained the king-six of clubs.

Serviceman Gets Fined Heavily

The 24-year-old soldier captured Saturday after a wild chase through Allegany and Garrett counties was fined a total of $275 on three motor charges in Trial Magistrates Court yesterday.

Magistrate J. Milton Dick fined Thomas G. Robinson, who is stationed at a missile base near Gaithersburg, $150 for exceeding 70 miles per hour; $100 for failing to stop after an accident, and $25 for improper passing.

He was first spotted at Flintstone and after being chased by three state troopers between there and Garrett County, was finally nabbed at Grantsville by Tfc. Glenn Folk.

His speeds, officers said, exceeded 100 miles per hour at times. He struck a parked car at Route 40 and Christie Road.

Fort Hill's defending champions (3-1) scored an 8-4 decision over LaSalle in the first game of the current series. Allegany and Fort Hill open their series on May 6.

Split Last Season

Allegany and LaSalle split a pair of 10-9 games last season.

The Sentinels (4-0), Allegany (3-0) and LaSalle (3-1) rank in that order in the current Allegany County Interscholastic League race.

Jack Cranor (1-0) or Bill Hook (2-0) will pitch for the Campers today while Bill Blake (2-0) or Ed Green (0-1) will toil on the firing line for the Explorers.

Fort Hill will play host to Bruce High School of Westernport today at 4 p. m., Beall invades Mt. Savage for a game at 4 p. m., and Valley High entertains the Flintstone High Aggies in Barton at 3:30.

Keyser Seeks 6th Win

Keyser's front-running Golden Tornado, undefeated to date, will go after win No. 6 when it opposes the Petersburg High Vikings today in a Potomac Valley Conference game at Keyser.

Coach Frederick "Tack" Clark's club won the series opener from the Grant Countians by the score of 10-8.

Berkeley Springs (3-0) will tackle the Pirates at Paw Paw, Mathias visits Capon Bridge, Circleville is at Moorefield (5-1), Romney High at Elk Garden and Southern at Fort Ashby in other P. V. C. engagements today.

Hyndman High School (3-1) is scheduled to play Saxton-Liberty High School in a Bedford County League game today at Saxton.

St. Louis Reported Seeking Ashburn

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The last-place St. Louis Cardinals are trying to swing a deal for a front-line player, presumably Richie Ashburn of Philadelphia.

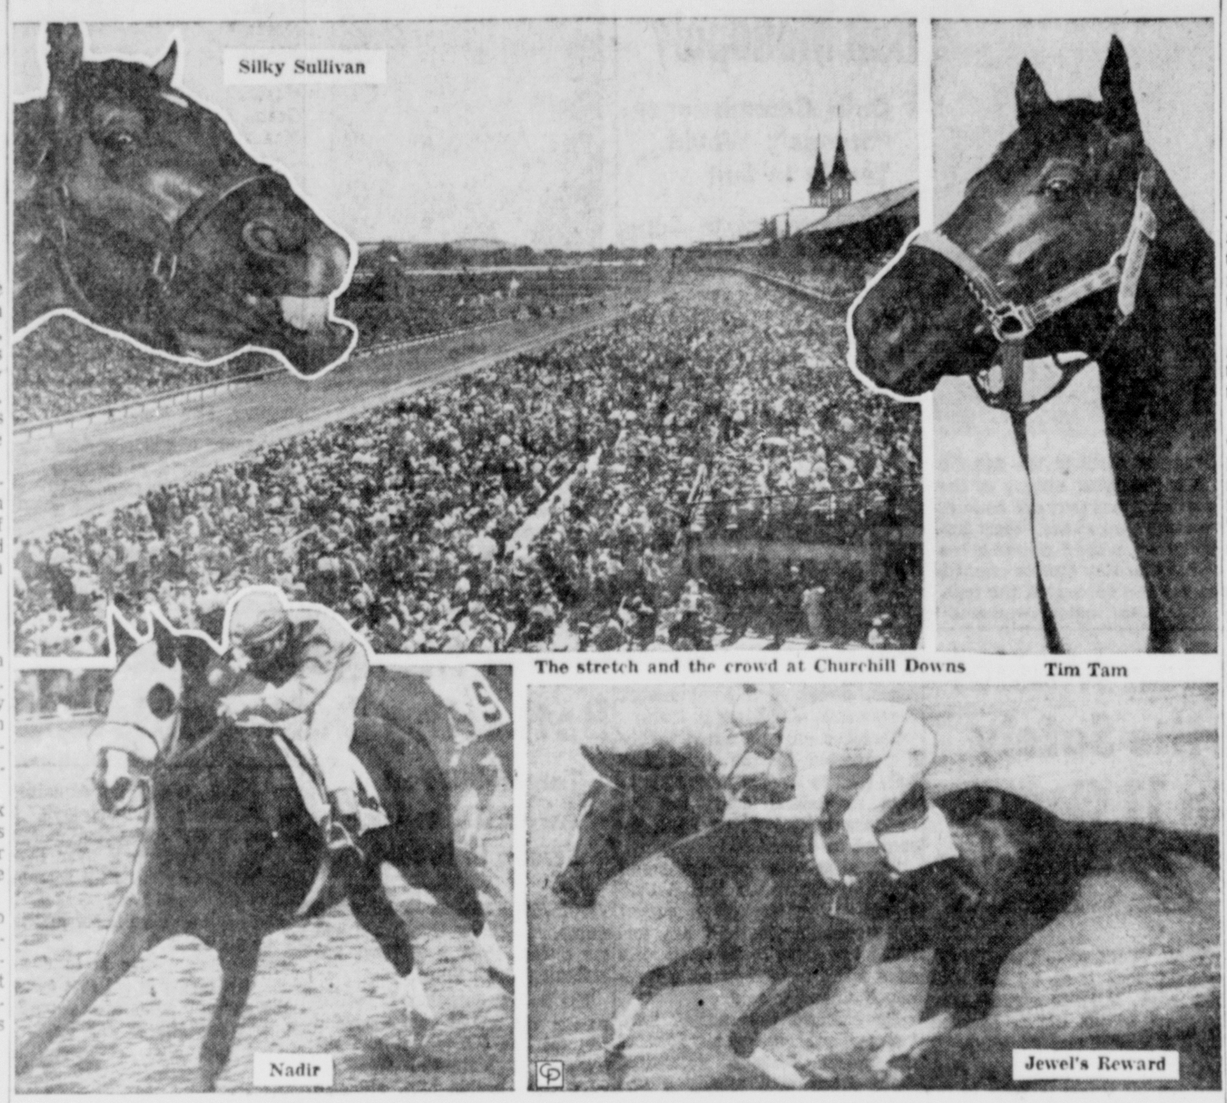

Bing Devine, general manager of the Cardinals, would not name the club he is negotiating with or the player sought by the Cardinals.

"If we can make one big move to help ourselves, I'd prefer to do it with a regular, a player who might give us a lift every day," Devine said before the Redbirds departed for Cincinnati.

The Phils were reported to have expressed interest in Wally Moon, Joe Cunningham, Dick Schofield, B. G. Smith and Hobie Landrith.

R. W. Walden saddled seven Preakness winners between 1875 and 1888. T. J. Healey won five between 1901 and 1929. Jim Fitzsimmons has saddled four—Nashua, Omaha, Gallant Fox and Bold Ruler.

Derby Dope? Could Be, For This Guy Picks Jewel's Reward To Win Run For The Roses

The stretch and the crowd at Churchill Downs

By WALTER L. JOHNS

Central Press Sports Writer
Here comes Silky down the stretch,
To pick up that Derby hoard;
But he just ain't gonna catch,
Eddie and Jewel's Reward!

WHEN YA GOTTA GO—with something—ya gotta go. And we're going with what we consider the best of the three-year olds, Jewel's Reward. That's in the Derby, coming up Saturday.

Sure we like that rocket ship from the west coast, Silky Sullivan, and the probable favorite, Tim Tam, from the Calumet barn, but to us the class of the race is the Jewel, and classy Eddie Arcaro will be giving us a big boot out of the 84th Kentucky Derby when the Maine Chance colt comes home on top.

All right, so Silky will be coming in the stretch. We can hear the roar of the 100,000 jammed all over the ancient track in Louisville, "Here Comes Silky!" But to our way of thinking, let him come. The Jewel will be out there and they just ain't gonna catch him.

That Tim Tam is one helluva colt, too, and Valenzuela ain't no slouch. We remember that day at Hialeah last March when we had our tickets bet on the Jewel and that darn Tim Tam came charging around the turn, with our Jewel running in front, and both jammed up. The Jewel and Tim Tam battled it out down the stretch and while we lost our dough when our colt was disqualified, the Jewel didn't falter; he stayed right there with Tim Tam and WON, even if unofficially.

It's difficult to figure out how Silky will do. We know he likes to run from behind, and we also know that he has run some fabulous last quarters. But old horsemen will tell you that you can't spot a GOOD horse 30 lengths or more and beat him. Silky will be up against the Jewel, who won a mere $349,442 last year while taking five races in 12 starts, two of his losses being caused by foot trouble.

The Jewel has run well this year, too, winning a tune-up at Hialeah, BEATING Tim Tam in the mile and one-eighth Flamingo, and then winning the Wood Memorial. Shucks, that's enough for us.

BREEDING plays a part in stake races, to be sure, and Tim Tam has it. His sire, Tom Fool, was "horse of the year" in 1953, and his dam, Two Lea, was "mare of the year" in 1950. But the Jewel ain't no bum in background, either, for he comes from a big family which includes, if you go back into it, such famed turf stars as Jet Pilot, Blenheim II, Equipoise, War Jeep and War Admiral. His pop's Jet Jewel and his mom's Belle Jeep.

Arcaro should help us, too. This will be his 19th Derby ride and he's already won five of them. This may be his last, and he sure is going to go all out. You can be sure that the Jewel's running habits will be straightened out by Eddie and you can be sure that the colt is going to be up somewhere near the front of the pack and, as we said, they've got to catch him in that stretch.

The crowd will be with Silky. Many of the Kentucky hardboots will go, naturally, to the Calumet king, Tim Tam, as they always do. Nadir and some of the others will get some backing, to be sure. But for our money, it's going on Jewel's Reward. So there.

Yanks To Face Detroit In First Of 16 At Home

Shantz, Ford Named To Pitch; Del Greco Works At 3rd Base

BY HOWARD SIGMAND

NEW YORK, April 28 — (INS) — Casey Stengel, a man who seemingly has a lifetime ticket to the American League's throne room, said today that he isn't the world's most happy fellow.

"My top pitchers have looked good," Stengel confessed, "but there are a lot of things I've got to find out on this home stand."

Stengel's talent-loaded Yankees, off to an 8-3 start and first placing the league per usual, begin a 16-game at-home engagement tomorrow when the Detroit Tigers show up at Yankee Stadium.

The Yankee pitchers have put together a sensational 1.93 earned run average in the early going, but "the perfessor" isn't quite ready to do any backflips about his apparent mound wealth.

"I gotta see more about my pitching. I gotta see about (Johnny) Kucks, (Bob) Grim, (Tom) Sturdivant and some of the others," Stengel said. "Kucks has been good and bad. Sturdivant hasn't been as good as he can be and Grim's still off . . ."

Stengel hardly ever is one to reach for a weeping towel, but the Yankee manager referred to his "ticklish" infield situation.

Praises Andy Carey

He praised injured third baseman Andy Carey for "playing on one leg."

Tony Kubek is still hobbled by a leg injury and Jerry Lumpe is out with a sprained ankle.

Kubek, the 1957 rookie-of-the-year, hasn't seen any action this season and probably won't get into the lineup this week.

"What's the sense of rushing Kubek into the lineup?" Stengel asked. "A little extra rest won't hurt the kind of muscle injury he's got."

Stengel, never one to sit back and wait, has had outfielder Bobby Del Greco working out at third base.

"He played there in the minor leagues," Stengel said. "He also played a couple of games at third for the Pirates. I want him ready in case I need someone to do the job in an emergency."

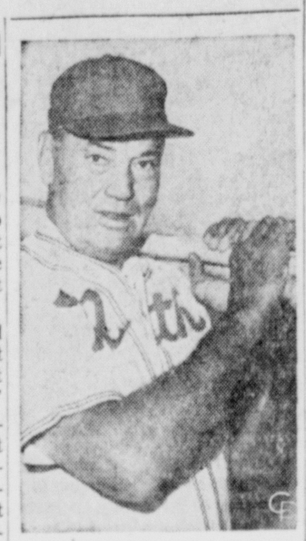

To Pitch Shantz, Ford

Stengel named Bobby Shantz and Whitey Ford, his lefty aces, as the two pitchers who will start against the Tigers.

Ford, who has a 1-1 record and has allowed only one earned run in 19 innings, put in a good word for Casey's pitching crew.

This is a real good staff," Ford declared. "I'd say it shapes up as well as the one we had in 1953 when we had Vic Raschi, Allie Reynolds, Ed Lopat, Johnny Sain and Bob Kuzava."

That staff also included a southpaw named Whitey Ford.

Shepherd Plays Bobcats Today

Potomac, D. & E., Clash At Keyser

Shepherd College's Rams are scheduled to play Frostburg State Teachers College at Mt. Savage and Potomac State College will entertain Davis & Elkins College at Keyser in games on tap for today.

Frostburg is hopeful of avenging a 13-10 loss suffered at Shepherdstown as it engages in its seventh game of the season. The Bobcats have won two games and lost four.

Potomac State (6-4-1) will be shooting for its third straight win in the West Virginia Intercollegiate Athletic Conference when it battles the Senators from Elkins at Stayman Field today at 3 p. m.

Coach John Fox's Catamounts have beaten Shepherd, 8-3, and Alderson-Broaddus 14-5 in conference games played to date.

HUNTERS bagged 105,599 deer in Utah during 1957, says the State Dept. of Fish and Game.

Majors' Group Would Relax Regulations On Team Shifts

Approves Lifting Of Restrictions

CHICAGO (AP)—Amendment of a major league baseball regulation which would relax restrictions on expansion or franchise shifts was recommended Monday by the committee on territorial rights.

The committee, which includes Commissioner Ford Frick, drafted this amendment:

"To provide and stimulate competition for the league pennants and for the world championship, and to accommodate shifts and growth of population, the circuit of either major league may be changed to include any city of the other major league after approval of the league desiring to change its circuit and the commissioner.

"Such approval by the commissioner should be withheld until after hearings have been held and the necessary investigations conducted."

At present, one league cannot enter another's territory without unanimous approval of members of both leagues.

In addition to Frick, other committee members attending the session were Warren Giles, president of the National League; attorney Roy Egan of the Chicago White Sox; club presidents Harvey Hansen of Detroit and Joe Cairnes of Milwaukee; general managers Frank Lane of Cleveland and Gabe Paul of Cincinnati, the Charles Segar, secretary-treasurer of baseball.

Milwaukee Leaves Covington At Home

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Wes Covington, injured outfielder, will not accompany the Milwaukee Braves on a 9-game road trip opening in Chicago Tuesday.

Dr. Bruce Brewer examined Covington's knee Monday and said it was coming along fine. He advised a continuance of light workouts and will look at the knee again Thursday. Covington jammed the knee in a slide during an exhibition game at Dallas, Tex., April 9.

Hunter Paces ACC Batsmen

Wolfpack Player Is Hitting .408

GREENSBORO, N. C. (AP)—Dick Hunter, North Carolina State's halfback star turned outfielder, again leads Atlantic Coast Conference batters this week. He is the only man in the ACC batting .400 or better.

According to ACC Service Bureau figures through games of Saturday, Hunter is batting .408 with Maryland's Andy McDonald second at .388. Last week's leader, Tommy Gravins of Virginia, went none for seven during the week and fell from .458 to .355. Gravins is now eighth.

A close friend in the batting race is Rex McMillan of Wake Forest, hitting .386. Russ Casteen of North Carolina State is fourth at .370 and Art Clessuras of Maryland rounds out the top five at .369.

Max explains . . . "I know that joint well from football I see there, and I'll lay a nice fat price if anybody's interested that even Gil Hodges don't come near Babe's mark . . . and Gil has the most shots at it because it's the Dodgers' baseball field . . . you should excuse the expression . . .

"First of all nobody but a real pull hitter is going to get over that fence . . . the good right-hand hitters are almost always line drive hitters . . . they may bust a lot of hits off that screen but not so many over it . . . fact is, I figure the banjo hitters who belt a lot of pop flies will get the most good out of it . . ."

Cauliflower Row seems almost deserted since the grand jury started its investigation of the fight racket . . . seems a lot of the fight mob regulars have decided this is a beautiful time to take a vacation somewhere out of town . . . and a lot of them forgot to leave forward addresses . . .

Ran into Sugar Ray Robinson . . . middleweight champ . . . checking up with Truman Gibson . . . new International Boxing Club prexy . . . on his TV share from his recent win over Carmen Basilio . . . later we asked Gibson what they discussed . . . he replied . . . We asked Robinson if he was going to be a Hollywood actor . . . and before he could answer . . . Valenzuela To Ride Tim Tam In Derby Trial Today

Jamaica Ace Will Replace Bill Hartack

By JOHN CHANDLER

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Ismael Valenzuela, leading rider in New York this spring, will ride favored Tim Tam in the Derby Trial Stakes Tuesday and it was assumed the little Texan will be aboard the Calumet Farm colt in the $125,000-added Kentucky Derby Saturday.

Surprise selection of the 24-year-old Valenzuela, one of 22 children, was made by Jimmy Jones, the Calumet trainer. The move was forced because Bill Hartack, Calumet's regular jockey, suffered a broken leg when thrown from a horse two days ago.

Tim Tam is expected to be the favorite in the 84th running of the colorful racing classic if for no other reason than Calumet's Derby record and the Jones boys, Jimmy and his dad Ben.

Ten horses were entered for the $15,000-added one mile Derby Trial with Tim Tam the early favorite at 4-5. The Maine Chance Farm's Ebony Pearl, George Lewis' Martins Rullah and the Claiborne Farm's Nadir loom as the main threats to Tim Tam, already winner of two $100,000 races this year, the Flamingo and the Florida Derby.

DERBY BOUND? — Jockey Ismael Valenzuela, above, will ride Tim Tam in the Kentucky Derby Trial today, replacing Bill Hartack, who suffered a fractured leg in a spill Saturday. Calumet Farms trainer Jimmy Jones did not say, however, if Valenzuela would get the nod for the big race Saturday. (AP Photofax)

Fahey's Team Beats Guards By 101 Pins

Capt. Emmett Fahey's Grand Knights won the championship of the Knights of Columbus Bowling League last night by defeating the Guards by the margin of 101 pins in the final rolloff on Derby Stakem's Club Recreation alleys.

High men on the winning team were Donnie Madden with 183-477 and Jack Steiner 168-476. Harry Patitucci with 161-455 and Norman Sell 173-521 were best for the losers.

The final totals were: Grand Knights 3,310 and the Guards 3,209.

Other members of Capt. Fahey's championship squad are Donnie Farrell, Donnie Madden, Bert Lawler, Jack Steiner, Donald Palmer and Jack Loibel Jr.

The league banquet will be held on Monday, May 5 at 6:30 p. m. at SS. Peter & Paul Dining Hall.

American Cagers Win In Russia

TIFLIS, Russia (AP)—The American men's basketball team, led by Harvey Schmidt and Buddy Halderson, trounced an Azerbaijan quintet 94-46 Monday night for its third straight victory in the Soviet Union.

The women's team made it a complete success for American invaders, defeating a Georgian female squad 42-37, after losing its first two games in Russia.

Schmidt, former University of Illinois cage star, currently with the AAU Denver-Chicago truckers, led the men's scorers with 15 points. Halderson, who once starred at Colorado University, tallied 14 points.

Elsbeth, Claimed Horse, Is Destroyed After Breakdown

LAUREL, Md., April 28 (AP) — The horse ambulance had to be used to remove a claimed horse from Laurel Race Course today, for the second time in less than a week.

Gabriel E. Proulx put up $2,500 for Elsbeth in the first race but the 3-year-old filly will never run a race for her new owner. She was destroyed after being taken to her new barn.

Elsbeth, a 5-2 favorite in the mile and a sixteenth test, broke down badly in the backstretch. Jockey Howard Grant was lucky in easing her up without falling. His Proof went on to win the race by three-quarters of a length over Cosmic Bess, paying $15.40, $7.40 and $6.20.

In the featured seventh, the $6,000 Tri-State Purse for 4-year-olds and up, True Verdict easily coasted home three lengths ahead of Tudor Era in the six-furlong event. True Verdict, paying $4.60, $2.80 and $2.60 took the lead midway of the turn and held on to the finish.

The 10,798 fans who turned out under gray skies wagered $974,422.

Hastego Is Victor In Mud At Jamaica

JAMAICA, N. Y., April 28 (AP)—Mrs. Arthur White's Hastego sprinted to the lead at the start and kept it every inch of the way in annexing the Mitchel Field Handicap at rain-soaked Jamaica Race Track today.

The time of 1:10 3/5 was the fastest six furlong clocking of the meeting. The track mark is 1:09 2/ set by Sheilas Reward in 1950.

Hastego toted 122 pounds, most of it Willie Boland, in scoring by two and a quarter lengths over F. Ambrose Clark's Amber Diver, who took the place by two and three quarter lengths over Robert O. J. Streuber's Pylades.

Hastego, solid favorite with the crowd of 18,874, returned across the board mutuels of $4.80, $3.20 and $2.50. Amber Diver returned $6.70 and $4.10 and Pylandes was $4.00 to show.

Fans Are Confused By Time Changes

CINCINNATI (AP) — The start of daylight savings time, plus some unfamiliarity with Pacific Coast times, is causing confusion among baseball fans as to the times on which major league baseball clubs are operating, says Dave Grote, service director of the National League.

Grote said this is the schedule in the National League:

Pittsburgh and Philadelphia play their games on Eastern Daylight Time; Cincinnati is on Eastern Standard Time; Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Louis play on Central Daylight Time and Los Angeles and San Francisco on Pacific Daylight Time.

CCC Plans Sunday Pro-Am Tournament

Reservists Plan 'Dads Night'

"Dads Night" will be observed tomorrow evening by Naval Reserve Surface Division 5-9 during a regular drill which begins at 7:30.

All members of the unit are asked to bring their fathers to the drill and let them have a first-hand look at the training and equipment which is available at the Naval Reserve Training Center on McKaig's Hill.

Some of the equipment, according to Lt. Cmdr. R. L. Underwood, includes lathes, planers, milling machines, drill press, radio receivers and transmitters, cable splicing, radar, signaling, hospital and office equipment.

Members of the local Navy Mothers Club will provide refreshments for the reservists and their dads. The latter part of the drill period will be allocated to movies in the drill hall.

Injured Persons Reported 'Good'

Three persons who were injured in an auto accident in Mineral County Sunday were reported in "good" condition at Memorial Hospital.

The accident occurred near the intersection of U. S. Routes 50 and 220 when the automobile in which the three were riding swerved off the highway and crashed into a tree.

Hurt was Alvin Pearce, 22, of McCoole, driver of the car; Blanche Markwood, 17, of Keyser; and Eva D. Wilks, McCoole.

Cresaptown Firemen Get Call To Home

Two trucks of the Cresaptown Volunteer Fire Company responded to a fire which was reported at the home of Harold Liller located about four miles south of that community along McMullen Highway.

However, firemen said the blaze was out when they arrived. They said a curtain in one of the rooms caught fire and it was extinguished by members of the family. The call was received about 5:13 p. m.

Two Senate Candidates Attack Administration

Long Charges U.S. 'Debauched' Democracy

BALTIMORE (AP) — A Democratic candidate for the Senate today accused the Eisenhower administration of consenting to bans against the saying of Catholic masses or the presence of Jewish servicemen in Saudi Arabia.

Dr. Clarence D. Long, Johns Hopkins University economics professor who is seeking the Senate nomination, said in a statement that of all Middle East countries, Saudi Arabia is the greatest beneficiary of the American economy.

He noted that hundreds of servicemen are stationed at U.S. military bases in Saudi Arabia.

"Yet, our government has consented to the King of Saudi Arabia's conditions that no American of the Jewish faith should be stationed on Saudi Arabian soil and that no Catholic mass should be held within the Saudi borders.

"In this fashion," Long said, "our government has debauched to a despotic Oriental potentate a basic principle of American democracy: Namely that a person wearing the American uniform does so not as Jew, as a Catholic, or as a Protestant, but as an American, and should therefore be treated as an American.

Long said other Arab states, while not matching Saudi Arabia, have repeatedly excluded, arrested, molested, or interfered with the passage of Americans of the Jewish faith.

"Under a parallel situation in Czarist Russia," Long said "President William Howard Taft showed not the slightest hesitation in warning the government of Russia of the possibility of grave consequences as a result of descriminatory treatment of American citizens. But President Eisenhower and Secretary Dulles are quietly and meekly acquiescing in practices on the part of the Arab governments that besmirch the significance of the American passport and the content of the United States citizenship."

Long said American citizens of the Jewish faith are not the only victims of Arab discriminations. He said Catholic and Protestant Americans whose passports indicate that they have been to Israel are frequently denied entry into Arab states.

"Immediate steps must be taken to protect American citizenship from remaining the pawn of Oriental despotism and oil politics."

Group Of Doctors Endorse Bruce

BALTIMORE (AP)—James Bruce announced Monday 16 Maryland physicians have organized a "Physicians for Bruce Committee" to support his candidacy for the Democratic nomination to the U.S. Senate.

In a letter signed by Dr. James G. Arnold as chairman, the committee urged fellow doctors to support Bruce as a "man of many distinguished accomplishments in the fields of public service and free enterprise . . . He typifies in every way the kind of man we as individuals and as members of a high profession should make every effort to support . . . he can be relied upon to protect the interests of both the public and the medical profession in matters relative to social- medical legislation."

Bike Road-E-O Begins Thursday

FROSTBURG—Oliver G. Lewis, explorer advisor for Boy Scout Troop 42, has announced that registration for the Road-E-O scheduled for Saturday at 1 p.m. will be held Thursday and Friday from 3 to 7 p.m. at the police station.

Bicycles need not have license tags but must meet license requirements on brakes, horns, fenders, and lights. A small registration fee will be charged and will be used for prizes and trophies.

The Road-E-O is being sponsored by the City Police Department and the explorer crews of Troops 42 and 48.

Take Police Tests

The Cumberland Civil Service Commission last night gave examinations to six applicants for police positions. The tests were given in Fort Hill High School.

Mahoney Scores Farm Program Under Eisenhower

ST. MICHAELS, Md. (AP) — George P. Mahoney quoted from the Department of Agriculture's "burned book" Monday night in making a pitch for the Talbot County farm vote.

Mahoney, one of seven candidates for Maryland's Democratic senatorial nomination, said in a speech prepared for a party meeting that the Eisenhower Administration "did not dare let the people know what has happened to the farmers" of the nation.

He read what he said were excerpts from a congressional committee report on the controversial book prepared by the Agriculture Department, "Farm Population Estimates for 1957." The House Government Operations Committee found that the original 2,500 copies of the book were burned.

Among other things, the committee said the pamphlet disclosed that there are 4½ million fewer farmers on the land than there were in 1950.

"Here is the record of the Republican Administration's policy which has driven the farmer from the land and into the ranks of the army of unemployed which the Republicans have created in the cities," said Mahoney.

"It contains actual quotes from farm people describing what is happening in various parts of the country."

He then read this excerpt:

" 'Increasing numbers of small farmers are going out of business, with other farmers taking over their farms and tilling from one to six farms . . .'

" 'Do you know who said that?'

" 'It was a farmer right here in Talbot County.' "

Mahoney also took exception with the claim that Mayor Thomas D'Alesandro's nomination in the senatorial race would assure the rest of the Democratic ticket a big Baltimore vote in the November general elections."

"I received a larger vote from the people of Baltimore City (in his unsuccessful 1956 Senate bid) than any Republican or Democrat who ever ran for office," said Mahoney. "I know the people of the city well enough to be able to say that their votes cannot be 'delivered' by anyone."

Revival Opens At Ellerslie

ELLERSLIE—A former Cresaptown resident who "dreamed of preaching in a little church along a country road" is conducting revival services each evening through May 4 at 7:45 p.m. except Saturday, in Ellerslie Methodist Church.

Coming here is Rev. Edward Bradley Lewis, 38, a native of Frostburg and a graduate of Allegany High School, Cumberland.

Rev. Paul R. O'Brien is pastor of the host church.

Rev. Lewis was graduated with a bachelor of arts degree from American University, Washington, in 1945. He received a master of theology degree from Iliff School of Theology, Denver University, three years later.

In June, 1949 he was appointed pastor of Union Methodist Church (Missionary Extension Society), Washington, and chaplain of George Washington University.

Rev. Lewis was invited in 1951 to travel through 12 European countries in connection with a seminar program. At present he is vice president of the Washington Ministerial Association.

Club To Meet

The Ladies Club of St. Ambrose Church, Cresaptown, will meet at 7:30 tomorrow in the church social center. Committees for the pork chop and fried chicken dinner will be named. The dinner will be May 4 from noon until 6 at the church.

Serviceman Gets Fined Heavily

The 24-year-old soldier captured Saturday after a wild chase through Allegany and Garrett counties was fined a total of $275 on three motor charges in Trial Magistrates Court yesterday.

Magistrate J. Milton Dick fined Thomas G. Robinson, who is stationed at a missile base near Gaithersburg, $150 for exceeding 70 miles per hour; $100 for failing to stop after an accident, and $25 for improper passing.

He was first spotted at Flintstone and after being chased by three state troopers between there and Garrett County, was finally nabbed at Grantsville by Tfc. Glenn Folk.

His speeds, officers said, exceeded 100 miles per hour at times. He struck a parked car at Route 40 and Christie Road.

The bidding:

East	South	West	North
3 hearts	Pass	Pass	Double
Pass	4 spades	Pass	6 spades
Pass	Pass	Pass

Opening lead: Seven of hearts.

A routine but not very thoughtful discard by West led to a four-figure swing in today's hand. The significance of the small spots in the heart suit was most bizarre.

East opened with a preemptive bid of three hearts which went unopposed around to North who doubled. South jumped to game to show a fair hand. North's leap to slam was overly aggressive inasmuch as his partner's bid may have been made to relieve him of any pressure caused by the preempt.

West opened the seven of hearts. East won with the ace and returned the queen. South won and discarded a club from dummy. On this trick West woodenly followed with the six of hearts (the conventional manner of discarding in most cases) and set the stage for a most unusual play.

Declarer drew two rounds of trumps with the king and jack, and then tested the diamonds. When they failed to break, he ruffed the fourth round and then returned to dummy to run all the rest of the trumps.

This reduced dummy to two cards, the queen and eight of clubs. Before playing to this trick East held king-six of clubs and the high heart, while declarer retained the ace-ten of clubs and the four of hearts. East found it impossible to discard.

If he parted with the heart, South's four would become a winner. If he let go a club, declarer would let go the heart and win the last two tricks with the ace and queen of clubs.

Had West retained the six of hearts he could have employed it to guard South's four and relieve East of the burden of protecting that suit. East could then have thrown the high heart and retained the king-six of clubs.

It's never too early, Miss Teen, to begin to discover yourself.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Not A Type—An Original

Young girls who come to the Powers school aspiring to be models sometimes bring with them a very false idea. They want to be a model of a certain type, want to copy a stand-out success whose face and figure they've seen on magazine covers, on fashion pages, or on the screen.

We waste no time changing this impression. The charm-and-beauty goal any girl must set for herself must be her own. She must start from the beginning to realize the differences in herself, to make the most of them, to count on them for distinction.

You may not have model aspirations, Miss Teen, but the same is true for you. Don't try to wear the style of dress that looks so well on someone else when another style is more becoming to you. Don't repeat the stock phrases of your group's conversation if they don't seem natural to you, and at least add something of your own. Don't go along with just any activity because the gang does when you prefer spending your time some other way. No—don't make a point of being the odd one. Share the interests of the others that really interest you, and many of them will, but strike out for individuality when the spirit moves you, and if you alert yourself to your own true inclinations, it will.

A vivacious type may be the one you admire; but on you, constant vivacity may not look natural. The languid beauty may seem to be very much in fashion; but if you're bubbling over with high spirits, you'll never be more than a poor copy of her. Don't look for a type to emulate—don't be a type at all. Be the original and only of the personality you know to be sincerely you.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, April 28—(INS)—Over the breakfast table—my only free time—Danny Winkler told me about his new project in conjunction with the noted author, Frederick Wakeman. Danny and Wakeman will bring to the screen "The Wastrel," which Wakeman wrote in 1949.

This is one of the few of Wakeman's novels that hasn't heretofore been made into a motion picture. His "Deluxe Tour," "The Hucksters," "Shore Leave" were all eagerly bid on by film producers. Curiously enough, "The Wastrel" was sold to Italian producer Marcel Gervasi for $25,000. Wakeman bought it back and paid $40,000 for his own story.

Michael Cacoyannis, the Greek director who directed "Stella" and "Girl In Black," has been signed to direct "The Wastrel," which will be filmed in Bermuda.

When Allen Reisner called to say that he leaves for Ireland in a week to direct "The New Gassoon" with Richard Basehart, I told him how much I envy him. Ireland in May is delightfully cool and the people delightfully warm.

"Films have been shot on location in Ireland before," Allen said. "But we are the first to build sound stages and we plan to do the interiors as well as the exteriors there."

I asked Allen about his hot-and-cold romance with English actress Glynis Johns. Apparently it's warm again after a blow-up. "Glynis is now in Hollywood," he told me. "But she may join me later. I'll be gone for five months."

The surprising news that Queen Elizabeth will not appear at the annual command performance left Hollywood wondering what it is all about. Since 1946 some member of the royal family has put in an appearance at this affair.

According to London information, Queen Elizabeth sent her letter to J. Arthur Rank in his capacity as head of the Cinematography Trade Benevolent Foundation. She did not say that in future years she would not appear. She merely said this year she could not be present, and a similar letter went to Variety Club. There certainly couldn't have been anything unpleasant last year at the command performance because the queen sent a congratulatory letter on "Les Girls." Whatever the reason, it's too bad it happened, since today as never before, good relations between the two countries are important.

Jerry Lewis made a personal call to Cathy Crosby (Bob's daughter, not Bing's wife) to tell her that there is a part for her in his next, "The Geisha Boy."

Cathy's romance with an older man, which had so distressed her parents, is completely on ice. Perhaps she is still carrying a little torch, but she is an ambitious girl, she's very young, and if the right opportunities keep coming her way her career will occupy more of her attention than an unhappy romance.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

Mrs. Jack Warner arrived in town yesterday and all of us are glad to have her home again.

You cannot talk to Sam Spiegel now. He was given the flag that flew over Washington that day by Mrs. Richard Nixon at the Little Cabinet luncheon at which Sam was the guest of honor. He thinks more of it than his Oscar.

Monica and Jennings Lang postcard from Rome where they are having a belated honeymoon. In Germany Monica sang for the armed forces.

Vera Miles and Gordon Scott, who are Silky Sullivan fans, plan to go to the Kentucky Derby to see him run.

That's all today. See you tomorrow!

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market backed away from high ground for the year Monday in a late decline.

Prices were mixed or a shade higher until selling got under way in the final half hour.

Some leading stocks closed fractions to a point or so lower. Gains were mostly under a point.

Drugs, building materials and chemicals clung to gains in selective trading. Steels, oils and metals were knocked down in the late selling, which left motors mixed.

Turnover slipped to 2,400,000 shares compared with the 3,020,000 shares in Friday's advance.

Brokers generally attributed the performance in the final half hour to technical factors. The day's news was mostly bearish. Several concerns cut dividends and a congressional committee received a fairly gloomy appraisal of the economic outlook.

Wall Street noted that there were more signs Washington would be reluctant to reduce taxes.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks fell 50 cents from its 1958 high to $166.60. Industrials were down 50 cents, rails 80 cents and utilities 30 cents.

Of 1,190 stocks traded 494 declined, 444 rose and 252 closed unchanged. One hundred thirty eight issues touched new highs for the year and 7 made lows.

Boy, 17, Tells Jury How He Stabbed Father

Testimony Ends In Murder Trial

A 17-year-old Elk Garden, W. Va., boy, on trial in Mineral County Circuit Court at Keyser for the fatal stabbing of his father, testified yesterday he was afraid his mother would be hurt in a family argument before the stabbing.

Joseph E. Paugh is charged with murder of his father, Clarence Paugh, 58. Authorities said a hunting knife was used in the stabbing.

Testimony in the case was completed by 4:15 p. m. yesterday. This morning, Mineral County Prosecutor Donald Hott and Defense Attorneys H. G. Shores, Howard Shores and John Hamilton will give their closing arguments.

Judge Ernest A. See will then instruct the jury before it gets the case.

Recounts Stabbing

The defendant told the jury of seven women and five men that his mother and father had been quarreling on March 31 at the Paugh home.

He said that some time ago his mother had had his father arrested and placed under peace bond due to previous family squabbles. On the day of the fatal stabbing, young Paugh said, his father had threatened him and his mother.

During the argument, the youth testified, he went into the dining room, then stood in the kitchen doorway sharpening the knife with a file.

The father, he said, pushed him against the kitchen wall. When his father turned and faced the mother, the youth stabbed his father in the back. Later, he called State Police, who placed him under arrest.

Young Paugh also testified that his mother had picked up a poker to protect herself after the senior Paugh struck her.

Others Testify

Trooper Charles Oliver said he investigated the case and found the knife used in the stabbing and that there was blood on the blade to within two inches of the handle.

The youth's mother and his sister, Mrs. Alma Paugh of Elk Garden, also took the stand. The mother testified that the beating inflicted by her husband had been worse than in the past.

The daughter told the jury her father had threatened her mother on the day of the stabbing. She had been visiting her parents that day.

Also testifying yesterday were Ralph Evans, 16, who had been visiting the Paugh home, and Thomas Hickey.

Preparing Cancer Crusade Kits

Canvass kits for the Allegany County Cancer Crusade door-to-door campaign today were prepared by the Community Service Group of the Cumberland Woman's Civic Club during a recent "morning coffee" at the Union Street Building headquarters of Allegany County Chapter, Maryland Division, American Cancer Society. Shown assembling envelopes, leaflets, report cards and other Crusade material, left to right, are Mrs. Anthony Saeli, Mrs. David Sigel, Mrs. Ray Dickerson, Mrs. Robert Gerson, Mrs. Seth Harter, Mrs. Robert Meals and Mrs. Maurice Milberg. Another shift of workers includes Mrs. Ralph Isiminger, Mrs. Robert Goldfine and Mrs. Frank Maiden. Standing (rear right) are Dr. Benedict Skitarelic, 1958 Crusade general chairman, and Mrs. Jean Cioni, executive secretary of the chapter.

Law Day Observance Set By County's Magistrates

Trial Magistrates of Allegany County will join students of public and parochial schools and police officials of various communities Thursday at 10 a. m. in observance of Law Day.

Magistrate J. Milton Dick, president of the Trial Magistrates Association, will preside over the program, which will be held in the County Building on Union Street and will be called to order by Chief Clerk Clarence Valentine.

Following the invocation by either Rev. William R. Snyder, pastor of St. Luke's Lutheran Church, or Rev. Arthur W. Bastress, assistant pastor at St. Patrick's Catholic Church, Magistrate Dick will speak of the purpose of the observance.

Other speakers scheduled to address the group are State's Attorney James S. Getty; Assistant State's Attorney Donald W. Mason who formerly was a trial magistrate; James Alfred Avirett, president of the Allegany County Bar Association; and Magistrate Morris Baron.

After the official observance of Law Day which has been proclaimed throughout the nation by President Eisenhower and in Maryland by Gov. Theodore R. McKeldin, the school students will sit in on actual trials to be held Thursday in Trial Magistrates Court.

Invitations have been extended the Board of Education to send at least two student representatives from each county high school along with faculty advisors to attend the session. Also invited to participate have been LaSalle High School, St. Mary's High, Ursuline Academy and Catholic Girls Central High.

Transportation will be provided for students of the public schools, who will be picked up at their schools at 9 a.m. Thursday. Police chiefs of Lonaconing, Westernport and Frostburg will provide the transportation for students of Beall, Valley and Bruce; State Police will escort the pupils from Mt. Savage High; and the Board of Education will supply the transportation for Allegany and Fort Hill.

Two Forestry Camp Escapees Are Held Here

Two 16-year-old Baltimore inmates of a state forestry camp for boys near Lonaconing are being held in detention quarters of the Allegany County Infirmary after their escape from the camp over the weekend.

Magistrate Fred H. Anderson said Juvenile Court will waive jurisdiction in the case of the two boys, who face charges of unauthorized use of an automobile.

Tfc. Glenn Folk of the State Police said the two boys were apprehended in Lonaconing when they were thwarted in an attempt to steal a car there. Their capture climaxed a series of thefts and runaways from the forestry camp last week, he added.

One of the Baltimore boys, along with a third boy from Prince Georges County, was brought to the camp last Wednesday.

Several hours after their arrival the two transferees from a training school slipped away from the camp and stole an automobile belonging to an Avilton storekeeper.

The vehicle later was found abandoned in Hagerstown, police said, and the two boys were picked up at the home of the one in Prince Georges County.

Returned here by the director of the forestry camp, they were tried on charges of unauthorized use before Magistrate Charles S. Zeller in Grantsville on Saturday. Sentence was withheld and the two were returned to the camp.

Sunday the Baltimore youth joined with another camp member from Baltimore and the two ran away from the camp, attempting to take another car in Lonaconing, where they were apprehended by Trooper Robert Dishong.

A hearing for the two boys has been scheduled before Magistrate Morris Baron in Trial Magistrates Court on Thursday on the state motor vehicle charges.

Pennsylvanian Is Killed In Farm Accident

A funeral service was held yesterday for a Bedford area farmer and railroad worker who died of burns Saturday afternoon when the tractor he was operating overturned and pinned him underneath, the gasoline igniting.

The victim was Harry Miller, 60, of New Enterprise, RD, who was alone in a field at the time of the accident. He was using a disc harrow to plow.

While going up a steep grade, the tractor overturned and fell back upon him. His wife saw the smoke from the house and investigated.

Dr. Richard Bulger was summoned but Mr. Miller was dead when the physician arrived. A native of New Enterprise, RD, the victim was born March 7, 1898, a son of Charles and Esther (Croft) Miller.

In 1918 he was married to the former Bertha Fisher. He worked in the railroad shops in Hollidaysburg during the week, farming during weekends.

He is survived by his wife and a number of nieces and nephews. A funeral service was held yesterday afternon in the Holsinger Church of the Brethren.

Burial was in the church cemetery.

Man Loses Part Of Ear In Fight

A local man lost the lobe of his ear in a fight with another man or Saturday, and authorities said yesterday the ear was bitten off by his opponent.

Both men were fined $10 and cost in Police Court yesterday by Magistrate Morris Baron, who said they were charged with disorderly conduct and disturbing the peace.

The injured man was treated by a doctor and appeared in court yesterday with his head swathed in bandages. The fight apparently stemmed from a long-standing fued between the two men, Magistrate Baron said.

Suggests Street Name

Forest Edge was suggested yesterday by Mrs. Clyde S. Runion, 912 Piedmont Avenue, as the name for a street started on Piedmont Avenue opposite Ashland Avenue. The request was referred to the City Engineer and Street Department.

34 Warned About Fires

Forest guards and supervisors have given written warnings to some 34 Western Marylanders during April for violating the state's burning regulations, according to District Forester William H. Johnson.

These fires all were under control but in each case it still was a technical violation of the regulations. A summons will be issued to any of these persons on second offense, requiring them to appear in court.

Rain over the weekend has removed temporarily the threat of forest fires but a strong wind soon can dry the underbrush and make a good place for fire to start. The warnings went to 17 in Allegany County, 15 in Garrett County and two in western Washington County.

Until all foliage has become quite green there will continue to be a danger of fire. The months of March, April and May are set aside as the spring controlled burning months.

Deaths

Hager, Earl N., 62, of 408 Lehigh Street.

Johnson, Mrs. Anna, 65, Frostburg.

Miller, Clement H., 64, of 704 Frederick Street.

Naedele, James D., 32, of Keyser.

Selders, Mrs. David, 77, of Aurora.

Keyser Plant Employes Get Pay Increase

Employes of the Emerson-Pryne Company plant in Keyser will receive a five-cent across-the-board wage increase as well as other benefits as the result of a new contract agreement reached by the company and Local 1830, International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers.

About 300 persons are employed at the Keyser plant, where electrical equipment is manufactured. The old contract was due to expire tomorrow.

The wage boost is effective as of May 1 this year. The company also agreed to pay any employe serving on the grand or petit jury the difference between his regular wage and the jury pay.

In addition, one inequity adjustment was made and the company agreed to add a death benefit rider to the present group insurance policy at a small cost to the employe.

R. V. Burns, vice president of the company, complimented William McDonald, president of the union local, and its negotiating committee for the high plane of negotiations.

Other company officials who reached an agreement in negotiation talks were G. R. Petras, V. R. Panico and W. W. Scholfield.

Others on the union negotiating committee were Arthur Hartman, C. B. Robinette, Lynn Simpson, William Shahan and James Smith.

Salvation Army Board Approves Site Purchase

$12,400 Proposal Gets Ratification

The Salvation Army Advisory Board yesterday gave unanimous approval to the purchase of 23 lots in Southview Addition for $12,400 for a new site for the South Cumberland Corps.

The present building at 511 Virginia Avenue is in a bad state of repair and part of the property will be needed by the State Roads Commission for the industrial highway segment of the Cumberland Thruway.

Captain Daniel K. Biggs, commander of the Citadel, now will forward the proposal to divisional and territorial headquarters for final action. If the final approval is forthcoming part of the new tract may be developed for use this summer as a ball diamond and for other recreational activities.

Enough land has been optioned between Somerville and Blackiston avenues near the Jane Frazier Village for a chapel, quarters for officers and such outdoor facilities as a baseball diamond and playground.

At yesterday's board meeting, James S. Getty was elected to membership on the board.

Financial statements for both the Salvation Army Citadel and South Cumberland Corps were submitted and they showed each institution had more income than expenditures in the first quarter of 1958.

The citadel's income totalled $7,173.58 in the first three months of 1958 and the expenditures reached $6,910.48. The income included $5,399.99 from the United Fund, $352.84 in contributions and $1,420.75 in operating income. Expenses of $6,910.48 included $2,748.52 for salaries and kages, $963.60 for building and equipment, $874.16 for communications and transportation and $2,324.20 for service and activities.

At the South Cumberland Corps, income for three months was $4,131.59 and expenses reached $3,791.69. The income included $2,199.99 from the United Fund, $6 in contributions and $1,925.60 in operating income.

Expenditures in the first quarter included $1,619.95 for salaries and wages, $815.61 for building and equipment maintenance, $432.42 for communications and transportation and $923.71 for service and activities.

Baby Boy Strangles On Food, Dies

A four-month-old infant boy was dead on arrival at Memorial Hospital yesterday morning, and death was attributed to asphyxiation.

The victim was Mitchell Todd Payne, son of Riley B. Payne Jr., and Barbara (Priddy) Payne, 110 North Cedar Street.

Dr. H. V. Deming, deputy county medical examiner, said death was due to asphyxiation. The child was reported to have been placed on a blanket on the floor at the Payne residence. He had been lying on his back and rolled over on his stomach. Foodstuff worked its way into the child's lungs, authorities said, and he was unable to get his breath.

An autopsy was performed at the hospital by Dr. Benedict Skitarelic, pathologist.

Born in Cumberland on December 15, 1957, the infant is survived by his parents and his maternal grandfather, Arthur B. Priddy, city; the paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Riley Payne Sr., city.

The body is at the Scarpelli Funeral Home, where a service will be conducted tomorrow at 2 p. m. Rev. Robert Nimon, pastor of Grace Methodist Church, will officiate and interment will be in Hillcrest Burial Park.

Tomorrow Is Deadline For Old Truck Tags

Tomorrow is the last day that trucks, taxicabs, school buses and other vehicles of that type can be driven on the old Maryland license tags which expire at midnight April 30.

The office of Tax Collector J. Wallace Close at the Court House sells tags for privately-owned trucks and farm trucks. So far during April about 1,500 sets of truck tags have been sold at the Court House and some 60 sets of farm vehicle tags.

Mr. Close's office also has sold about 1,400 sets of automobile tags during April despite the fact that March 31 was the deadline for use of the old auto tags. Apparently a good many cars have just been stranded until their owners dig up enough money to purchase license plates.

Charter Change Is Opposed In Westernport

Petition Is Filed For Referendum

A petition for a referendum on a proposed change in the Westernport City Charter to go into effect on May 8 was filed yesterday by Jake Wilson, Westernport service station operator.

The charter amendment, unanimously adopted by the Mayor and Council of Westernport, would enable the town to participate in the waste treatment program planned in that area. It would give the council authority to enter into an agreement with the Upper Potomac River Commission to establish an interceptor sewer system connecting with the waste treatment plant now planned at Luke.

The petition was filed with the City Clerk yesterday, the final day for such action to be taken against the amendment which had been approved on March 19 by the town council.

If valid, the petition containing 500 signatures will force a referendum vote on the charter amendment at the biennial city election on May 27.

Signatures of 20 per cent of the town's 1,150 registered voters are required to force a referendum. City Attorney Horace P. Whitworth Sr. will check the 500 signatures against the city's registration books to determine if they are valid.

Mayor Okey Michael said the council will accept the attorney's opinion on the validity of the signatures on the petition. If the required number are verified the referendum will be placed on the ballot for the city election.

The charter change is necessary, Mayor Michael said, if the town is to participate in the use of the waste treatment facilities to be built by the river commission at Luke.

Bids were opened on April 8 by the UPRC for the construction of the sewage treatment plant, but the commission has not yet accepted any of the bids. In addition to Westernport, the communities of Luke and Piedmont plan to participate in the program along with the primary backer, West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company.

Candidates Told Posters Must Come Off Poles

Police Chief R. Emmet Flynn is calling attention to the fact that the City of Cumberland, by Chapter 14, Section 14, of its general ordinances, prohibits the posting of bridges and light poles with any poster or other announcement.

The penalty for violation of the ordinance is a fine of $1 to $10 for each offense.

Chief Flynn said he would like particularly to call this to the attention of candidates for various public offices who may be unaware that such a law exists. He further requested that those who may have allowed political posters to be put up take them down.

He said he has received a number of complaints in recent days that such posting has been done in the city.

Liberty Theatre To Go On Block

The Liberty Theatre here is one of 17 motion picture theatres which will go on the auction block this month by order of the Schine Circuit, Inc.

The local theatre is one of eight to be auctioned by the Day Auction Company in Rochester, N. Y., May 19. Nine others will be sold at Glens Falls, N. Y. May 24.

The Liberty Theatre will be offered subject to a minimum upset price of $75,000 and use as a theatre.

It is a one-story brick building fronting 66 feet on Liberty Street. The theatre has a seating capacity of 933, and the Liberty Street frontage has three stores.

The sale includes 17 theatres including divestiture theatres and non-divestiture theatres, a number of which must be sold for operation as moving picture theatres and others can be used for commercial purposes, such as chain stores, bowling alleys, food fairs and other interests.

The divestiture properties will be sold under provisions of the consent decree of June 24, 1949 that these properties must be offered for sale as motion picture theatres and offers for the properties must contain representations of such intended use.

Doctors Invited To Attend Dental Meeting

Oral Surgeon Is Lecturer

Area physicians have been invited to attend a dinner meeting of the Allegany-Garrett County Dental Society tomorrow at the Cumberland Country Club to hear a talk by a noted oral surgeon.

The specialist is Col. Robert B. Shira of the Army Dental Corps. He is chief of oral surgery at Walter Reed Army Hospital, Washington.

Dr. Albert C. Eskin, president of the dental society, said physicians who will be unable to attend the 6:30 p. m. dinner will be welcome at Col. Shira's lecture, which is expected to start at about 8 p. m.

Subject of Col. Shira's lecture will be "Diagnosis of Soft Tissue Lesions of the Oral Cavity."

Col. Shira, a 1932 graduate of Kansas City Western Dental College, is a member of the American Dental Association, American Society of Oral Surgeons, American Academy of Oral Pathology, and an honorary member of the Northern California Society of Oral Surgeons and of the South eastern Society of Oral Surgeons.

He is visiting professor of oral surgery with the College of Physicians and Surgeons at San Francisco, and lecturer in oral surgery in the College of Dentistry at the University of Pennsylvania. He is a member of the editorial board of the Journal of Oral Surgery, and is a diplomat of the American Board of Oral Surgery and a fellow of the American College of Dentists.

Spring Colds Hurt Blood Donations

Low physical resistance after a hard winter, plus the holiday spirit following Easter, are considered contributing factors to the failure of Cumberland to meet its quota in the Allegany County Blood Program during March and April.

Concerned Red Cross officials, announcing next Monday's visit of the Johnstown Bloodmobile here, said many scheduled donors failed to put in an appearance for the last two blood collections.

The Bloodmobile will be at the Eagles Home, North Mechanic Street, from noon till 6 p. m. Monday, and at the VFW Home at Lonaconing Tuesday from noon till 6 p. m.

"Undoubtedly, many people suffered from colds, sinus and virus infections that kept them home during March," said Mrs. Norman W. Taylor, Red Cross recruitment chairman. "The April collection, falling on Easter Monday, probably caught many donors in a relaxed frame of mind."

Cumberland's quota is set at a bare minimum to meet existing needs for fresh blood at local hospitals, Red Cross officials said, and added that failure to meet the quota endangers the supply needed for sickness and accident victims. Cumberland fell 17 pints short of its 150-pint quota in March, and 27 pints short in April.

The monthly quota system is necessary, RC officials pointed out, since blood remains fresh for only 21 days, and after that can only be used for making blood derivatives.

All scheduled donors are urged to be on hand for next Monday's collection, and new donors between the ages of 18 and 60 are especially requested to take part.

Former Oakland Woman Drowns

MORGANTOWN (AP) — Monongalia County Coroner Clinton Cairney ruled Monday that a woman found in the Monongahela River took her own life and was the victim of drowning.

The victim was identified as Mrs. Ada E. Mason, 50, of Morgantown Route 6. She was a native of Oakland, Md. The woman's husband is Roy A. Mason.

Dr. M. L. Hobbs, a pathologist at West Virginia University, reported that an autopsy disclosed no foul play.

Mrs. Mason was found in the river near Granville, across the Monongahela from Morgantown.

Retail Clerks Union Operated In Trusteeship

RCIA President Explains Procedure

The president of the Retail Clerks International Association, AFL-CIO, has informed The Cumberland News that Local 886 was placed under trusteeship last year because the RCIA had to subsidize the newly amalgamated Cumberland area local.

James A. Suffridge, RCIA president, wrote a News reporter that time has proved the procedure to be appropriate as the local union has grown in size, improved contracts between its members and their employers and has become generally self-supporting.

Details of the background and operation of the local under international trusteeship were included in a letter from Mr. Suffridge in response to a query after The News learned the local was being operated under trusteeship.

Mr. Suffridge said that on March 1, 1957, RCIA Locals 654 and 886 amalgamated and became one local union after the executive boards and general memberships of both locals voted for amalgamation.

Local Subsidized

After the vote, the amalgamation was accomplished by transferring all members of Local 654 into Local 886. Coincidentally, Mr. Suffridge explained, Local 886 was placed under International trusteeship and an experienced, full time representative was appointed as business representative and acting secretary-treasurer.

This procedure, he said, was necessary under the circumstances as the International Union found it necessary to subsidize the newly amalgamated local in the amount of $50 a week, plus certain expenses, in order that the best interests and welfare of the membership be best served.

After stating that "time has proven this procedure to be appropriate," Mr. Suffridge added that trusteeship also enables the International Association to require weekly itemized reporting on the part of local representatives and is calculated to stimulate more activity and responsibility on the representatives' part due to supervision.

Add Second Agent

"As further proof of the growth of Local 886, during this period of time, the Local, with the assistance of the International Association, on April 7, 1958, employed the second full-time man, William R. Hartman, on behalf of Local 886. We anticipate in this connection further financial assistance, if necessary, in order that the Local improves its position."

Mr. Hartman, president of the local since 1950, will work with Norman L. Tyrie, business agent and acting secretary-treasurer.

Mr. Suffridge said the International Association examines the trusteeship procedure periodically and restores full autonomy as soon as a local union becomes ready for it.

He said the constitution provides that bodies in trusteeship have the right to petition for removal of trusteeship at intervals of not less than six months.

Any such petition must first be voted by a majority of the local union or other subordinate body and then filed with the International president, who must then hold another hearing.

"At no time since March 1, 1957, has Local 886, either officially or unofficially requested the removal of the said supervision," Mr. Suffridge concluded.

Area Teamsters To Hear Contract Report

Bedford area members of Local 453, Teamsters Union, will meet in Bedford Sunday at 4 p. m. to act on a contract offer, according to C. E. Stutzman, business agent.

The union, he said, will meet with the companies employing some 800 drivers and 150 garage workers in Pittsburgh on Thursday.

The proposals made by the company, he added, will be placed before the workers for acceptance or rejection.

The present contract covering the workers is due to expire June 1.

Reservists Plan 'Dads Night'

"Dads Night" will be observed tomorrow evening by Naval Reserve Surface Division 5-9 during a regular drill which begins at 7:30.

All members of the unit are asked to bring their fathers to the drill and let them have a first-hand look at the training and equipment which is available at the Naval Reserve Training Center on McKaig's Hill.

Some of the equipment, according to Lt. Cmdr. R. L. Underwood, includes lathes, planers, milling machines, drill press, radio receivers and transmitters, cable splicing, radar, signaling, hospital and office equipment.

Members of the local Navy Mothers Club will provide refreshments for the reservists and their dads. The latter part of the drill period will be allocated to movies in the drill hall.

Injured Persons Reported 'Good'

Three persons who were injured in an auto accident in Mineral County Sunday were reported in "good" condition at Memorial Hospital.

The accident occurred near the intersection of U. S. Routes 50 and 220 when the automobile in which the three were riding swerved off the highway and crashed into a tree.

Hurt was Alvin Pearce, 22, of McCoole, driver of the car; Blanche Markwood, 17, of Keyser; and Eva D. Wilks, McCoole.

Cresaptown Firemen Get Call To Home

Two trucks of the Cresaptown Volunteer Fire Company responded to a fire which was reported at the home of Harold Liller located about four miles south of that community along McMullen Highway.

However, firemen said the blaze was out when they arrived. They said a curtain in one of the rooms caught fire and it was extinguished by members of the family. The call was received about 5:13 p. m.

Two Senate Candidates Attack Administration

Long Charges U.S. 'Debauched Democracy

BALTIMORE (AP) — A Democratic candidate for the Senate today accused the Eisenhower administration of consenting to bans against the saying of Catholic masses or the presence of Jewish servicemen in Saudi Arabia.

Dr. Clarence D. Long, Johns Hopkins University economics professor who is seeking the Senate nomination, said in a statement that of all Middle East countries, Saudi Arabia is the greatest beneficiary of the American economy.

He noted that hundreds of servicemen are stationed at U.S. military bases in Saudi Arabia.

"Yet, our government has consented to the King of Saudi Arabia's conditions that no American of the Jewish faith should be stationed on Saudi Arabian soil and that no Catholic mass should be held within the Saudi borders.

"In this fashion," Long said, "our government has debauched to a despotic Oriental potentate a basic principle of American democracy: Namely that a person wearing the American uniform does so not as Jew, as a Catholic, or as a Protestant, but as an American, and should therefore be treated as an American.

Long said other Arab states, while not matching Saudi Arabia, have repeatedly excluded, arrested, molested, or interfered with the passage of Americans of the Jewish faith.

"Under a parallel situation in Czarist Russia," Long said "President William Howard Taft showed not the slightest hesitation in warning the government of Russia of the possibility of grave consequences as a result of descriminatory treatment of American citizens. But President Eisenhower and Secretary Dulles are quietly and meekly acquiescing in practices on the part of the Arab governments that besmirch the significance of the American passport and the content of the United States citizenship."

Long said American citizens of the Jewish faith are not the only victims of Arab discriminations. He said Catholic and Protestant Americans whose passports indicate that they have been to Israel are frequently denied entry into Arab states.

"Immediate steps must be taken to protect American citizenship from remaining the pawn of Oriental despotism and oil politics."

Group Of Doctors Endorse Bruce

BALTIMORE (AP)—James Bruce announced Monday 16 Maryland physicians have organized a "Physicians for Bruce Committee" to support his candidacy for the Democratic nomination to the U.S. Senate.

In a letter signed by Dr. James G. Arnold as chairman, the committee urged fellow doctors to support Bruce as a "man of many distinguished accomplishments in the fields of public service and free enterprise . . . He typifies in every way the kind of man we as individuals and as members of a high profession should make every effort to support . . . he can be relied upon to protect the interests of both the public and the medical profession in matters relative to social- medical legislation."

Bike Road-E-O Begins Thursday

FROSTBURG—Oliver G. Lewis, explorer advisor for Boy Scout Troop 42, has announced that registration for the Road-E-O scheduled for Saturday at 1 p.m. will be held Thursday and Friday from 3 to 7 p.m. at the police station.

Bicycles need not have license tags but must meet license requirements on brakes, horns, fenders, and lights. A small registration fee will be charged and will be used for prizes and trophies.

The Road-E-O is being sponsored by the City Police Department and the explorer crews of Troops 42 and 48.

Take Police Tests

The Cumberland Civil Service Commission last night gave examinations to six applicants for police positions. The tests were given in Fort Hill High School.

Mahoney Scores Farm Program Under Eisenhower

ST. MICHAELS, Md. (AP) — George P. Mahoney quoted from the Department of Agriculture's "burned book" Monday night in making a pitch for the Talbot County farm vote.

Mahoney, one of seven candidates for Maryland's Democratic senatorial nomination, said in a speech prepared for a party meeting that the Eisenhower Administration "did not dare let the people know what has happened to the farmers" of the nation.

He read what he said were excerpts from a congressional committee report on the controversial book prepared by the Agriculture Department, "Farm Population Estimates for 1957." The House Government Operations Committee found that the original 2,500 copies of the book were burned.

Among other things, the committee said the pamphlet disclosed that there are 4½ million fewer farmers on the land than there were in 1950.

"Here is the record of the Republican Administration's policy which has driven the farmer from the land and into the ranks of the army of unemployed which the Republicans have created in the cities," said Mahoney.

"It contains actual quotes from farm people describing what is happening in various parts of the country."

He then read this excerpt:

" 'Increasing numbers of small farmers are going out of business, with other farmers taking over their farms and tilling from one to six farms . . .'

" 'Do you know who said that?'

" 'It was a farmer right here in Talbot County.' "

Mahoney also took exception with the claim that Mayor Thomas D'Alesandro's nomination in the senatorial race would assure the rest of the Democratic ticket a big Baltimore vote in the November general elections."

"I received a larger vote from the people of Baltimore City (in his unsuccessful 1956 Senate bid) than any Republican or Democrat who ever ran for office," said Mahoney. "I know the people of the city well enough to be able to say that their votes cannot be 'delivered' by anyone."

Revival Opens At Ellerslie

ELLERSLIE—A former Cresaptown resident who "dreamed of preaching in a little church along a country road" is conducting revival services each evening through May 4 at 7:45 p.m. except Saturday, in Ellerslie Methodist Church.

Coming here is Rev. Edward Bradley Lewis, 38, a native of Frostburg and a graduate of Allegany High School, Cumberland.

Rev. Paul R. O'Brien is pastor of the host church.

Rev. Lewis was graduated with a bachelor of arts degree from American University, Washington, in 1945. He received a master of theology degree from Iliff School of Theology, Denver University, three years later.

In June, 1949 he was appointed pastor of Union Methodist Church (Missionary Extension Society), Washington, and chaplain of George Washington University.

Rev. Lewis was invited in 1951 to travel through 12 European countries in connection with a seminar program. At present he is vice president of the Washington Ministerial Association.

Club To Meet

The Ladies Club of St. Ambrose Church, Cresaptown, will meet at 7:30 tomorrow in the church social center. Committees for the pork chop and fried chicken dinner will be named. The dinner will be May 4 from noon until 6 at the church.

Supper Tonight

The Ladies Auxiliary of American Legion Post 209 will hold a ham supper today from 4 until 7 in the Cresaptown Eagles home. Proceeds are to help pay expenses for the new honor roll.

"Well, you look like you've had a good day!"

It's never too early, Miss Teen, to begin to discover yourself.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Not A Type—An Original

Young girls who come to the Powers school aspiring to be models sometimes bring with them a very false idea. They want to be a model of a certain type, want to copy a stand-out success whose face and figure they've seen on magazine covers, on fashion pages, or on the screen.

We waste no time changing this impression. The charm-and-beauty goal any girl must set for herself must be her own. She must start from the beginning to realize the differences in herself, to make the most of them, to count on them for distinction.

You may not have model aspirations, Miss Teen, but the same is true for you. Don't try to wear the style of dress that looks so well on someone else when another style is more becoming to you. Don't repeat the stock phrases of your group's conversation if they don't seem natural to you, and at least add something of your own. Don't go along with just any activity because the gang does when you prefer spending your time some other way. No—don't make a point of being the odd one. Share the interests of the others that really interest you, and many of them will, but strike out for individuality when the spirit moves you, and if you alert yourself to your own true inclinations, it will.

A vivacious type may be the one you admire; but on you, constant vivacity may not look natural. The languid beauty may seem to be very much in fashion; but if you're bubbling over with high spirits, you'll never be more than a poor copy of her. Don't look for a type to emulate—don't be a type at all. Be the original and only of the personality you know to be sincerely you.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, April 28—(INS)—Over the breakfast table—my only free time—Danny Winkler told me about his new project in conjunction with the noted author, Frederick Wakeman. Danny and Wakeman will bring to the screen "The Wastrel," which Wakeman wrote in 1949.

This is one of the few of Wakeman's novels that hasn't heretofore been made into a motion picture. His "Deluxe Tour," "The Hucksters," "Shore Leave" were all eagerly bid on by film producers. Curiously enough, "The Wastrel" was sold to Italian producer Marcel Gervasi for $25,000. Wakeman bought it back and paid $40,000 for his own story.

Michael Cacoyannis, the Greek director who directed "Stella" and "Girl In Black," has been signed to direct "The Wastrel," which will be filmed in Bermuda.

When Allen Reisner called to say that he leaves for Ireland in a week to direct "The New Gassoon" with Richard Basehart, I told him how much I envy him. Ireland in May is delightfully cool and the people delightfully warm.

"Films have been shot on location in Ireland before," Allen said. "But we are the first to build sound stages and we plan to do the interiors as well as the exteriors there."

I asked Allen about his hot-and-cold romance with English actress Glynis Johns. Apparently it's warm again after a blow-up. "Glynis is now in Hollywood," he told me. "But she may join me later. I'll be gone for five months."

The surprising news that Queen Elizabeth will not appear at the annual command performance left Hollywood wondering what it is all about. Since 1946 some member of the royal family has put in an appearance at this affair.

According to London information, Queen Elizabeth sent her letter to J. Arthur Rank in his capacity as head of the Cinematography Trade Benevolent Foundation. She did not say that in future years she would not appear. She merely said this year she could not be present, and a similar letter went to Variety Club. There certainly couldn't have been anything unpleasant last year at the command performance because the queen sent a congratulatory letter on "Les Girls." Whatever the reason, it's too bad it happened, since today as never before, good relations between the two countries are important.

Jerry Lewis made a personal call to Cathy Crosby (Bob's daughter, not Bing's wife) to tell her that there is a part for her in his next, "The Geisha Boy."

Cathy's romance with an older man, which had so distressed her parents, is completely on ice. Perhaps she is still carrying a little torch, but she is an ambitious girl, she's very young, and if the right opportunities keep coming her way her career will occupy more of her attention than an unhappy romance.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

Mrs. Jack Warner arrived in town yesterday and all of us are glad to have her home again.

You cannot talk to Sam Spiegel now. He was given the flag that flew over Washington that day by Mrs. Richard Nixon at the Little Cabinet luncheon at which Sam was the guest of honor. He thinks more of it than his Oscar.

Handsome Pat De Cicco, formerly actor's agent and now successful owner of a catering business, will operate the new restaurant concession at Desilu Studio.

Monica and Jennings Lang postcard from Rome where they are having a belated honeymoon. In Germany Monica sang for the armed forces.

Vera Miles and Gordon Scott, who are Silky Sullivan fans, plan to go to the Kentucky Derby to see him run.

That's all today. See you tomorrow!

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market backed away from high ground for the year Monday in a late decline.

Prices were mixed or a shade higher until selling got under way in the final half hour.

Some leading stocks closed fractions to a point or so lower. Gains were mostly under a point.

Drugs, building materials and chemicals clung to gains in selective trading. Steels, oils and metals were knocked down in the late selling, which left motors mixed.

Turnover slipped to 2,400,000 shares compared with the 3,020,000 shares in Friday's advance.

Brokers generally attributed the performance in the final half hour to technical factors. The day's news was mostly bearish. Several concerns cut dividends and a congressional committee received a fairly gloomy appraisal of the economic outlook.

Wall Street noted that there were more signs Washington would be reluctant to reduce taxes.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks fell 50 cents from its 1958 high to $166.60. Industrials were down 50 cents, rails 80 cents and utilities 30 cents.

Of 1,190 stocks traded 494 declined, 444 rose and 252 closed unchanged. One hundred thirty eight issues touched new highs for the year and 7 made lows.

Boy, 17, Tells Jury How He Stabbed Father

Testimony Ends In Murder Trial

A 17-year-old Elk Garden, W. Va., boy, on trial in Mineral County Circuit Court at Keyser for the fatal stabbing of his father, testified yesterday he was afraid his mother would be hurt in a family argument before the stabbing.

Joseph E. Paugh is charged with murder of his father, Clarence Paugh, 58. Authorities said a hunting knife was used in the stabbing.

Testimony in the case was completed by 4:15 p. m. yesterday. This morning, Mineral County Prosecutor Donald Hott and Defense Attorneys H. G. Shores, Howard Shores and John Hamilton will give their closing arguments.

Judge Ernest A. See will then instruct the jury before it gets the case.

Recounts Stabbing

The defendant told the jury of seven women and five men that his mother and father had been quarreling on March 31 at the Paugh home.

He said that some time ago his mother had had his father arrested and placed under peace bond due to previous family squabbles. On the day of the fatal stabbing, young Paugh said, his father had threatened him and his mother.

During the argument, the youth testified, he went into the dining room, then stood in the kitchen doorway sharpening the knife with a file.

The father, he said, pushed him against the kitchen wall. When his father turned and faced the mother, the youth stabbed his father in the back. Later, he called State Police, who placed him under arrest.

Young Paugh also testified that his mother had picked up a poker to protect herself after the senior Paugh struck her.

Others Testify

Trooper Charles Oliver said he investigated the case and found the knife used in the stabbing and that there was blood on the blade to within two inches of the handle.

The youth's mother and his sister, Mrs. Alma Paugh of Elk Garden, also took the stand. The mother testified that the beating inflicted by her husband had been worse than in the past.

The daughter told the jury her father had threatened her mother on the day of the stabbing. She had been visiting her parents that day.

Also testifying yesterday were Ralph Evans, 16, who had been visiting the Paugh home, and Thomas Hickey.

Law Day Observance Set By County's Magistrates

Trial Magistrates of Allegany County will join students of public and parochial schools and police officials of various communities Thursday at 10 a. m. in observance of Law Day.

Magistrate J. Milton Dick, president of the Trial Magistrates Association, will preside over the program, which will be held in the County Building on Union Street and will be called to order by Chief Clerk Clarence Valentine.

Following the invocation by either Rev. William R. Snyder, pastor of St. Luke's Lutheran Church, or Rev. Arthur W. Bastress, assistant pastor at St. Patrick's Catholic Church, Magistrate Dick will speak of the purpose of the observance.

Other speakers scheduled to address the group are State's Attorney James S. Getty; Assistant State's Attorney Donald W. Mason who formerly was a trial magistrate; James Alfred Avirett, president of the Allegany County Bar Association; and Magistrate Morris Baron.

After the official observance of Law Day which has been proclaimed throughout the nation by President Eisenhower and in Maryland by Gov. Theodore R. McKeldin, the school students will sit in on actual trials to be held Thursday in Trial Magistrates Court.

Invitations have been extended the Board of Education to send at least two student representatives from each county high school along with faculty advisors to attend the session. Also invited to participate have been LaSalle High School, St. Mary's High, Ursuline Academy and Catholic Girls Central High.

Transportation will be provided for students of the public schools, who will be picked up at their schools at 9 a.m. Thursday. Police chiefs of Lonaconing, Westernport and Frostburg will provide the transportation for students of Beall, Valley and Bruce; State Police will escort the pupils from Mt. Savage High; and the Board of Education will supply the transportation for Allegany and Fort Hill.

Two Forestry Camp Escapees Are Held Here

Two 16-year-old Baltimore inmates of a state forestry camp for boys near Lonaconing are being held in detention quarters of the Allegany County Infirmary after their escape from the camp over the weekend.

Magistrate Fred H. Anderson said Juvenile Court will waive jurisdiction in the case of the two boys, who face charges of unauthorized use of an automobile.

Tfc. Glenn Folk of the State Police said the two boys were apprehended in Lonaconing when they were thwarted in an attempt to steal a car there. Their capture climaxed a series of thefts and runaways from the forestry camp last week, he added.

One of the Baltimore boys, along with a third boy from Prince Georges County, was brought to the camp last Wednesday.

Several hours after their arrival the two transferees from a training school slipped away from the camp and stole an automobile belonging to an Avilton storekeeper.

The vehicle later was found abandoned in Hagerstown, police said, and the two boys were picked up at the home of the one in Prince Georges County.

Returned here by the director of the forestry camp, they were tried on charges of unauthorized use before Magistrate Charles S. Zeller in Grantsville on Saturday. Sentence was withheld and the two were returned to the camp.

Sunday the Baltimore youth joined with another camp member from Baltimore and the two ran away from the camp, attempting to take another car in Lonaconing, where they were apprehended by Trooper Robert Dishong.

A hearing for the two boys has been scheduled before Magistrate Morris Baron in Trial Magistrates Court on Thursday on the state motor vehicle charges.

Pennsylvanian Is Killed In Farm Accident

A funeral service was held yesterday for a Bedford area farmer and railroad worker who died of burns Saturday afternoon when the tractor he was operating overturned and pinned him underneath, the gasoline igniting.

The victim was Harry Miller, 60, of New Enterprise, RD, who was alone in a field at the time of the accident. He was using a disc harrow to plow.

While going up a steep grade, the tractor overturned and fell back upon him. His wife saw the smoke from the house and investigated.

Dr. Richard Bulger was summoned but Mr. Miller was dead when the physician arrived. A native of New Enterprise, RD, the victim was born March 7, 1898, a son of Charles and Esther (Croft) Miller.

In 1918 he was married to the former Bertha Fisher. He worked in the railroad shops in Hollidaysburg during the week, farming during weekends.

He is survived by his wife and a number of nieces and nephews. A funeral service was held yesterday afternon in the Holsinger Church of the Brethren.

Burial was in the church cemetery.

Man Loses Part Of Ear In Fight

A local man lost the lobe of his ear in a fight with another man or Saturday, and authorities said yesterday the ear was bitten off by his opponent.

Both men were fined $10 and cost in Police Court yesterday by Magistrate Morris Baron, who said they were charged with disorderly conduct and disturbing the peace.

The injured man was treated by a doctor and appeared in court yesterday with his head swathed in bandages. The fight apparently stemmed from a long-standing fued between the two men, Magistrate Baron said.

Suggests Street Name

Forest Edge was suggested yesterday by Mrs. Clyde S. Runion, 912 Piedmont Avenue, as the name for a street started on Piedmont Avenue opposite Ashland Avenue. The request was referred to the City Engineer and Street Department.

34 Warned About Fires

Forest guards and supervisors have given written warnings to some 34 Western Marylanders during April for violating the state's burning regulations, according to District Forester William H. Johnson.

These fires all were under control but in each case it still was a technical violation of the regulations. A summons will be issued to any of these persons on second offense, requiring them to appear in court.

Rain over the weekend has removed temporarily the threat of forest fires but a strong wind soon can dry the underbrush and make a good place for fire to start. The warnings went to 17 in Allegany County, 15 in Garrett County and two in western Washington County.

Until all foliage has become quite green there will continue to be a danger of fire. The months of March, April and May are set aside as the spring controlled burning months.

The Salvation Army Advisory Board yesterday gave unanimous approval to the purchase of 23 lots in Southview Addition for $12,400 for a new site for the South Cumberland Corps.

The present building at 511 Virginia Avenue is in a bad state of repair and part of the property will be needed by the State Roads Commission for the industrial highway segment of the Cumberland Thruway.

Captain Daniel K. Biggs, commander of the Citadel, now will forward the proposal to divisional and territorial headquarters for final action. If the final approval is forthcoming part of the new tract may be developed for use this summer as a ball diamond and for other recreational activities.

Enough land has been optioned between Somerville and Blackiston avenues near the Jane Frazier Village for a chapel, quarters for officers and such outdoor facilities as a baseball diamond and playground.

At yesterday's board meeting, James S. Getty was elected to membership on the board.

Financial statements for both the Salvation Army Citadel and South Cumberland Corps were submitted and they showed each institution had more income than expenditures in the first quarter of 1958.

The citadel's income totalled $7,173.58 in the first three months of 1958 and the expenditures reached $6,910.48. The income included $5,399.99 from the United Fund, $352.84 in contributions and $1,420.75 in operating income. Expenses of $6,910.48 included $2,748.52 for salaries and kages, $963.60 for building and equipment, $874.16 for communications and transportation and $2,324.20 for service and activities.

At the South Cumberland Corps, income for three months was $4,131.59 and expenses reached $3,791.69. The income included $2,199.99 from the United Fund, $6 in contributions and $1,925.60 in operating income.

Expenditures in the first quarter included $1,619.95 for salaries and wages, $815.61 for building and equipment maintenance, $432.42 for communications and transportation and $923.71 for service and activities.

Tomorrow Is Deadline For Old Truck Tags

Tomorrow is the last day that trucks, taxicabs, school buses and other vehicles of that type can be driven on the old Maryland license tags which expire at midnight April 30.

The office of Tax Collector J. Wallace Close at the Court House sells tags for privately-owned trucks and farm trucks. So far during April about 1,500 sets of truck tags have been sold at the Court House and some 60 sets of farm vehicle tags.

Mr. Close's office also has sold about 1,400 sets of automobile tags during April despite the fact that March 31 was the deadline for use of the old auto tags. Apparently a good many cars have just been stranded until their owners dig up enough money to purchase license plates.

Charter Change Is Opposed In Westernport

Petition Is Filed For Referendum

A petition for a referendum on a proposed change in the Westernport City Charter to go into effect on May 8 was filed yesterday by Jake Wilson, Westernport service station operator.

The charter amendment, unanimously adopted by the Mayor and Council of Westernport, would enable the town to participate in the waste treatment program planned in that area. It would give the council authority to enter into an agreement with the Upper Potomac River Commission to establish an interceptor sewer system connecting with the waste treatment plant now planned at Luke.

The petition was filed with the City Clerk yesterday, the final day for such action to be taken against the amendment which had been approved on March 19 by the town council.

If valid, the petition containing 500 signatures will force a referendum vote on the charter amendment at the biennial city election on May 27.

Signatures of 20 per cent of the town's 1,150 registered voters are required to force a referendum. City Attorney Horace P. Whitworth Sr. will check the 500 signatures against the city's registration books to determine if they are valid.

Mayor Okey Michael said the council will accept the attorney's opinion on the validity of the signatures on the petition. If the required number are verified the referendum will be placed on the ballot for the city election.

The charter change is necessary, Mayor Michael said, if the town is to participate in the use of the waste treatment facilities to be built by the river commission at Luke.

Bids were opened on April 8 by the UPRC for the construction of the sewage treatment plant, but the commission has not yet accepted any of the bids. In addition to Westernport, the communities of Luke and Piedmont plan to participate in the program along with the primary backer, West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company.

Candidates Told Posters Must Come Off Poles

Police Chief R. Emmet Flynn is calling attention to the fact that the City of Cumberland, by Chapter 14, Section 14, of its general ordinances, prohibits the posting of bridges and light poles with any poster or other announcement.

The penalty for violation of the ordinance is a fine of $1 to $10 for each offense.

Chief Flynn said he would like particularly to call this to the attention of candidates for various public offices who may be unaware that such a law exists. He further requested that those who may have allowed political posters to be put up take them down.

He said he has received a number of complaints in recent days that such posting has been done in the city.

Doctors Invited To Attend Dental Meeting

Oral Surgeon Is Lecturer

Area physicians have been invited to attend a dinner meeting of the Allegany-Garrett County Dental Society tomorrow at the Cumberland Country Club to hear a talk by a noted oral surgeon.

The specialist is Col. Robert B. Shira of the Army Dental Corps. He is chief of oral surgery at Walter Reed Army Hospital, Washington.

Dr. Albert C. Eskin, president of the dental society, said physicians who will be unable to attend the 6:30 p. m. dinner will be welcome at Col. Shira's lecture, which is expected to start at about 8 p. m.

Subject of Col. Shira's lecture will be "Diagnosis of Soft Tissue Lesions of the Oral Cavity."

Col. Shira, a 1932 graduate of Kansas City Western Dental College, is a member of the American Dental Association, American Society of Oral Surgeons, American Academy of Oral Pathology, and an honorary member of the Northern California Society of Oral Surgeons and of the South eastern Society of Oral Surgeons.

Spring Colds Hurt Blood Donations

Low physical resistance after a hard winter, plus the holiday spirit following Easter, are considered contributing factors to the failure of Cumberland to meet its quota in the Allegany County Blood Program during March and April.

Concerned Red Cross officials, announcing next Monday's visit of the Johnstown Bloodmobile here, said many scheduled donors failed to put in an appearance for the last two blood collections.

The Bloodmobile will be at the Eagles Home, North Mechanic Street, from noon till 6 p. m. Monday, and at the VFW Home at Lonaconing Tuesday from noon till 6 p. m.

"Undoubtedly, many people suffered from colds, sinus and virus infections that kept them home during March," said Mrs. Norman W. Taylor, Red Cross recruitment chairman. "The April collection, falling on Easter Monday, probably caught many donors in a relaxed frame of mind."

Cumberland's quota is set at a bare minimum to meet existing needs for fresh blood at local hospitals, Red Cross officials said, and added that failure to meet the quota endangers the supply needed for sickness and accident victims. Cumberland fell 17 pints short of its 150-pint quota in March, and 27 pints short in April.

The monthly quota system is necessary, RC officials pointed out, since blood remains fresh for only 21 days, and after that can only be used for making blood derivatives.

All scheduled donors are urged to be on hand for next Monday's collection, and new donors between the ages of 18 and 60 are especially requested to take part.

Former Oakland Woman Drowns

MORGANTOWN (AP) — Monongalia County Coroner Clinton Cairney ruled Monday that a woman found in the Monongahela River took her own life and was the victim of drowning.

The victim was identified as Mrs. Ada E. Mason, 50, of Morgantown Route 6. She was a native of Oakland, Md. The woman's husband is Roy A. Mason.

Dr. M. L. Hobbs, a pathologist at West Virginia University, reported that an autopsy disclosed no foul play.

Mrs. Mason was found in the river near Granville, across the Monongahela from Morgantown.

RCIA President Explains Procedure

The president of the Retail Clerks International Association, AFL-CIO, has informed The Cumberland News that Local 886 was placed under trusteeship last year because the RCIA had to subsidize the newly amalgamated Cumberland area local.

James A. Suffridge, RCIA president, wrote a News reporter that time has proved the procedure to be appropriate as the local union has grown in size, improved contracts between its members and their employers and has become generally self-supporting.

Details of the background and operation of the local under international trusteeship were included in a letter from Mr. Suffridge in response to a query after The News learned the local was being operated under trusteeship.

Mr. Suffridge said that on March 1, 1957, RCIA Locals 654 and 886 amalgamated and became one local union after the executive boards and general memberships of both locals voted for amalgamation.

Local Subsidized

After the vote, the amalgamation was accomplished by transferring all members of Local 654 into Local 886. Coincidentally, Mr. Suffridge explained, Local 886 was placed under International trusteeship and an experienced, full time representative was appointed as business representative and acting secretary-treasurer.

This procedure, he said, was necessary under the circumstances as the International Union found it necessary to subsidize the newly amalgamated local in the amount of $50 a week, plus certain expenses, in order that the best interests and welfare of the membership be best served.

After stating that "time has proven this procedure to be appropriate," Mr. Suffridge added that trusteeship also enables the International Association to require weekly itemized reporting on the part of local representatives and is calculated to stimulate more activity and responsibility on the representatives' part due to supervision.

Add Second Agent

"As further proof of the growth of Local 886, during this period of time, the Local, with the assistance of the International Association, on April 7, 1958, employed the second full-time man, William R. Hartman, on behalf of Local 886. We anticipate in this connection further financial assistance, if necessary, in order that the Local improves its position."

Mr. Hartman, president of the local since 1950, will work with Norman L. Tyrie, business agent and acting secretary-treasurer.

Mr. Suffridge said the International Association examines the trusteeship procedure periodically and restores full autonomy as soon as a local union becomes ready for it.

He said the constitution provides that bodies in trusteeship have the right to petition for removal of trusteeship at intervals of not less than six months.

Any such petition must first be voted by a majority of the local union or other subordinate body and then filed with the International president, who must then hold another hearing.

"At no time since March 1, 1957, has Local 886, either officially or unofficially requested the removal of the said supervision," Mr. Suffridge concluded.

Area Teamsters To Hear Contract Report

Bedford area members of Local 453, Teamsters Union, will meet in Bedford Sunday at 4 p. m. to act on a contract offer, according to C. E. Stutzman, business agent.

The union, he said, will meet with the companies employing some 800 drivers and 150 garage workers in Pittsburgh on Thursday.

The proposals made by the company, he added, will be placed before the workers for acceptance or rejection.

The present contract covering the workers is due to expire June 1.
